HALF-BILLION U. S. SLASH ASKED

Today

Eeney, Meeney, Miney.
Great Medical School.
The Only Just War.
Useful Wood Rats.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HUTCHINSON, Kan., March 10.

"Eeney, meeney, miney, mo.
Catch a nigger by the toe.
When he hollers let him go.
Eeney, meeney, miney, mo."

Any financial "nigger" caught by the toe promptly "hollers," they let him go, and try some other toe.

Soon our "best minds" will decide what should be done for the good of all. Then you will know whether you put in, take out, or do neither.

AMERICANS AS a nation have never learned to "holler."

Patient, they sit, taking things as they come, whatever is dealt to them. It is not so with England, France or Germany. In those countries you hear from the people quickly when things go wrong.

TO YESTERDAY'S notes on the University of California, it is desirable to add a few words on the university's school of medicine.

This institution for protecting and prolonging human life was made possible by George William Hooper, pioneer California lumberman, who devoted a large fortune to the Hooper Foundation for Medical Research.

Every intelligent American, young doctors especially, might well travel three thousand miles to study the scientific work that goes on in laboratories where scientists perpetually wage the only decent war—against death, disease, suffering and ignorance.

THE HEAD of the foundation, Dr. Karl Meyer, native of Switzerland, would make his mark in any kind of war. His steel-gray eyes can look through you or any other small problem. In former days he would have been a leader of armies, a great commander of avalry. Today, thanks to Providence, he is a distinguished soldier in the army of science.

War that murders men is divided into many branches of killing, and the war of science that conquers disease, and postpones death has many branches.

Dr. Meyer at this moment is engaged in work on botulism, the disease that causes death from canned goods and has now been eliminated; on infantile paralysis; on tularemia, found most frequently in rabbits, spread among human beings by the deer fly, wood tick and mosquito that bite the rabbit, or parrot fever, strange disease that parrots, and especially small parrakeets, seem to send out with their breath.

DR. H. BECKS and others concentrate on the nature and possible arrest or cure of progressive, incurable deafness, that is the curse of so many lives.

Dr. E. L. Walker works at isolation of the organism that causes leprosy, a disease that fortunately disappears largely with cleanliness.

The Hooper Foundation is in San Francisco. Across the bay, in Berkeley, Dr. Herbert M. Evans, discoverer of the important Vitamin E, studies the complexities, hormones, etc., of the pituitary gland. Every doctor knows how important that is.

THIS ADMIRABLE medical research, part of the scientific work of the University of California, has contributed such valuable medical adjuncts as methylene blue, for carbon monoxide and cyanide poisoning; carbarsone, for the treatment of amoebic infections of the human intestinal tract, and a new anaesthetic, better than chloroform, ether or the gases. Doctors that dread the acidosis and other ill effects that follow anesthesia will welcome this news.

The dean of the university's medical school, Dr. Langley Porter, supervises and encourages all of this important research work.

AT BERKELEY, a serious young woman cares for and observes wood rats, separately caged, that shelter germs of a sleeping sickness common in Brazil, that may spread wherever wood rats travel.

Sleeping sickness has killed millions in tropical Africa, where it is supposed by some to have originated in the blood of the crocodile. The tse-tse fly plants the germ in the blood of men and animals. Brazil's sleeping sickness is as bad as the other, but fortunately wood rats and other possible carriers of the disease do not fly around and bite indiscriminately.

ADMIRABLE ARE the University of California and all the fine public schools of that intelligent state.

It is to be hoped that California will set a good example to other states, refusing to let any part of the "economy program" interfere with educational efficiency. For the information of the "practical minded," it may be mentioned that California's university pays for itself and will pay, ten times over.

Work done in its laboratories has increased by more than twenty-five million dollars the yearly income of California dairies. Such work saves citrus orchards, improves cultivation and irrigation methods, creates a better human race. The state that has the best education will remain at the head of the procession, and the wisest line among old Talmudic writings is this one:

"Jerusalem was destroyed because the schools were neglected."

Fine highways are admirable, and great public buildings. But nothing is important when compared to universities and public schools, their faculties and teachers.

On them the future depends.

DR. SHELTON ROBBED IN CHURCH

Pastor, Girl Secretary, Janitor Bound by Two Bandits

Held up by two gunmen in the Second Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor of the church, was hurled to the floor, bound to the janitor and forced to watch the gunmen bind his secretary, Miss Marion B. Jennings, to a chair. All were gagged with handkerchiefs. The robbers fled with $300.

Two well-dressed gunmen staged the robbery at 11 o'clock this morning after waiting an hour for the minister's appearance in the church in Eighth street, below Penn avenue, and opposite a fire engine house.

They had followed Dr. Shelton into the church. As he returned from the wash room he was confronted by the robbers with drawn guns.

"Hands up. Not a word. We're not going to molest you. Do as we say. We want your money."

THREE BOUND

The younger bandit slipped his gun into his pocket and pulled out a lot of sash cord. Dr. Shelton was ordered to the center of the room. There he was pushed to the floor.

As one robber bound the pastor, the janitor, David Pingree, entered. He was bound to Dr. Shelton. Then they bound the secretary to a chair. All were gagged.

The outer door of the safe was open, but the inner doors were locked. They asked for the keys and being informed they were on a desk, they opened the inner doors, took out $300, of which $90 belonged to Dr. Shelton. A large portion of the fund was for charity purposes.

Miss Jennings moved her chair around until she was able to pick up a pair of shears from her desk. With them she severed her bonds, then released the others.

Dr. Shelton said:

"I thought it was a joke. I had just come and was waiting for a friend. I heard a rather mild voice say, 'Dr. Shelton, this is a holdup.' I still thought it was a joke, but I looked into the barrels of two guns. I realized it was a holdup and we did everything they ordered us to do."

CHURCH SEARCHED

Detectives summoned believed the robbers were in the church and searched it.

Miss Jennings said the older of the two had appeared earlier and inquired for Dr. Shelton, leaving when told he would return in an hour.

When Dr. Shelton was thrown to the floor, his shoulder was bruised. He went to detective headquarters to view pictures in the rogues' gallery, but could not identify his assailants there. One of three handkerchiefs used as gags was initialed "C. B. F."

R. E. Lindsay, an assistant to Dr. Shelton, was working at a desk in the Sunday School room only a few feet away from the office where the holdup took place.

Sentence Zangara To Die

International News Service.

MIAMI, March 10.—Giuseppe Zangara today was sentenced to death on his plea of guilty to first degree murder for the shooting of Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, in an attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt.

Judge Uly O. Thompson decreed the Italian bricklayer must die in the electric chair at the Raiford State Prison, but did not set the date. Gov. Dave Sholtz will name the date and hour of execution.

The Chicago Mayor, shot down by Zangara in Bayfront Park February 15 during a welcoming celebration to President Roosevelt, succumbed to his wound March 6 after an amazing 19-day battle against a score of malignant maladies.

SHOWS NO EMOTION

As the judge intoned the death sentence in slow, measured words, Zangara showed no trace of emotion, displaying the same air of nonchalance he has maintained since his arrest.

A slow smile spread over his swarthy countenance.

Zangara remained stolidly silent as sentence was pronounced but as his guards closed in and he

BANKERS HERE SEEK LICENSES

Pittsburgh bankers rushed to apply for licenses to reopen their doors without restrictions following the announcement made by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin early this afternoon, outlining the procedure to be followed by sound banks.

Previous to the ruling that banks to reopen must secure licenses through their Federal Reserve district, bankers here were unable to act because of uncertainty regarding the steps to be taken.

At the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland it was said that local banks must file applications along with a statement of their condition at the main office at Cleveland. No applications are being accepted at the branch office in this city.

UP TO CHIEFS

The impression among bankers here is that the decision on the banks which may open rests with the governors of each Federal Reserve district, subject, of course, to approval at Washington.

Meanwhile, it was learned that state banks not members of the Reserve system will reopen under

Care Used in Permit Grants; Applications Are Filed Here

Outstanding developments in the banking situation today were:

1—Federal Reserve member banks are to apply to the Treasury for licenses to reopen.

2—State banks must receive permission from state authorities.

3—Lists of banks to re open are being prepared at Washington with great care.

4—Pittsburgh banks are filing applications.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—An executive order designed to speed the opening of the nation's banks under close supervision of the Treasury was issued today by President Roosevelt.

Under the order, the Secretary of the Treasury was given authority to issue licenses to Federal Reserve member banks to reopen. Applications for the licenses are to be filed with the district Federal Reserve banks.

State banks, not members of the Federal Reserve, will be allowed by Secretary Woodin to reopen after obtaining approval from th proper state banking authorities. His plan was outlined in a statement a little before he went to the White House with the executive order signed by the President.

The Treasury this afternoon began dispatch of numerous telegrams allowing banks to reopen, but no announcement was to be made here as to the names or locations or times.

At the Treasury, Secretary Woodin and a corps of assistants were continuing their work of checking and rechecking the list

Puppy Helps Roosevelts Ban White House Gloom

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—The Roosevelts have done something to Washington—the President and Mrs. Roosevelt both.

This is a world capital. Of a democratic nation, of course, but nevertheless a staid, tradition-bound capital. Five days in its midst and these two have very nearly turned the scene upside down.

The President smiles, and laughs loud, hearty laughs, in the midst of troubles that would break many men. And in between he planks down detailed, terse plans to do things on a tremendous scale.

Mrs. Roosevelt, informal beyond words, turns up with her dog at the signing of a vital bank bill. It is a solemn occasion. The terrier barks. Instead of hushing it, Mrs. Roosevelt laughs and the President smiles too.

Congress meets, and up in the gallery is a hatless Mrs. Roosevelt, in shirtwaist and skirt, with a group of friends, busily knitting. She acknowledges surprise applause, but her knitting needles keep flying.

Vital conferences are going on within the columned White House. The President is expounding and arguing, convincing leaders of Congress of the necessity of steps which, under a less compelling personality and in a day of less urgent pressure, they would certainly duck. On the steps sit newspapermen, gaily singing, a presidential secretary setting the pitch, until midnight brings forth the conferees.

Roosevelt's Economy Message

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The text of President Roosevelt's message to Congress today on slashing government costs follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The nation is deeply gratified by the immediate response given yesterday by the Congress to the necessity for drastic action to restore and improve our banking system. A like necessity exists with respect to the finances of the government itself, which requires equally courageous, frank and prompt action.

For three long years the federal government has been on the road toward bankruptcy.

For the fiscal year 1931 the deficit was $462,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1932 it was $2,472,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1933 it will probably exceed $1,200,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1934, based on the appropriation bills passed by the last Congress and the estimated revenues, the deficit will probably exceed $1,000,000,000 unless immediate action is taken.

Thus we shall have piled up an accumulated deficit of $5,000,000,000.

With the utmost seriousness I point out to the Congress the profound effect of this fact upon our national economy. It has contributed to the recent collapse of our banking structure. It has accentuated the stagnation of the economic life of our people. It has added to the ranks of the unemployed. Our government's house is not in order and for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order.

Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States government rest the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of our agricultural products and the availability of employment. The credit of the United States government definitely affects these fundamental human values. It, therefore, becomes our first concern to make secure the foundation. National recovery depends upon it.

Too often in recent history liberal governments have been wrecked on rocks of loose fiscal policy. We must avoid this danger.

It is too late for a leisurely approach to this problem. We must not wait to act several months hence. The emergency is accentuated by the necessity of meeting great refunding operations this spring.

We must move with a direct and resolute purpose now. The members of the Congress and I are pledged to immediate economy.

I am, therefore, assuming that you and I are in complete agreement as to the urgent necessity, and my constitutional duty is to advise you as to the methods for obtaining drastic retrenchment at this time.

I am not speaking to you in general terms, I am pointing out a definite road.

The last Congress enacted legislation relating to the reorganization and elimination of executive agencies, but the economies thus to be effected are small when viewed in the light of the great deficit for the next fiscal year. They will not meet the pressing needs of our credit situation. Provision for additional saving is essential, and therefore I am asking the Congress today for new legislation laying down broad principles for the granting of pensions and other veteran benefits, and giving to the executive the authority to prescribe the administrative details. We are unanimous in upholding the duty of the government to care for those who suffer in its defense and for their widows and orphans.

The application, however, of this great principle to large numbers of people involves complications—so great that it is almost impossible to draw legislation with sufficient flexibility to provide substantial justice in varying situations. The proposed legislation states the principles and, limited by

F. R. TO CUT VET COSTS, SALARIES

President Moves for Balanced Budget Within Year

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—A silently intent Congress received from President Franklin D. Roosevelt today his second request for extraordinary powers, this time to slash veterans' costs and federal salaries approximately a half-billion dollars so a balanced budget might be attained within a year.

Simultaneously in Senate and House, the President's message was read, with the legislators hanging onto each word.

Determined dispute plainly was in the making as veterans' organizations flooded Congress with protests, but Democratic leaders professed confidence that Mr. Roosevelt would have his way, while not with the dispatch that marked yesterday's enactment of the banking law.

BILL DRAFTED

A bill for the new powers for the chief executive was being drafted under direction of Lewis Douglas, new Director of the Budget, who resigned today as a member of the House from Arizona. Once it was ready, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, was to sponsor it.

Immediately on hearing the Presidential message read the Senate recessed until tomorrow to allow completion of the legislation.

House Democratic leaders arranged to bind their great majority by caucus, with the aim of passing the bill by early next week.

TO ASK PADLOCK FOR MONACA

Padlock proceedings against the Monaca Club, that booze and gambling casino which operated across from the Oakland Police Station, will, after all, be started by the state attorney general's deputy, John D. Meyer. The suit probably will be filed next week.

It has not been determined whether the suit will name as proprietors the three Toms—Goslin, Dolan, Coyne—who have been indicted. The lease for the club was signed in the offices of the Oakland Real Estate Company, in which Senator James J. Coyne is an officer, according to testimony.

Cold Wave Stays, Low of 15 Likely

Another frigid blast is predicted for Pittsburgh tonight. Temperatures between 10 and 15 were indicated, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said this morning. It will continue fair.

The mercury dropped to 11 at 7 o'clock this morning and remained for an hour, while the city was whipped by a 30-mile-an-hour wind. Tomorrow the mercury will rise.

An Adequate Reply to a Great Responsibility

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT continues to move in the banking crisis with sure steps and a clear sense of his objectives.

His message to Congress at the opening of the special session said all that need be said at the moment and all that could be said at this stage of the remedial process.

The President asked and received from Congress a grant of the requisite power to make effective immediately the measures upon which expert judgment finds it possible to agree.

The first task, as the President said, is to reopen all sound banks. The resumption of business waits upon this. There must be no delay that can be avoided—not even the delay of forced resort to Congress for the validation of each decision as it is reached.

For this reason the only intelligent course was to clothe the Executive with the requisite power so that the ability to act is already created and in existence, ready for each step as the point is reached where action is possible.

Of course, as the President reminded Congress, no one in the short space of five days can formulate completed measures to prevent the recurrence of the evils of the past.

A radically altered banking system should not be forged in haste. To be good, it must be fashioned with care. Hasty decisions, reached under pressure and not weighed and examined, are apt to prove faulty decisions.

The complete interruption, however, of the nation's business through the withdrawal of all banking facilities calls for the promptest relief. Such relief can be worked out with the banking facilities already in existence and at the President's service under the powers now given him.

The President's message sustained the impression he has already made upon the nation of complete adequacy to the great responsibilities which have been put upon him.

After the dullness and inertia of the administration just closed, it is inspiring to see how a man of ability and energy attacks problems, even the most stubborn and difficult; how he throws off non-essentials, hews to the lines, cuts through red tape and indecision, and moves swiftly and directly upon his goal.

It is also gratifying to note the absence from the scene in Washington of any representative of the American banking firm, with London connections, which acts as Great Britain's fiscal agents in this country. The new deal has apparently stilled its voice. Its counsels are not sought.

An American, self-confident and self-governed, with an American President in the White House, true to his country and its people, and caring for nothing else, is a very pleasant change indeed!

F. R. DIRECTS LICENSING OF BANKS

of banks that will be permitted to reopen.

Secretary Woodin said the most important of the physical difficulties to be overcome was that of getting new currency available to the banks so there would be no delay when they began to function.

MATTER OF FEW DAYS

Woodin added that under the circumstances it was obviously not possible to say just when the banking machinery would be operating again at full speed, but that it was certain this would be a matter of only a few days.

The Secretary's statement said:

"The reopening of the banking of the country is not to be accomplished in a few hours.

"In general, the process will be that the Secretary of the Treasury will receive through the Federal Reserve banks applications for reopening by banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System.

"These applications will be acted on forthwith.

"In case of the state banks it is provided that applications will be made to proper state authorities.

"The matter can not be rushed because we must insure that there are no mistakes made and that banks when reopened must be capable of remaining open.

NEW CURRENCY

"Certain physical difficulties must be overcome: the most important of these is the necessity of getting the new currency available to the banks in order that there will be no delay when they begin to function.

"Under the orders of the Secretary of the Treasury theh banks have authority to disburse amounts required for such necessities as medicine and food and for taking care of payrolls and the maintenance of employment.

"All banks, including Federal Reserve Banks, have been authorized to co-operate in carrying out these relief disbursements.

"Under the circumstances it is obviously not possible to state now just when the banking machinery will be operating again at full speed, but it is certain that this will be a matter of only a few days at the farthest."

The latest presidential order—signed last night just a few hours before the restrictions would have become ineffective at midnight—was for a nation-wide holiday "until further proclamation," but indications were that the expanded currency would be available for a reopening on Monday.

McADOO MEASURE

This was closely followed by a bill by Senator McAdoo (Dem), of California, to protect depositors in Federal Reserve member banks against loss through failure or suspension of such institutions.

Vandenberg's bill would define what constitute time deposits, and provide a federal guarantee of them up to 75 per cent out of a fund collected by taxing deposits.

McAdoo, who was Secretary of the Treasury during the Wilson administration, proposed that a depositors' indemnity fund be created through assessments against member banks, to be administered by the Federal Reserve Board.

In the House Representative Sinclair (Rep.), of North Dakota, called for the removal of limitations on postal savings deposits and for the establishment of a loan bureau to lend to individual borrowers and corporations upon a wide range of collateral.

He also called for the issue of legal tender notes by the Secretary of the Treasury and prescribed punishment for those who discriminate against these notes in favor of gold.

Representative Cross (Dem.), of Texas, introduced a silver bill similar to that he proposed last session. Representative McGuicin (Rep.), of Kansas, proposed the regulation of the gold dollar, its weight to vary as the price of commodities varied.

A measure for the issuance of $3,000,000,000 in bonds to expand the volume of Federal Reserve notes and for the purchase and coinage of silver dollars until $1.000,000,000 have been minted, was introduced by Representative Mc Swain (Dem.), of North Carolina. Another for additional coinage of silver also was put forward by Representative McKeown (Dem.), of Oklahoma.

F. R. SEEKS ECONOMY POWER

handle Mr. Roosevelt's request for power to cut government expenses.

Speaking of the $5,000,000,000 federal deficit that has been piling up since 1931, President Roosevelt has said in his message that the situation was akin to that in connection with banking, in which he demanded "equally courageous, frank and prompt action."

In his appeal for dictatorial power to reduce veterans' costs and federal salaries, he promises that if Congress complies, "there is reasonable prospect" for a balanced budget within a year.

GOVERNMENT CREDIT

In his message, slightly longer than that record brief one of yesterday asking the banking law, the President based his argument for the new power on the importance of maintaining governmental credit, saying:

"Our government's house is not in order and for many reasons no effective action has been taken to restore it to order.

"Upon the unimpaired credit of the United States government rest the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprises, the value of our agricultural products and the availability of employment. The credit of the United States government definitely affects these fundamental human values. It, therefore, becomes our first concern to make secure the foundation. National recovery depends upon it."

As to salary cuts for Federal employes, the President sought repeal of the present furlough plan and proposed a flexible authority for himself to adjust such compensation.

At the Capitol, Speaker Rainey told reporters the President expected to reduce government costs between six and seven hundred millions, if Congress gives him the authority sought.

PROGRAM FOR CUTS

As to the present $1,000,000,000 outlay annually for veterans, Mr. Roosevelt was said to expect to reduce it over $279,000,000; reduce salaries about $135,000,000, and to effect savings in reorganization of bureaus in excess of $200,000,000.

The new legislation, as recommended by Mr. Roosevelt, will lay down broad principles for pensions and other veterans' benefits, but will rest with him the important authority over administrative details. He will aim to slash costs caused by compensation for non-service connected disabilities. He said:

"We are unanimous in upholding the duty of the government to care for those who suffer in its defense and for their widows and orphans."

Permanently and totally disabled war veterans would be uninvolved. Also veterans whose disability is traceable to service origin would be kept on the payrolls. The President would be given full authority to fix the rates of compensation for all of the thousands of other veterans now receiving allowances who are not in these classifications.

The American Legion legislative headquarters here — headed by John Thomas Taylor—told newspapermen a statement giving that organization's position and plans would be issued later.

Most of the telegrams to senators called on them to oppose "hurried changes in the law reducing veterans' benefits, any reduction until the joint congressional committee reports and unalterable opposition to granting this dictatorial power to the President."

At the House of Representatives Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, proponent of veterans' benefits and cash payment of the bonus, told newsmen:

"We know certain cuts can be made, but we want them made by the Veterans' Committee which has been studying this problem and knows where reductions can be made with justice."

Representative McDuffie (Dem.), of Alabama, chairman of the joint congressional committee which has been investigating veterans' affairs, said he did not think the committee could report within the next two weeks, and that Congress probably "will have acted before then."

Senator Robinson (Rep.), of Indiana, expressed to reporters a hope that Congress would "refuse to give dictatorial power to the chief executive" to reduce veterans' costs. He said:

"These benefits represent vested rights that have been granted by Congress and only Congress can take them away."

Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, said:

"I am very glad to see him (the President) come out firmly in favor of balancing the budget."

Roosevelt Order Extending Bank Holiday

WHEREAS, On March 6, 1933, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, by proclamation declared the existence of a national emergency and proclaimed a bank holiday extending from Monday, the 6th day of March, to Thursday, the 9th day of March, 1933, both dates inclusive, in order to prevent the export, hoarding or earmarking of gold or silver coin, or bullion, or currency, or speculation in foreign exchange; and

WHEREAS, Under the act of March 9, 1933, all proclamations heretofore or hereafter issued by the President pursuant to the authority conferred by Section 5 (B) of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended, are approved and confirmed; and

WHEREAS, Said national emergency still continues, and it is necessary to take further measures extending beyond March 9, 1933, in order to accomplish such purposes;

NOW, Therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in view of such continuing national emergency and by virtue of the authority vested in me by Section 5 (B) of the act of October 6, 1917, do hereby proclaim, order, direct and declare that all the terms and provisions of said proclamation of March 6, 1933, and the regulations and orders issued thereunder are hereby continued in full force and effect until further proclamation by the President.

ROOSEVELT JOB PROGRAM GETS AID IN HOUSE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—An intensive drive to balance the federal budget and enlist unemployed in semi-military camps was described today by Democratic leaders as the twin objective of President Roosevelt.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey said an effort will be made to pass the emergency program through Congress by next Wednesday.

A House caucus probably will be called for tomorrow to bind Democrats to support the President's program.

The President hopes to immediately slash the cost of government to a possible maximum of $500,000,000 to $600,000,000.

Through a $500,000,000 bond issue as a beginning, he proposes to set up reforestation camps, where unemployed will be under the direction of Army officers and paid $1 a day and subsistence.

To accomplish the first plan the President asks Congress for authority to cut salaries of government workers and compensation a maximum of 15 per cent.

In the future, the President, using powers similar to those the executive now has in raising or lowering tariffs on recommendation of the Tariff Commission, will regulate salaries of government workers to accord with living costs—if Congress approves his plans. Rainey explained:

"A $500,000 bond issue to provide work for unemployed now congested in big cities will be urged. A corp of employes will be recruited from civil life, something like an army. They will enlist regularly, engage in reforestration and perhaps some reclamation. They will get not over $1 a day.

"It is expected that 500,000 men will eventually be put to work. Only $200,000,000 of the bond issue will be necessary this calendar year. The men can be discharged when they get better jobs or permitted to withdraw if they obtain other employment."

If the President is given the authority to cut expenses and a beer bill is passed the federal budget will be balanced, Rainey said.

Passage of the beer bill will follow a two or three weeks' recess if the President's emergency program is put through promptly, he said.

Text of Roosevelt's Message on Economy

In accord with the same purpose of substantial justice I request also the enactment of legislation relating to the salaries of civil and military employes of the government. This would repeal the existing furlough plan, substituting therefore a general principle and authorizing the executive to make application of this principle. The proper legislative function is to fix the amount of expenditure, the means by which it is to be raised and the general principles under which the expenditures are to be made. The details of expenditure particularly in view of the great present emergency can be more wisely and equitably administered through the executive. The flexibility of the measures which I am proposing is not only practical but proceeds along the road of constitutional government.

Such economies which can be made will, it is true, affect some of our citizens; but the failure to make them will affect all of our citizens. The very stability of our government itself is concerned and when that is concerned the benefits of some must be subordinated to the needs of all.

When a great danger threatens our basic security it is my duty to advise the Congress of the way to preserve it. In so doing I must be fair not only to the few but to the many. It is in this spirit that I appeal to you. If the Congress chooses to vest me with this responsibility it will be exercised in a spirit of justice to all, of sympathy to those who are in need and of maintaining inviolate the basic welfare of the United States.

I ask that this legislation go into effect at once without even waiting for the beginning of the next fiscal year. I give you assurance that if this is done there is reasonable prospect that within a year the income of the government will be sufficient to cover the expenditures of the government.

CITY TO PAY WORKERS CASH

Between 2,500 and 3,000 city employes will draw their pay in cash, beginning tomorrow, Paymaster Lewis Glesenkamp announced today. The paying will possibly continue over three or four days.

The payment comes after the money has been held up two weeks, at first by City Controller J. P. Kerr due to the questionable status of Charles H. Kline as Mayor, and later by the bank moratorium.

NEW F. R. BOMB FOUND IN MAIL

WATERTOWN, N. Y., March 10.—(INS.)—Postmaster George Hager, of Watertown, revealed today that a crudely fashioned bomb addressed to President Roosevelt had been intercepted by a mail clerk here last Monday. The bomb was similar to the one mailed to the President from Watertown on February 19, and intercepted in the Washington postoffice.

Investigation was made by Postal Inspectors C. E. Ford and E. B. Teagle. The inspectors refused to discuss the incident, but it was learned the bomb, exceedingly crude, would have done considerable damage had the package been opened in a careless manner.

As was the case with the bomb discovered in February, this, too, was a shotgun shell. This one, however, was regarded as far more dangerous.

Authorities admitted it was possible that the package had been sent by some youth seeking a thrill.

Phila. Banks Clear Checks With Scrip

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—(INS.)—Checks were cleared today in Philadelphia for the first time since declaration of the national bank holiday. Clearance of the checks was made possible through issuance of scrip.

All items received by member banks up to Friday, March 3, were cleared at the Philadelphia Clearing House Association quarters. Ordinarily, the checks would have been cleared Saturday, March 4.

BANKERS HERE SEEK LICENSE TO OPEN

much the same circumstances as banks connected with the Federal Reserve. Dr. William D. Gordon, Secretary of Banking, told International News Service in Harrisburgh that he is inclined to follow the lead of the Treasury Department.

State banks here, he said, have precisely the same permission to operate as the national banks have enjoyed for several days. Secretary Woodin, in Washington, said that the state banks not members of the Federal Reserve can open with permission of state authorities, at the end of the holiday.

A reading of the banking bill passed yesterday indicated that the President has powers to suspend the state in an emergency but has not authority to dictate the manner of their reopening.

Pittsburgh bankers today were compelled to continue their suspension of full banking operations by President Roosevelt's proclamation extending the bank holiday for an indefinite period.

During yesterday it was thought that the comptroller of the currency would notify strong banks to open their doors as soon as the President's bank bill was passed by Congress and signed.

Following a conference between the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, a new proclamation eliminated hopes of restoring normal banking conditions today.

TIME NEEDED

In local banking circles it is understood the delay was due to two factors.

First, more time was needed to draw up a complete list of the banks to be permitted to reopen without restrictions.

Second, the additional delay would give an opportunity for banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve System to meet the requirement for membership so that they can take advantage of the new borrowing and currency issuing privileges.

With more than 5,000 of the 5,900 member banks of the Federal Reserve System to be notified, it has been explained that failure to receive immediate notification is not necessarily a reflection on banks. The task of reviewing the condition of each bank is imposing a heavy strain on the staffs of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Secretary of the Treasury.

LATER NOTIFICATIONS

Banks not notified immediately may be notified to resume full operations later, to restrict withdrawals or to remain closed.

Meantime, local banks will continue to extend the limited services permitted under recent ruling from the Secretary of the Treasury. These functions include the cashing of payroll checks and drafts for the transportation of foods as well as the cashing of personal checks in emergency cases and the receipt of deposits in trust subject to immediate withdrawal but not to checking.

The passage of the President's bank bill dealt the final blow to plans for the issuance of scrip in the Pittsburgh district. While a supply of scrip has been printed, no national provisions has been made for its use. It may be utilized in some districts to meet particular local problems but no situation here will make the use of scrip necessary in view of the broadened powers of the Federal Reserve System to issue currency with bank assets as a basis, in the opinion of bankers.

RESERVES ADEQUATE

The general opinion here is that th extended powers will give sufficient elasticity to the Federal Reserve to meet all conditions. The last statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland for the week ended March 8, showed that the ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities stood at 40.9 per cent. This stood against a minimum requirement of 40 per cent and compared with a ratio a week ago of 55.6 per cent.

The decline reflects the heavy demands for currency and gold placed upon the system during the last days of bank operations. The new bank bill permits the issuance of a type of currency which is independent of the gold reserve.

Pittsburgh banks yesterday were able to eliminate most of the uncertainty which characterized the first limited operations under the rulings made by the Secretary of the Treasury early in the week.

A majority of payroll requirements were met. Drafts also were honored for shipments of foods and, in some cases, checks of individuals were cashed to provide for drugs and other necessities of life.

The Navy Is Again in the Hands of Its Friends

THE American Navy is to be built up to the full quota of ships and strength provided in the London naval treaty.

Why—of course!

No one with an ounce of patriotism or a trace of brains would think for a moment that the American people would sit idly by and suffer their Navy to lapse into inferiority and relative weakness.

That our Navy has been permitted to fall below, and much below, its quota strength was one of the gravest indictments against the now defunct Hoover administration.

THE people of the United States know what the Navy OUGHT TO BE. They know what they WANT IT TO BE. And they know only too well what it has COME TO BE under the unpardonable neglect of recent Republican administrations.

We are a maritime power. We have a place upon the sea. American interests are far flung. The United States has an interest as great as that of any other power in world order and the sway of justice among the nations.

If this great republic is to be heard in matters of broad importance or of vital concern to its interest and security, it must preserve the means of assertion and defense that become a nation determined to speak with effect and to be heard with attention.

NO WONDER that a Democratic Secretary of the Navy signalizes his assumption of office by the prompt announcement that the United States proposes to build its Navy up to the size, strength and effectiveness which world opinion concedes to be the right of the American nation.

The American people expected no less of the present Democratic administration. It expected no less of Secretary Swanson, with his lifetime of loyal service to the country and to the Democratic party.

In promptly rescuing the Navy from the retrogression and decline to which Republican unfaithfulness abandoned it, the Democratic administration will only be repeating Democratic history of the past.

LET us give thanks that the Navy is once more in the hands of its friends.

Secretary Swanson has truly spoken for the heart of the country. He has given voice to its wishes and its hopes.

NOW FOR ACTION—action that will translate stirring words into stirring deeds!

REPUBLICAN AID ASSURES NAVY RESTORATION

By FULTON LEWIS
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Republican leaders in both houses of Congress today fell in behind the program of President Roosevelt for restoration of America's scuttled Navy, definitely assuring its passage in the early days of the special session.

Representative Britten, Illinois, ranking Republican member and former chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, predicted a wholehearted Republican support on the House floor.

Representative Vinson (Dem.), of Georgia, committee chairman, has announced he will introduce the legislation as soon as the special session convenes next month.

SENATE CO-OPERATION

Senator Hale, Maine, ranking Republican member and former chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, will co-operate fully with Senator Tranmell (Dem.), of Florida, the new chairman, in pressing the measure through the Senate.

The Roosevelt plan would provide an eight-year naval building program, costing about $60,000,000 a year, to build the nation's sea defenses up to full treaty strength.

The program calls for three new aircraft carriers, 8 to 10 light cruisers with 6-inch guns, 85 destroyers and 23 submarines, in addition to replacements for all existing ships which may become obsolete in the meantime.

Secretary of the Navy Swanson, who has been ranking Democratic member of the Senate committee, said the appropriation of necessary funds is all the Navy is waiting for.

NEW TYPE CRUISERS

Britten said he would seek to have written into the measure a provision that the light cruisers shall be of the "flying deck type," authorized under the London Treaty. The United States has none of these.

They are in effect miniature aircraft carriers and light cruisers combined, having facilities for launching and receiving aircraft by means of a special deck. Britten said:

"We should start the development of this type of craft at once. Several ships should be laid down in rapid succession, with every possible opportunity for our designers to make rapid improvement in type."

Navy Launches New 'Pocket Battleship'

MARE ISLAND, Cal., March 10.—(AP.)—The new cruiser San Francisco, Uncle Sam's latest version of a 10,000-ton "pocket battleship" built under the limitations of the Washington Treaty of 1922, slid into San Pablo Bay here yesterday after being smacked on the bow with a bottle of water wielded by Miss Barbara Bailly in the launching ceremonies. Preceding this there were addresses by Rear Admiral J. M. Reeves, commandant of the Mare Island Navy Yard, which is building the ship, and Mayor Angelo J. Rossi, of San Francisco.

Boulevard 'Bungle' Blamed on Brown

The blame for the "bottle-neck" in the $3,000,000 Allegheny River boulevard at Nadine has been laid directly to Norman F. Brown, former county public works director.

County Commissioners have also been told the county is being charged for extras by the John F. Casey Company, contractors on the boulevard, which should have been taken care of under the terms of the original contract. County solicitors and auditors are investigating.

DEFENSE OPENS IN BARDOLPH BANK TRIAL

The Commonwealth rested this afternoon in the trial of Charles A. Bardolph, president of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company, charged with embezzlement, perjury and making false entries in the books of the bank.

Charles B. Prichard, defense counsel, at once began his opening address to the jury.

A $25,000 mortgage of the Pennsylvania Surety Company appeared on the books of the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company several months after the final payment had been made and the transfer of the mortgage shown in the Recorder's office, A. S. Williams, auditor of the State Banking Department, testified today.

The $25,000 mortgage was written off and a note taken by the bank from Michael Parish, Inc., which had a balance of $2 in the bank, Williams testified. The Commonwealth contends the Parish company consisted only of Parish, Herman Friedman and Bardolph.

Through Williams' testimony, Assistant District Attorney H. R. Phillips sought to disclose Bardolph's connection with an alleged embezzlement of $13,000 of the bank's funds.

Friedman, a mortgage broker, testified in the closing hours of the trial yesterday regarding mortgage transactions between himself and the Franklin Savings and Trust Company.

Passengers Safe in Cuban Train Crash

SANTIAGO, Cuba, March 10.—(INS.)—Passengers and the crew of an express train from Havana, which was carrying munitions, miraculously escaped injury today when the speeding locomotive ran through an open switch on the outskirts of Santiago. Police suspected an attempt to wreck the train. The locomotive and express car overturned.

Nobel Winner Home, Unable to Cash Prize

NEW YORK, March 10.—(INS.)—Dr. Irving Langmuir, winner of the 1932 Nobel prize in chemistry, returned from Sweden with a prize check for 171,000 kroner—about $31,000. He was unable to cash it and had to borrow to get rail fare to his home at Schenectady.

FILM PAY CUTS TEMPORARY

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 10.—(AP.)—Employes in the film industry were promised today by the Association of Motion Picture Producers' Association their acceptance of a 25 to 50 per cent salary cut for eight weeks will in no way serve as a precedent for the fixing of pay.

The producers went on record as saying the proposed reduction is only for the short period and has been brought about only by the banking emergency. Acceptance of the reduction is necessary if studios are to remain open, the producers declared.

Studios announced 97 per cent of the film stars holding contracts had accepted a 50 per cent reduction, and word was expected to be receive shortly from the remaining 3 per cent.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure is now centered over the central plains and covers most of the country east of the Rocky Mountains. As a result of the high barometer the skies are mostly clear over the eastern half of the country, and the weather is cold. Over the West temperature are rising and there is considerable cloudiness, under the influence of low pressure, centered over Wyoming. Light rain fell over most of the Gulf states section during the last 24 hours, while northward over Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania there was light to moderately heavy snowfall. At Elkins, W. Va., five inches of snow fell.

HITLER PRISONS COMMUNISTS

BERLIN, March 10.—(AP.)—Chancellor Hitler's merciless campaign against Communism was advanced in the state of Bavaria today by an order from Gen. Franz von Epp, the new federal commissioner, for the arrest of all Communist officials in the state.

In Prussia also the anti-Communist campaign continued. Thousands of imprisoned Communists face the possibility of incarceration in detention camps at hard labor.

The government, tightening its grip on the independent states, has received the resignations of the cabinets in Saxony and Baden.

Symbolic of latest developments in the Reich, it was announced the sife-size statue of Karl Marx, which has stood for years in Germany's former Communist stronghold, Karl Liebknecht House, will be melted and made into busts of Hitler and President von Hindenburg.

In various centers, anti-Semites continued to compel Jewish-controlled shops to close, and a general outbreak of anti-Jewish terrorism was feared.

Government officials repeated assurances given yesterday to United States Consul General George S. Messersmith and American embassy officials that Nazi assaults on Americans would cease. Six Americans have complained of attacks.

Ex-Crown Prince To Visit London

LONDON, March 10.—(INS.)—Arrangements have been completed for former Crown Prince Wilhelm of Germany to visit London during the Easter holidays, the London Daily Herald said today.

The visit will be the first he has made to this country since the World War.

Dog Hero of Nome Trek Near Trail's End in Zoo

CLEVELAND, March 10.—(AP.)—Balto is near the end of his trail.

The glossy black husky that led Gunnar Kasson's dog team on the final lap of a race to carry diphtheria anti-toxin to Nome, Alaska, in 1925, lay in the warm quarters of Brookside Zoo today, his stout heart slowly failing.

Balto is party deaf and blind. He can manage his hind quarters only with difficulty, but he is in no pain.

City Veterinarian W. T. Brinker, after a careful examination, said:

"Fourteen years is a ripe old age for a dog. Balto is like a man past 70. He has only a few days to live."

Balto and old Sye are the only two dogs remaining of the seven Alaskan huskies bought for the zoo in 1927 from a Los Angeles dime-museum. Twelve hundred persons contributed toward the $1,500 purchase price.

Hitler, Catholics Nearing Agreement

VATICAN CITY, March 10.—(AP.)—Church authorities here said unofficially today that they believed negotiations between Chancellor Hitler and the German Catholic Center party will be successful in finding a means of parliamentary collaboration. Pope Pius is following Chancellor Hitler's activities against communism with close attention.

New Premier Takes Office in Greece

ATHENS, Greece, March 10.—(AP.)—Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris, popular or royalist party leader who pledged allegiance to the republic last fall, and his new cabinet took the oath of office today.

Tsaldaris was victor in Sunday's election of a new assembly over former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos but he was prevented momentarily from becoming premier when Gen. Nicholas Plastiras established a dictatorship.

JAPAN BATTERS GATEWAY TO PEIPING

TOKIO, March 10.—(AP.)—A heavy battle between Chinese and Japanese forces within the walled city of Kupeiknow was reported today as the Japanese considered extending operations into North China proper in order to take that northern gateway to Peiping.

A dangerous situation developed with the Chinese strongly reinforced in that area and apparently still holding the pass despite earlier reports that the Japanese occupied the city at noon Wednesday. (There are 3,000 Americans living in the Peiping-Tientsin international treaty area, extending about 150 miles southeastward from Kupeikow and dominated by that city.

The Japanese Foreign Office instructed the Japanese legation at Peiping to attempt to negotiate the withdrawal of the Chinese troops from Kupeikow. Failing in this, a Japanese spokesman said, Japan may seek the good offices of the foreign diplomats in Peiping to persuade the Chinese to withdraw, thus obviating "the necessity" of an extension of operation to North China.

REVOLT LOOMS IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, March 10.—(INS.)—With civil war threatened against Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' dictorial rule, 20,000 soldiers and police were concentrated in the government barracks today, armed with machine guns and guarded by barbed wire entanglements.

Announcement the government would prevent the meeting of parliament scheduled for Wednesday aroused further protests of Socialists and Fascists and increased rumors that Fascist Heimwehr was mobilizing to overthrow the government.

Establishment of the virtual dictatorship of Chancellor Dollfuss was aimed against the Fascists, who recently acclaimed "Our Chancellor, Adolf Hitler."

The Socialists have announced they will declare a general strike if parliament is prevented from convening.

CERMAK SLAYER SENTENCED TO DIE

was led from the courtroom he turned, shouting:

"I no scared. I think I right. I kill all President. You crook, too—in with capitalist. You should die too."

The officers shoved him from the court, still screaming defiance, as the bailiff pounded for order.

SCREAMS AT JUDGE

Just before sentence was passed, Judge Thompson asked if Zangara wished to say anything in his behalf. Eyes blazing, he screamed throatily:

"I want kill all President—no like government! Capitalist all crooked. Lotta peoples make lotta money—all wrong. I want kill all rulers—take money, put it in pile and burn it all.

"Everything just for money. Peoples no need money—need bread. Thata why I say burn money."

As he finished, a dead silence fell upon the courtroom.

Judge Thompson took up the gavel, but before sentencing the Italian to electrocution for his mad act, he briefly expressed the hope that the Congress would immediately pass legislation banning small firearms. He said:

"It is my firm conviction that Congress should also pass legislation for confiscation of firearms that may be carried about the person.

USELESS WEAPONS

"Three Presidents have been assassinated, all by men who employed a pocket pistol. It is a deadly and useless weapon; deadly in the hands of an assassin and useless as a weapon of defense by the good people.

"We are horrified to think of the consequences of this man's act. It was well calculated to affect the peace of America, if not the entire world."

Judge Thompson paused a moment, then in slow, measured tones, sentenced Zangara to death in the electric chair.

By strange coincidence, death was meted out to the assassin just a few hours before his victim was to be laid to final rest, mourned by an entire nation, in Chicago.

Shivering Thousands Pay Cermak Tribute

CHICAGO, March 10.—(AP.)—Through streets lined by shivering thousands, Anton J. Cermak, as his assassin was sentenced to death in Florida, today was borne on a circuitous path to the grave. The slain leader had lain in state in the City Hall 24 hours and many thousands passed his bier in respect.

A funeral cortege that was blocks long and composed of city, state and federal officials, relatives and friends, soldiers and citizenry escorted the coffin from the City Hall to the Chicago Stadium where the Mayor once achieved prominence in the national political arena.

The procession wound through the Loop and over a mile route. Officials said they could not remember when the populace so universally appeared for any occasion since the funeral of Carter Harrison, Sr., another world's fair Mayor who died from an assassin's bullet during the Columbian Exposition of 1893.

At the Chicago Stadium, civic services were held with clerics of three faiths speaking before the body was taken to Bohemian National Cemetery for burial.

Plane Believed Used By Kidnap Suspects

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., March 10.—(AP.)—Belief that an airplane may have been used to aid in the flight of two suspects wanted in the Charles Boettcher II kidnaping, was expressed by officers today.

Capt. W. J. Armstrong, of the Denver police, directing the search for the suspects, Verne Sankey and Gordon Elkhorn, made a flight by plane yesterday to an unannounced destination, but failed to find the fugitives. He was accompanied by two federal officers.

BETTY COMPTON PARRIES QUERY ON WEDDING

International News Service.

CANNES, France, March 10. — Betty Compton, when asked today whether she would marry former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, if and when his present wife obtains the divorce she is seeking at Miami, Fla., smilingly parried:

"Don't you think that's a somewhat premature question?"

BETTY PUZZLED

An army of reporters flocked to the picturesque villa occupied by Miss Compton, Broadway actress, and her mother, when Walker suddenly dropped from sight in an apparent effort to escape further questioning regarding the divorce action. Miss Compton insisted she had no idea of Jimmy's whereabouts. She said:

"I haven't seen him since last night."

The actress declined to discuss Mrs. Walker's divorce suit. Regarding any possible matrimonial plans, she was equally reticent and beyond characterizing them as "premature" would have nothing to say.

Miss Compton maintained the same studied poise which she displayed when an International News Service correspondent brought the first word of the suit to her and Walker last evening while they were sipping cocktails before dinner.

WALKER SILENT

At the time, Walker announced he would contest the action and expressed complete surprise to learn that the suit had been filed. He asked to be kept informed of all details and then went out to dinner with Miss Compton and her mother.

Located at his hotel today he dismissed queries with a curt:

"Nothing to say."

Walker then left for the apparent purpose of keeping an engagement with Frank Scully, his literary collaborator, and a well-known New York banker, who was with Scully.

Where the meeting was to be held and whether it had any particular significance in the light of the divorce suit could not be learned.

WIFE AVOIDS QUIZ

MIAMI, Fla., March 10.—(INS.)—Mrs. Janet Allen Walker, after taking the first legal step to terminate her 21-year marriage to former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, refused all comment today on her action.

The wife of the former wisecracking chief executive of the nation's largest city, who filed her suit for absolute divorce in a surprise action yesterday, made only a single charge—desertion. No reference was made in the suit to Betty Compton, Broadway musical comedy actress. She asked no alimony and the Walkers have no children.

Mrs. Walker can obtain her divorce within four weeks under Florida law. She established legal residence in this state by maintaining a residence at Miami Beach for the past two years.

Prosecution Ends Ligonier Bank Case

The government today completed its testimony in the prosecution of George Clifford Frank, former president of the Ligonier National Bank at Ligoner, on trial before Federal Judge Nelson McVicar on a charge of embezzling and misapplying funds. The defense opened immeiately.

The principal witness yesterday was C. F. Risler, a special agent of the United States Bureau of Investigation.

Convicted Man Wins New Trial

James L. Williams, Negro, jailed a month ago after being found guilty of voluntary manslaughter, was granted a new trial today by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff.

Judge Graff refused a new trial to George Dillard, Negro, sentenced to life imprisonment in the death of Ralph Miller, of 6245 Hamilton avenue, July 17, 1932.

Auto Thieves Idle First Day in Years

Not a single automobile was reported stolen to Pittsburgh police during the 24-hour period ending at 8 o'clock today. According to Police Operator W. L. Sloan, this is the first time this has happened in many years.

MISS BETTY COMPTON — JAMES J. WALKER

New York's resigned Mayor Walker pictured on shipboard with Miss Compton, the stage beauty, on his crossing to Europe months ago.

Miss Compton was with him when he heard from reporters that Mrs. Walker had filed suit for divorce at Miami, Fla. The charge: desertion.

DIPLOMATS DRY, RUM HELD UP

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(INS.)—Diplomats of nine countries are waiting for a decision from the new Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the question on every tongue is:

"What are you going to do about my liquor?"

A cargo consigned to the representatives of Norway, Sweden, Chile, Nicaragua, Ireland, Denmark and three other legations sufficient for spring entertaining, is being held at New York because of technicalities.

Instead of proceeding directly to Baltimore the liner that carried the liquor called first at New York.

The liquor was impounded because of a maritime statute which forbids American flag ships from engaging in coastwise transport of liquor.

A State Department official asked:

"Why not ship the liquor by truck from New York?"

The response was:

"Glad to, if you will provide a military escort to keep away the hijackers."

PAROLE SOUGHT IN KLINE 'FIX'

A petition for the parole of Howard Gross, police station engineer sentenced to a year for approaching jurors in the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline, will be filed tomorrow.

Attorney J. F. Callahan will file the petition before Judge Thomas Watson, in Butler County, it was learned.

Gross, who lived at 508 Rosedale street, was charged with embracery, and tried and convicted last June in Butler. It was shown that he had approached and talked with members of a panel called for the first trial of Mayor Kline. Gross was sentenced to a year and a fine of $400.

Last September, Attorney Callahan applied for a 60-day leave for Gross from jail on the plea his wife was ill. He got 120 days, returning January 4 to the Butler institution. The petition tomorrow will state that Gross has served five months.

Gross, for 18 years an engineer at the East Liberty Police Station, meanwhile has been drawing his pay from the city.

Greenlee Freed In Numbers Case

Gus Greenlee, Negro, alleged numbers operator of the Hill district, was freed by a directed verdict of the court, today, on a charge of operating a lottery.

Judge S. J. Snee ordered the jury to find a verdict of not guilty after Mrs. Alverda Frey, the prosecutor, failed to produce numbers slips on which she testified she had "hit" and later was unable to collect the $500 winnings.

KLINE DECISION LATE IN MONTH

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court probably will not hand down its decision in the Mayor Kline case until the last week in March, when the court will be sitting in Pittsburgh. The court will then decide whether to grant the request of District Attorney Andrew T. Park to send the Mayor's appeal for a new trial back to the Superior Court.

It was pointed out today that if the highest court decides for Park, the Mayor will then have to appeal to the Superior Court next month, when the Superior Court meets in Pittsburgh.

The Mayor's attorneys are expected to file their argument against Park's request within the next three days.

Kline was removed from office and sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Thomas D. Finletter. An appeal stayed the sentence. If the Mayor loses the remaining court battles he will probably be out of office before July.

JUDGE YEAR AGO SCORES LAST ART JURY

Henry G. Keller, of Cleveland, one of last year's Associated Artists' judges, came to the front today, trampled all over Ralph Bowman's claims that his paintings' likeness to others' works is a "coincidence," and put this year's jury of three distinguished Eastern artists definitely on the skids.

Keller's statement came as the last word on the last day of the exhibition, after a running row that started shortly after the show's opening and included accusations that Bowman's second prize picture—since deprived of this honor—is a copy and that the jury awarded the water color prize to an oil painting.

Said Keller:

"You see, juries coming to the provinces feel called upon to discover new genius that the home town failed to recognize.

"We have it here. Our New York friends have pulled some fast ones here that are more a gesture than a judgment."

And of Bowman's $100 second prize winner that so closely resembles Sir James J. Shannon's very Victorian "Lady Diana Manners," Keller comments (and you can almost hear his snort in disgust as he does):

"Would say the lace arm cushion and the lace collar are more than a coincidence. They are feminine accoutrements of another day now long past.

"Other things in the picture might be a coincidence—but I doubt."

All of which was likely to pain loyal upholders of the jury's work—to say nothing of Bowman, who has refused to return the $100.

And the jury—Ross Moffett, of Provincetown, R. I.; Edward Hopper, of New York; Francis Speight, of Philadelphia—could scarcely be expected to beam with pleasure.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Say, while you are giving credit for all this bank holiday, remember it was an old ex-cowpuncher, Gov. Balzer, of Nevada, that started it away last summer, and if everybody would have done it then the banks would have had a whole lot more to divide up than they will have now. But that is one thing you would have never got a Republican administration to do, voluntarily close a bank. Their theory was, leave 'em open till they shut. We can think of the most things that would benefit the patient, but we never think of 'em till we see a hearse going by.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

One Guilty, One Freed In Fake Sleuth Case

Leo M. Shapiro was convicted yesterday in Federal Court of posing as a postoffice inspector. The jury recommended mercy. Harry R. Gapes, a co-defendant, was acquitted. Both were acquitted on another indictment charging conspiracy to violate the postal law. The trial was before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

Shapiro was accused of making the false pretention in making a collection in Erie on August 21, 1929, and Gape with aiding and abetting.

BOSS RULE HIT AT MANAGER PLAN RALLY

Two thousand men and women voiced enthusiastic support of the city manager plan and better government at a mass meeting in Syria Mosque last night, held under the joint auspices of the Pennsylvania Conference on Election Laws and the Municipal Charter Committee of Pittsburgh.

Charles P. Taft, son of the former President and advocate of the plan in use in Cincinnati, was the principal speaker. Alexander P. Lindsay, president of the Pennsylvania Conference on Election Laws, presided.

Lindsay sounded the keynote with an indictment of the present city administration, saying:

"We will no longer tolerate a representative, be he Councilman or Mayor, Senator or Representative, unless he will carry out the orders of the people."

MENTIONS COYNE

Urging his hearers to write their legislators in support of the two city manager bills now pending, Lindsay told them not to forget State Senator James J. Coyne. Laughter followed when he said:

"Don't slight Senator Coyne. He was invited here tonight, but I don't see him. If you don't write to him, I'm sure he will be offended."

Attorney Taft said, speaking of the manager plan's results in Cincinnati:

"I can speak from personal experience in saying that the plan can produce a responsible handling of city finance. Seven years ago our city manager took charge and found a complete absence of financial plan, even to the extent of discovering over a half million dollars in unexpended balances, left by an administration which had complained of the worst of municipal poverty.

"When hard times came, we have taken care of our own people without running a deficit of any kind. Our expenditures this year will run at least 25 per cent less than in 1929, and they will stay within the moneys the city actually receives."

Taft also pointed to the absence of political taint and corruption of the police department of Cincinnati, giving full credit to the manager plan of government.

DILWORTH SPEAKS

Joseph Dilworth, executive chairman of the Pittsburgh Citizens' Committee, presented figures showing comparative costs per capita in the operation of city government in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. In the Ohio city, he pointed out, the per capita cost for garbage removal was 90 cents for 1932, while in Pittsburgh it was $2.

The total cost of assessing and collecting taxes, Dilworth declared, was $614,637 in Pittsburgh for last year. The total cost to Cincinnati was $99,491. Cincinnati's population is 444,000 as against 679,500 for Pittsburgh.

Attorney Edward O. Tabor, speaking as an "independent Democrat," declared the meeting was a "notice to our senators and representatives that good sense and common honesty must be made the basis of our politics if government is to be representative in spirit, reasonable in cost and effective in results."

He declared Mayor Kline to be a "blazing symbol of what a public official should not be," and said of Senator Coyne:

"Senator Coyne, they tell us, keeps his promises and sticks to his friends. Ordinarily these qualities are virtues, but if Senator Coyne keeps his promises and sticks to his friends at your expense and mine, then those qualities are the worst form of political vice."

He declared both the city manager plan and the proportional representation method to be a curb against "such political bosses."

ARTISTS HOLD 'SWAP' EXHIBIT

A barter art exhibit, in which more than 20 local artists are taking part, opened today at the Warner theater.

The pictures line both sides of the lobby, foyer and mezzanine floor. The artists have agreed to exchange their pictures for merchandise if they cannot get any of Uncle Sam's money.

A feature of the exhibit is four murals by S. Tilden Stern, young New York artist. The murals depict the spirit of the music and dance and will hang in the theater lobby permanently.

Telephone Operator Missing, Search On

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., March 10.—Miss Bessie Gahegan, 35, chief operator of the Bell Telephone exchange in this city, disappeared at noon Thursday and has not since been seen. State police, friends and local officers have hunted for the girl since last night, but no trace of her has been found. Miss Gahegan has been in poor health since an operation last fall. Her auto was found in her garage.

Auto Injuries Fatal To North Side Child

John McArdle, 3, of 1623 East street, died in the Presbyterian Hospital today from injuries suffered yesterday when he was struck by an automobile at East street, near Madison avenue. The child darted from the curb into the path of a machine driven by Charles R. Brown, 58, of Bakerstown, Pa., witnesses told police. Brown was ordered by the Coroner to give bond for the inquest.

This one may be easy for you. Watch for a tip tomorrow.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

Original Cipher No. 69 is contributed by Miss E. Ainsworth, of 1017 Allegheny avenue. It's rather easy. Let's see what you can do with it. Here is what Miss Ainsworth writes:

"I have been following the ciphers you have been giving daily, and I am anxious to know if the code I have would prove interesting to your fans."

Did you solve the last cipher? It was No. 68 and a hard one, too. If you followed the tip given yesterday you should have succeeded. It was decoded as shown in the cipher solution today. The answer was:

"Will we have war with the Japs? Well lets get the Navy ready."

Sun-Telegraph-Warner Junior Komic Club

Edward Crump, popular member of the Manor Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, set a new record Saturday in the cracker-eating contest conducted by Manager Joe Blowitz. Eddie hung up a record which is expected to stand for some time when he ate four crackers and whistled "Yankee Doodle" in the amazing time of 2 minutes and 47 seconds.

Eleanor Marcus, while not equaling Eddie's record, was the first girl to finish her four crackers and instead of "Yankee Doodle" whistled "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain."

Following the cracker contest, Manager Blowitz announced that the next would be a milk-drinking contest for boys and girls. This is a contest which never fails to bring many a laugh from the audience. Nursing bottles are filled with milk and the youngster who finished first in the boys' class was Martin Rosenstock. Jewel Nussbaum won in the girls' division. Each of the youngsters were awarded two tickets for the Manor Theater this week.

Learn the Whole New Story of Spring Hats

It's told in our vast collection, in sweeping eloquence—a liberal education in what's what in the smart top-off for spring costumes. It's a story of crisp, new sailors, flower or organdie trimmed; of fez turbans to give the new illusion of height; of tricornes, of jockey brim models, of cloches and slouch sports hats. It's a story of feather-weight straws, rough straws, stitched taffeta, crepes and other silk fabrics.

It is a story to interest every woman, whatever her preference or requirement in style, color or headsize.

In a Fashion-Thrift Event for Everybody

Women who wear regular sizes, misses, and shorter women who take half sizes—all can enjoy the advantages of this Fashion-Thrift special.

It considers those who like their sheers to look as heavy as an opaque crepe, and those who like them as filmy as chiffon. Those who like flower patterns on light, bright or dark grounds, and those who prefer splashy dots. Those who like elbow sleeves, and those who go in for capelets and push-up puff sleeves.

There are six spring models, and in the collection, all told, there are women's regular sizes 36 to 44, half sizes 33½ to 41½, and misses' sizes 14 to 20.

ROCKEFELLERS DEFY POWER OF MORGAN

By JULIUS G. BERENS
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 10.—Not even the national bank holiday which inaugurated the week startled Wall street so much as the demands for banking reforms made by Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the world's largest bank, the Chase National, and a member of the Rockefeller industrial-financial dynasty.

There was no alternative for Wall street but to interpret the Aldrich declaration as a direct challenge by the John D. Rockefeller faction to the private banking houses headed by J. P. Morgan & Co.

LIQUIDATING ASSETS

The Rockefellers have been liquidating doubtful assets constantly since the record-breaking bid for "a million shares Standard of Jersey at 50" was thrown in by them to help stem the 1929 Stock Exchange panic.

It is a matter of record that none of the Morgan partners during the whole depression episode has risen to the pinnacle of command such as the elder J. P. Morgan attained during 1907.

Morgan partners have been noticeably absent from the innermost circles of the new administration. Invariably during the last administration the Morgan firm was instantly called in whenever a financial crisis developed.

It is a matter of record also that the Morgan firm right up to the 1929 market debacle sponsored some ill-fated undertakings, such as the Van Sweringen and the Alleghany Corporation railroad pyramid.

The power of these banking houses topped by Morgan & Co. has remained unchallenged since the panic of 1907.

Now Aldrich, presumably reflecting the dictates of the John D. Rockefellers, senior and junior, advocates the absolute severance of every semblance of affiliation between commercial banks and the private banking firms or any corporation engaging in security dealings.

CURB BEING URGED

Aldrich favors forbidding private bankers from becoming directors of any commercial institution. This hits directly at the Morgan firm, one or more of whose partners are directors of the Guaranty Trust Company, the Bankers Trust Company and the City Bank Farmers Trust Company.

The Morgan firm acts as depository for foreign governments, including England and France, and also is reported to have large deposits of the United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can and other domestic corporations. Its condition statement has never been publicly issued, although the Federal Reserve is understood to have a statement of assets and liabilities required of all acceptors of bank acceptances.

The Aldrich recommendations include absolute separation of deposit banking and investment banking by forbidding any corporation or partnership dealing in securities to take deposits, even under regulations, and by preventing officials of firms dealing in securities from being an officer or a director of a bank of deposit, or the reverse.

FACE LOSS OF POWER

This innovation, applied to Morgan and Company and similar private bankers would virtually strip them of their control over the commercial banking system.

Open conflict, if it should break out, would find leadership of the strictly commercial banking sponsors resting with the world's largest financial institution. The Chase Bank itself represents resources of $1,800,000,000, to which of course must be added the vast resources possessed or controlled by the John D. Rockefellers, including especially their influence with the immensely wealthy Standard Oil concerns.

One prominent banker said:

"The Morgan power reached its peak long ago. There is a great deal of merit in Mr. Aldrich's conclusions. Banking should be divided into four functions: Savings, commercial banking, trust service, and investment. No two of these should be undertaken by any institution."

MORGAN SILENT

At J. P. Morgan & Co's offices, no comment was forthcoming. Nor would any partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co, or other firms corresponding in their activities to J. P. Morgan & Co. comment.

Practically all private banking houses naturally stand as a unit against the Aldrich reforms, which if adopted would deprive them of control over the banks.

The possibilities in the seeming gauntlet thrown down to Morgan and the latter's decline in prestige were emphasized by the fact that none of the emergency meetings which preceded the banking holiday were held in the Morgan offices. The first Morgan partner to participate in the official preholiday gatherings was Thomas W. Lamont. In the Washington conferences centering around Secretary of the Treasury Woodin and President Roosevelt, the only Morgan partner participating has been S. Parker Gilbert.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has been steadily expanding his direct influence in banking since acquiring control of the Equitable Trust Company in 1927. By merging the Equitable into the Chase National the Rockefellers built the Chase into the world's largest bank, simultaneously placing themselves as the largest stockholding group in the enlarged bank.

Aldrich, brother-in-law of John D., Jr., became a Chase executive when the merger was effected. This year he succeeded Albert H. Wiggin as chairman of the governing board. Wiggin had been known as an ally of the Morgan firm.

We Just Couldn't Take It Any Way But With a Grin

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Official Washington is stuffed with admiration over the American people because they acted like human beings.

How else are you going to act if you never studied to be anything else?

If a President can take it with a laugh we can be the merry villagers.

Like the flea that jumped on the leopard we were between a couple of tough spots.

We knew something had to happen and salt wouldn't change the flavor.

And we were just as optimistic as the boy who stood on the burning deck and was glad he wasn't wearing celluloid sox.

And now that's all over. Do you think Colonel Jake should stake the Babe to that extra fifteen grand? Or do you think Ruth should play this season just for the experience?

NATION TO GET 'NEW' CASH

President Roosevelt's bank bill passed by Congress in record time and signed by the Chief Executive last night adds a new type of currency to the nation's money supply.

The new Federal Reserve notes, which may be issued to banks as loans on their assets, are not secured by gold, but they are redeemable in "lawful money," which keeps the nation's currency system tied to the present gold standard.

They also differ from other types of currency in that they may be issued only until the President proclaims that the present emergency is at an end.

The new form of money can be put into circulation in several ways:

The Federal Reserve system may lend the new money to banks in quantities up to 100 per cent of the face value of United States government securities which can be pledged. The reserve system may lend up to 90 per cent of the fair value of notes, drafts, bankers' acceptances and bills of exchange.

Provisions also are made for loans to individuals, partnerships and corporations and banks not members of the Federal Reserve System with United States government securities as collateral.

No limit has been placed on the amount of new currency which may be issued on satisfactory security.

Potteries to Issue Scrip for Payrolls

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., March 10.—Seven East Liverpool ceramic manufacturing companies today adopted "pottery scrip" in order to distribute payrolls to 3,000 pottery workers today and tomorrow.

When banking regulations permit, a central clearing house will be established to redeem the scrip, which will be accepted by merchants.

TRADE, FINANCE HEADS FAILED, SAYS WEIR

Business executives from various parts of the country heard themselves blamed for the financial crisis last night by Ernest T. Weir, board chairman of National Steel Corporation, at the Pittsburgh Traffic Club's annual dinner in William Penn Hotel.

Weir included himself in his indictment of the nation's business and financial leaders. He said:

"Gentlemen, let us be honest with each other in recognizing that we business men, in connection with our so-called business and financial leaders, are the ones responsible.

"You may not agree with me at first, and I say, frankly, that it took some struggle before I could accept this responsibility, but I am convinced we have not done our job well."

Much of the responsibility for existing conditions he laid to government:

"We are running headlong into destruction through spending more money than we have to spend. There is a great cry to balance the budget, but the budget is not being balanced. The building and maintaining of politicial machines seems to be of more importance to many of our government representatives than the developing of sound credit structure.

"We must go into politics as a part of our every day business. Every corporation should have a man who would be its political representative and interest himself daily in governmental affairs."

Of the banking situation he declared:

"We are very much 'at sea' through the fact that a complete financial moratorium had spread over the country, a condition that holds so many possibilities that even the wisest fail to see the outcome. There can be no question, however, that a prompt solution will be found."

In the work of reconstruction, the steel magnate advocated leniency to debtors, the institution of basic plans for the reopening of banks, the balancing of governmental budgets to suit the income of the people, the maintenance of the gold standard and a continuance of the protective tariff.

A prompt economic recovery was predicted by I. LaMont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, who introduced Mr. Weir.

An introductory address was made by W. McL. Pomeroy, president of the Traffic Club.

Ohio Workmen Cash Pay Checks Here

Many of the 5,500 employes of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, from here to Youngstown, O., were visiting the Mellon Bank today to get their pay checks cashed. Railroad officials said no special train facilities were arranged, but that many who needed cash were riding in from as far as Youngstown.

Detroit Workers Get Pay in Cash

DETROIT, Mich., March 10.—(Universal)—Workers in Detroit automobile plants received their wages yesterday in cash in spite of Michigan's long-standing bank holiday.

Smugglers Kidnap Customs Officer

SEATTLE, March 10.—(AP.)—Bearing cuts and bruises and physically exhausted, E. L. Ballinger, United States customs patrol officer operating near the Canadian line, was recovering today from a brutal kidnaping attack by two smugglers who took him "for a ride."

He returned here last night by plane from Medford, Ore., after he had been found yesterday handcuffed to a tree near the Oregon-California line.

RETURN OF GOLD AIDED BY BANKS

Pittsburgh district banks today were co-operating with the Pittsburgh branch, Federal Reserve Bank, in returning gold coin and gold certificates, according to Joseph C. Nevin, managing director of the Reserve Bank here. Although individuals may exchange their gold for Federal Reserve certificates at the Reserve branch, Nevin explained, they are finding it more convenient to make the exchange at their own banks.

No unusually large amount of gold is being returned by any individual bank, Nevin said, because those in the Pittsburgh district had not made large sales of gold, the average small bank having kept only a minimum supply on hand for customers as birthday gifts and such special requirements.

As a general practice, local banks in recent months have referred all large requests for gold directly to the Federal Reserve branch, thereby eliminating the necessity of keeping large quantities on hand, the director said.

CRISIS OF 50'S RECALLED

Memories of a bank crisis of another year—1857—are recalled by a thumb-worn $5 bank note issued by the Monongahela Valley Bank of McKee's Port, dated October 11, 1858, and now owned by W. H. Page, 1013 Liverpool street, North Side. That was in the days when McKeesport was two words.

The bill is adorned with the picture of a farm girl feeding two calves and it was based on nothing more substantial than the promise of the bank to redeem the note in specie.

Page's collection of old bank notes of this particular banking epoch has a face value of $395 and today is worth about $3.50—to dealers, provided they want to buy.

In the fifties, it is recalled by the worthless notes, every bank had its own plates for manufacturing bank notes up to six denominations, making a total of approximately 7,000 different kinds of currency.

President Approves First Farley Stamp

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt last night approved the first stamp to be issued under the administration of Postmaster General Farley.

The three-cent stamp bears a picture of George Washington's headquarters at Newburgh, N. Y., and is in commemoration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the declaration of peace.

SHERIFF SALES DELAYED HERE

Judge Thomas M. Marshall, on petition of Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, yesterday ordered postponement of Sheriff sales of 400 properties, to have been sold under the hammer today, until Monday, April 4. Judge Marshall said:

"The Sheriff is to be greatly commended for this action."

Sheriff Gollmar said that on account of the banking situation, it was impossible to conduct the sales.

EXCHANGE GOLD, HOARDERS TOLD

Pittsburgh gold hoarders today were under orders from the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, Pittsburgh branch, to exchange their gold for currency. A statement to that effect, issued in line with the embargo on gold export and currency redemption, read:

"In order to co-operate fully with the spirit and interest of the order of the Secretary of Treasury that gold coin or gold certificates held by individuals, firms or corporations be returned to the Federal Reserve banks, where it can serve with the greatest usefulness its normal function as metallic reserve for federal currency, all holders of such gold coin or gold certificates are directed to return it to any bank for deposit or for exchange into other forms of currency.

"In the event holders of such coin or gold certificates have no banking connection, they are directed to the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, at 717 Grant street, where such gold coin or gold certificates may be exchanged for other forms of United States money."

SCRIP ALLOWED, WOODIN SAYS

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—Secretary Woodin announced last night he would interpose no objection to the issuance of clearing house certificates or other evidence of claims against assets of banking institutions where local conditions make such action necessary. He said:

"Notwithstanding the expected early opening of banks, the Secretary of the Treasury interposes no objection to the issuance of clearing house certificates or other evidences of claims against assets of banking institutions, in communities where local conditions make such action necessary.

"The regulation issued by the Secretary March 7, 1933, remains effective, granting permission to clearing house associations and other associations organized to provide an adequately secured medium of temporary exchange to issue certificates against sound assets of banking institutions, such certificates to be deliverable by each institution to its creditors and depositors on a pro rata basis."

When Your Daughter Comes to Womanhood

MOST GIRLS in their teens need a tonic and regulator. Give your daughter Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the next few months. Teach her how to guard her health at this critical time. When she is a happy, healthy wife and mother she will thank you.

"I felt weak and tired even though I went to bed early. My complexion was sallow. My face was thin and peaked. My nerves were ragged and I was hardly able to go to work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and wondered if it would help me. After the first bottle I noticed a change. Others saw it too and remarked about it. Now my nervous headaches are gone, my complexion is lots nicer and I can work every day. It is a splendid medicine for girls." — DELMARE CARPENTER, 216 Grant St., Iowa Falls, Iowa.

COX AIDS NEEDY APPEAR NEAT

Father Cox firmly believes that a man's mental attitude and his potential outlook is largely governed by his personal appearance. Unshaved and unkempt, the victim of depression, without the means to better his appearance, grows moody and morose.

Father Cox, among his many other activities in helping the destitute, has taken these things into consideration, statistics of his service to the poor released yesterday reveal. In a little more than two years he has furnished 36,000 free hair cuts and 17,000 free shaves. Incidentally a fair proportion of the hair cuts were for school children. The barbers who do this work are otherwise unemployed. Shampoos and facials are barred.

Father Cox said last night:

"I find from experience that you can't inspire ambition, renew hope or reach the soul of a man who is sleepy, hungry and unkempt. You can get better and more encouraging results after they have been fed and cleaned up. It is along this line of psychology that I think that my free shaves and hair cuts do a lot of good."

The Sun-Telegraph-Father Cox subscription drive is swinging along with splendid results. The Old St. Patrick's unemployment relief fund gets a liberal cash commission for every order that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it.

ADVICE TO REORGANIZE ACCEPTED BY STEELMASTER

Increasing Dangers Lead to Readjustment In Carnegie Company

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE
By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

All this was extremely entertaining and "dramatic," and naturally the American public were joyfully anticipating revelations yet to come. That this same public were fated to disappointment, however, could safely be assumed. Frick and his legal advisers must have known this in advance. They might have ten points of the law on their side, or they might have none at all, but it was undisputed that the strategic advantage was unquestionably in their favor. The battle now precipitated would be a long and costly one; whatever the outcome it would prove injurious, perhaps destructive, to the Carnegie company and to American business generally.

Both the financial and the political world were appalled at the prospect. George Westinghouse sent a message to Carnegie, begging him to readjust his affairs peacefully and thus forestall that unsettling in American industry which a long contest would cause, Mr. Westinghouse offering to serve as mediator, much as a neutral nation, in face of an international entanglement, comes forward with friendly offices.

Mr. Mark Hanna and other Republican leaders were spending sleepless nights contemplating the material such a combat would furnish Mr. Bryan in his second campaign for the Presidency.

There were personal reasons in plenty for a compromise.

An unfortunate aspect of the impending suit was that Carnegie's defense must necessarily take the shape of dispraising his property. To present a vast array of evidence proving that his life-work was not so triumphant as Frick had portrayed it would naturally not be pleasing to a man whose vanity was so well developed as Carnegie's. The majority owner was still determined to sell, and, if possible, at an early date. One did not need to be a Scotsman to understand that a preliminary depreciation of assets was not the shrewdest step under these circumstances.

New Plan Sought

But there was a more important consideration. Frick was not really fighting for reinstatement; still less did he desire a receivership and the liquidation of the property. These were the objects set forth in his plea, but recapitalization was the end at which he aimed.

A good deal of space has already been devoted in preceding pages to the perplexing organization of the Carnegie group—to the fact that it was not a corporation, but an "association," that the partners held their shares subject to recall at any time by their companions, and that the capitalization represented only a minute proportion of actual value. The suit now presented was merely the final attempt to destroy this regime and to obtain the reorganization which several partners, especially Phipps, had been so long demanding.

Vigorously as Carnegie had opposed the new day, the time had come for surrender. On this point friend and enemy agreed. Loyal as were his partners, prepared as they were to follow wherever Carnegie led, probably there was not one who did not favor this readjustment. All methods of preserving the ancient stronghold, while insuring the future, had been considered and dropped.

Carnegie, resourceful as he was, had found the difficulty insoluble. The prospect was daily presenting additional dangers. Carnegie's death would throw everything into chaos.

There was also a matter of justice at stake. No one denied that these 36 partners, whose work Carnegie never ceased extolling as mainly responsible for the achievement, should have an inalienable proprietorship in the stock and not hold it subject to the hazards of the "Iron Clad." Several colleagues wrote Carnegie pressing this claim.

"There will have to be a reorganization in a year anyhow," said Mr. W. H. Singer, "and it would be infinitely better for all concerned to have it done peacefully."

Schwab's Opinion

Charles M. Schwab, now Carnegie's main reliance, expressed the same opinion. "I can't help but think," Schwab wrote Carnegie, "that reorganization at an early date is the proper step." Such was the advice of Carnegie's closest business friends, and he accepted it.

In this celebrated struggle, therefore, Frick emerged the nominal victor. That Carnegie, in practical matters at least, was a realist and a logician, is a point already made. Pride of opinion, consistency, or personal feeling did not prevent him from accepting the course marked out by the facts; and never was this quality more conspicuously displayed than now. Tenaciously, even stubbornly, as he had clung to his original idea, circumstances proved too strong for his indomitable spirit.

The enemy's peace terms were well known. They had been proposed several times before the litigation started. Immediately afterward both Mr. Singer and Mr. Schwab had received visits from Frick's plenipotentiaries outlining the program that would meet their favor.

A proposal was finally made for a meeting at a neutral spot and when the persons most concerned gathered at Atlantic City on March twenty-third the outcome was foreseen. Carnegie attended this conclave but Frick remained away, leaving his interests in the hands of Henry Phipps. The protocol was quickly signed. Under its terms capitalization was fixed at the figure long since determined upon—$320,000,000.

The Carnegie Steel Company was valued for this purpose at $250,000,000—a modest estimate in spite of the huge total—and the Frick Coke Company at $70,000,000. As to the conservatism of the latter appraisal, it is necessary only to say that, in addition to other assets, it was the proprietor of forty thousand acres of coal land with a market value of at least $3,000 an acre.

Neither the Carnegie Steel Company nor the H. C. Frick Coke Company went out of existence; indeed, both are flourishing concerns at the present day.

A New Corporation

A new corporation, the Carnegie Company, was oorganized under the laws of New Jersey, with $160,000,000 common stock and $160,000,000 five per cent. first mortgage bonds. All the capital of what had now become subsidiary companies was to be acquired by this corporation, which issued its securities in payment, each shareholder in the old concerns naturally participating to the extent of his partnership interest.

Carnegie's proportion reached $174,529,000; Phipps' interest netted $34,804,000, and Frick's $31,284,000, though of this amount $16,604,000 was derived from his share in the coke company.

Under the changed conditions the "Iron Clad" automatically disappeared and similarly the "Carnegie Association" came to an end, the members being transformed from partners into fellow stockholders. That this relationship was a material gain is evident, but the ending of the ancient brotherhood caused sentimental regrets, for "Board of Directors" had not the same suggestion of valiant companionship as was implied in "Board of Managers," which, like all the other details of a more intimate time, now passed into history.

Certain of the things for which Carnegie had striven, however, were preserved. In all details Frick was not the winner. His own personal standing, for example, suffered a loss of prestige. Carnegie had determined upon his elimination from the official family and the object was gained. His days as chairman, or even chairman of the board, were over. He remained in the new Carnegie Company simply as a stockholder, and though a large, not an influential one.

Neither Frick nor any representative of his interest went on the board. A request for such representation was made, but Carnegie put down a firm veto. Charles M. Schwab became president and sole executive head.

No Public Offering

Another cherished advantage must be put to Carnegie's credit. There was no public offering of securities, nor any "underwriters," or "bankers'" profits. So intent was the majority owner on keeping stock in the hands of workers and preventing it from becoming a matter of sale and speculation that he insisted on an ingenious device to forestall a listing on the Stock Exchange. Par value was fixed at $1,000 a share.

Was Carnegie aggrieved by this partial defeat? So far as his friends could observe he did not feel the slightest discomfiture. When a thing was done it was done, and the Frick entanglement, once settled, became a matter of archaic interest.

The desertion of his boyhood friend, Henry Phipps, caused momentary pain, but that was quickly healed, for in a few months the two white haired men had become "Andy" and "Harry" once more.

A year or two afterward Carnegie moved into his new home on Fifth avenue and Ninety-first street. As he entered he gave a start. Hanging conspicuously above the main stairway was Hoppner's portrait of the last heir to the Dukedom of Dorset, painted when a child.

This picture had adorned for generations the dining room at Buckhurst, an estate which the Carnegies had taken for several summers, and both Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie had become greatly attached to it. Phipps, hearing that the treasure was on the market, made a quiet purchase and smuggled it into the new house, where it greeted Carnegie on his arrival.

Frick Vindictive

The act was a gracious one and touched Carnegie deeply, and Mr. Phipps' home, implied in the gift, for a renewal of their lifelong friendship, was eagerly reciprocated.

But with Frick personal relations were never resumed. The stormy session recorded in Carnegie's memorandum proved to be their definite parting. Once, when common friends sought to bring them together, Carnegie expressed his willingness to have a meeting, to shake hands and to forget the past. The proposal, however, made Frick extremely angry and was immediately dropped.

Indeed, Frick ever afterward pursued Carnegie with a vindictiveness that brings out the unpleasant phases of what, in many respects, was an admirable character. The "wrongs" he had suffered from Carnegie became almost a pathological obsession, on which he would dictate at all times and to all persons, even comparative strangers. For the rest of his life Frick, despite the vast prosperity that came to him through his association with the Carnegie company, his fortune at death amounting to $150,000,000, was one of those most unhappy of mortals—a man with a grievance.

GROUP STARTS JOB DRIVE

Pittsburgh's "Workreator Plan," developed by the United Business Service, Jewish Social Agency, will be launched today at a tea for members of the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations at 2 p. m. in the Concordia Club.

Two hundred women of the organization will solicit the homes of Jewish residents to secure odd jobs for unemployed Jews. In connection with the campaign, the Business Service has been conducting training classes in cleaning plaster walls.

Robbery Thwarted By Burglar Alarm

Police today were searching for thieves whose attempt to rob Rom's Cash and Carry Grocery, 1207 West Liberty avenue, failed when they were frightened away by the burglar alarm last night. The iron bars on a rear window had been sawed and the window jimmied.

2D SCHOOL CUT IN BELLEVUE

All employes of the Bellevue schools, including teachers, janitors and clerical staff, have been asked by the borough School Board to accept voluntarily a second 10 per cent pay cut, retroactive to March 1. The first reduction went into effect last year.

Citizens' demands for a slash in the school millage and slow tax collections are said to have prompted the request. While numerous school districts have failed to pay employes promptly, Bellevue has met all payrolls to date. Although teachers are under contract for the remainder of the school year, no objection to the pay cut was anticipated.

Will on Yule Card Disposes of $15,000

A will written on a Christmas card by D. A. Hotchkiss, of Crafton, disposing of $15,000, was filed for probate today. The principal beneficiaries are a sister, Mrs. Zernah Franz, and a brother, Otis A. Hotchkiss. The latter is named executor.

Children to Attend David Thomas Rites

Classes in McKees Rocks public schools were to be dismissed this afternoon so that pupils and teachers could attend the funeral of David Thomas, 76, of 404 Woodward avenue, truant officer, who died suddenly Wednesday. Services were to be held in the Heinauer funeral home, Chartiers avenue and Broadway.

Thomas was the father of Krugg Thomas, former husband of the late Olive Thomas, film star. He leaves his son and his widow.

Three Face Hearing In Theft of Cable

Three youths accused of cutting and stealing 150 feet of cable from the signal and telegraph system of the Pennsylvania Railroad near Steuben street, West End, a month ago, were to be arraigned in Morals Court today.

They gave their names as Joseph Pigoni, 22; his two brothers-in-law, Walter Schultz, 24, and Joseph Schultz, 19, all of 38 Steuben street. Recovery of sections of the cable in a Carnegie junk yard resulted in the arrests.

Aged Man Found Dead, Heart Victim

Emil Henning, 73, was found dead late yesterday in a third-floor room of a house in the rear 1010 Bedford avenue, according to a Coroner's report. A physician attributed death to a heart attack.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Sidney Blackmer, the actor, was held on the charge of a girl in Los Angeles recently. He says that he refused to stand for a shakedown and risked his good name by letting them drag it through the courts there . . . Other stars, he asserts, gave up coin when they were so threatened by racketeering girls . . . The other day the judge exonerated and vindicated Blackmer and tongue-lashed the girl, her parents and the prosecutrix from the bench . . . In fewer words, she got off with a scolding . . . If she were found to be party to a trumped up charge—why not something stiffer than a verbal spanking? . . . The damage to Blackmer has been done . . . The "goodies," who hired him for movies, canceled all contracts after the first story broke, but did you read any played up stories about Blackmer's exoneration and vindication? . . . They eluded me, at any rate . . . So let's put it here, where some of his friends and well-wishers may notice it . . . I hardly know Blackmer . . . He's an actor and I'm a dramatic critic—therefore we naturally have what is known as a "sneering acquaintance" . . . But, as someone has already jotted down—I am human and nothing human is alien to me.

Wonder how many people know how I finally found The Forgotten Man? . . . His name is O'Brien . . . The chief surveyor with Byrd at the South Pole or near it, I mean . . . O'Brien got within 400 miles of the Pole via dog sled and surveyed the rest camp there—so that when Byrd flew over the region, if his plane fell, there would have been succor . . . O'Brien was among the heroes welcomed at City Hall here—and that night he was the town's honored guest at one of the smartest hotels—hey-hey!! . . . He was found on Christmas night shivering on a Bryant Park bench by a pal of his and a pal of mine, according to his pal . . . It appears that O'Brien had been locked out of a hotel here, founded by a philanthropist "for men in distress," because O'Brien hadn't the fee . . . And so O'Brien, a hero in 1930, is really one of the original Forgotten Men of 1933 . . . Congress decorated him with the Congressional Medal of Honor, and when he was asked where the medal was, he grimly replied: "I hocked it for $5 last month—so I could live two weeks longer."

It was a case of rush-of-profits-to-the-head for Joe . . . Who ran a whoopee parlor on West 48th street . . . Joe, they say, has accumulated about 360 Gs in the last five years . . . When the Rockefeller outfit was trying to acquire the property then owned by Columbia University (now Rockefeller City) they offered Joe $100,000 . . . Joe wanted a quarter of a million . . . Later he reduced it to $180,000 . . . But the Rockys turned him down flatter than a pocketbook . . . Then they decided to wait him out . . . On March 1, Joe's lease was up—and the Rockefellers acquired his leasehold for exactly nothing! . . . Joe now has a perpetual headache.

Maxwell Anderson's new hit, "Both Your Houses," contains some grand repartee—the walloping sort—aimed at the political brigands representing the United Mistakes of America at Washington . . . A timely play—appealing to all of us now in the mood . . . Particularly amusing is this flip-cracking: "Where have you been for two days?" . . . "At the White House!" replies another Congressmenace . . . "Doing what?" is the retort, "taking lessons in smiling?" . . . The first jury howled at that merciless truth . . . John Anderson's nifty certainly rates circulation. He says that all of us are giving up Money—for Lent! . . .

Cleverness is still a stiff premium among some of the local hams . . . In the cabarets the other morning several comedians undraped themselves . . . Some removed their shoes and socks, and to my astonishment some auditors howled . . . Other jesters went to the extreme of removing almost everything . . . I almost cried—so painful was my sorrow when I saw to what new depths clowns were panhandling laughs . . . Thanks then—for a Jimmy Durante, who shudders every time he has to go on the stage at the Majestic and mouth some passages which he considers unfit for women to hear . . . Durante is actually "mortified" in this scene, a travesty on "Design for Living," the Noel Coward comedy . . . "Strike Me Pink," which brought back Durante and Hope Williams and Lupe Velez, is funny enough without that episode, anyway . . . And that delightful song in the new hit—"Let's Call It a Day!" . . . Which a lovely lark, Carolyn Nolte, jeritzas.

Well, talk about being "mortified"—that best explains the humiliation that goes with having to ask a friend for some ready cash . . . It is the darndest feeling . . . Not that I have ever forgotten how it feels to be penniless . . . But it's been quite a spell since I was . . . And so when Things Began To Happen the other day—I was in the same predicament as Mr. and Mrs. New York . . . To the cafe cigarette peddlers I said that I would settle the various 15c items—in time . . . I made drastic cuts in tips, and the night club attaches, who once received a dollar for their attention—and who now are rewarded with two-bits—made no sour faces . . . They understood, it seemed . . . They realized that ready cash could not be reached since the morbid-torium was proclaimed . . . But when I asked one waiter, to whom I had handed juicy tips for years, if he would oblige with a five-spot until the banks opened, he got lost in the crowd . . . My wife and child have 95 cents between them in California. That is, they did have three days ago . . . But it is Saturday and Sunday I'm still groaning about . . . Three "pals," who had no trouble borrowing $1,000 two years ago, and who haven't mentioned it since, were among the fortunates who promoted cash coin last week . . . And I learned that they had! . . . But when I practically begged them all to give me some cabfare and barber fees, on account, the excuse they offered made me ill . . . What made me sicker was the realization that if I really needed it I couldn't get it! . . . And from people who got it from me when I was the kid with the "G!"

Charlie Ruggles Signs New Contract

Charlie Ruggles, now appearing in his twenty-fifth Paramount picture since joining that company three years ago, has signed a new long-term contract. The former stage star made his film debut in "Gentlemen of the Press" and has devoted his talents to the screen ever since. He now heads the cast of "Terror Aboard," and has appeared in such recent productions as "Murders in the Zoo," "Madame Butterfly," "If I Had a Million," "Trouble in Paradise," "The Night of June 13," "Love Me Tonight" and "One Hour With You." Although Ruggles' former contract signed while he was working at Paramount's New York studio, will not be completed for two months, the new one was drawn up to insure his services on a number of future productions.

Brian Aherne Possibly in 'Ibbetson'

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 10.—Friends of Brian Aherne are telling that his Paramount contract calls for the young English actor to play a featured role in a talkie version of "Peter Ibbetson."

This is the first news that Paramount contemplates a re-make of the romantic classic, and is the sole hint of Aherne's future activities after he finishes the Marlene Dietrich picture, "The Song of Songs."

Mr. Aherne

This actor, who created a sensation when he played opposite Katherine Cornell in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," is decidedly the most retiring matinee idol who ever came to Hollywood. He shuns interviews, he refuses to be drawn out about himself. He lives in a house alone. Aside from a few appearances with Marlene Dietrich, he has scarcely made himself visible on the cinema horizon.

Officially, Paramount isn't ready to say anything about "Peter Ibbetson." Years ago, they made a silent version, starring Wallie Reid and called "Forever After." On the stage John Barrymore was the star.

How many, I wonder, could name the author of "Peter Ibbetson"—I mean his full name? It was George Louie Palmella Busson Du Maurier.

Things being what they are, Richie Craig, Jr., phones in to suggest that we paraphrase it: "Debt Takes a Holiday."

Mr. Lloyd

Interesting to hear from Harold Lloyd that Europe has gone just as autograph crazy as Hollywood. He tells me he was beset for signatures even in the small villages. Now that the comedian is back, the United Artists' studio loses some of its deserted look. Harold has a dozen or more stories to look over, but has nothing definite in mind. He doesn't even know for sure when he wants to start to work. He was much impressed with Europe, made eight speeches over there in one day. And he's going back after his next picture.

Playful trick he and the Michael Farmers (Gloria Swanson) pulled in that London hotel. They switched the shoes outside all the doors on two floors. Reminiscent of the joke, Harold and Mildred received a big box from the Farmers as they were sailing. Inside were two shoes, Michael's big one and Gloria's tiny one. Despite rumors, Harold says this pair appear to be very happy.

If you can believe reports, Lawrence Tibbett will be back out here again next summer to do a picture. Harry Edington and Frank Vincent, Hollywood agents, are working on a deal now . . . In a prankish mood, Genevieve Tobin and Stuart Erwin went fishing in a gold-fish pond at a party the other evening. Stu managed to catch one . . . Marlene Dietrich shooed off photographers who wanted to take a picture of her at the Coconaut Grove. La Dietrich always gets the same table, a booth, when she goes to this late spot . . . Jean Harlow was another star to turn down photographers. She was with her Mexican doctor friend. Striking couple, they were, too, dancing to Phil Harris' music.

Miss Harlow

The Little Club had a big crowd. Even Bill Powell was on hand. Carole Lombard loves to dance. Bill likes it, too, but he's fonder of staying at home or visiting Dick Barthelmess . . . Don Alvarado is seen at all the dancing spots recently. He was at the Little Club with Claire Windsor . . . Buddy Rogers came with Sally Clark, of the radio world.

Some of Vince Barnett's victims got a laugh when the Apache dancer at the Club Ballyhoo picked up the professional ribber and whirled him around like a sack of feathers. But when Vince stopped spinning around on his stomach he snapped his fingers and shouted: "Seven!" It turned the joke . . . Ethel Collins and Lou Brock won't get married until next Saturday now . . . Broadway will lose Ward Morehouse again. He's to fly out here and adapt his "Bagdad of the Hudson" for Universal.

Did you know that Zasu Pitts originally played the mother in "All Quiet on the Western Front?" They had to cut her out of the picture and retake the scenes with another actress because a preview audience laughed every time Zasu came on the screen.

Rome

'Hold Me Tight' Title Of Dunn, Eilers Film

"Hold Me Tight" is the new title for the film previously announced as "Husbands Cost Money," in which the starring team of Sally Eilers and James Dunn will again be seen together. The picture was placed in production under the direction of David Butler. It is the Gladys Lehman adaptation of Margaret Rigdon's original story.

Japan's Defy In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Dramatic scenes of Japan's defiance of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva after the endorsement of a report condemning Japanese aggression in China, are contained in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. Yosuke Matsuoka, leader of the Japanese delegation, is heard pleading to the assembly not to vote in favor of the report. It is followed immediately with the announcement of President Hymans that the 43 nations represented have voted unanimously for the report. Matsuoka declares that Japan cannot accept the decision and signals to his 33 delegates who rise and follow out of the hall behind him. The Globe Trotter describes the entire proceedings.

Following the conference of governors of leading states with President Roosevelt in Washington, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, gives a talk in which he declares that the country has had more action in a week than it has had in months. He heartily endorses the President's plan and states that all the governors attending are backing the nation's chief executive to the last man.

First pictures of the great blizzard that swept over England are presented. In the worst storm in 30 years traffic is seen tied up in deep drifts. Scenes follow showing the damage wrought by the great flood that followed the thaw. Miles of farm lands lie under water as thousands of homes are cut off.

Weird

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Quite often folks at the "front of the house" are as interesting in personality as any of those on the stage. A case in point is Francis X. Hope, manager of the "Counsellor-At-Law" company in the Nixon, the star of which is Paul Muni, who appeared in two long runs of this Elmer Rice play in New York. Mr. Hope is a veteran of his craft, who for many years had under his management Adelaide Thurston, star of the ingenue type, who annually packed 'em in in the one-night stands. He gave her a new show every season, and she always was immensely popular. In fact, Mr. Hope classes her as the greatest road start of all time. Just as he thinks Mr. Muni is the greatest legitimate actor of the present day. Here we have only seen Mr. Muni in the movies previously, but on that knowledge alone, we are inclined to agree with Mr. Hope's estimate of him. Mr. Hope counts among his unusual experiences the reading of his own obituary. He was supposed to have been killed in an automobile accident. The fact is that he was seriously injured—and it is hard to keep a good man—. Incidentally, the writer counts among his own experiences the witnessing of a dress rehearsal by Mr. Hope of Miss Thurston and her company in "The Girl From Out Yonder," which he never saw again until Captain Menke and his showboat company gave it up the river—and oh, what a difference!

The opening of the box office sale of seats yesterday for "Of Thee I Sing," musical satire that will be presented next week in the Nixon, again proved that, whatever befalls, Pittsburgh still goes strongly for a musical play with a reputation. The queue extended twice across the foyer throughout the day despite the fact that there was an unusually large advance mail order. This attraction, featuring Victor Moore, Lois Moran and William Gaxton, will open Monday for the usual night and matinee performances.

Harry Ziff, Pittsburgh actor who recently made his professional debut with a stock company in Sunbury, is home after having been initiated as a trouper with all the traditional rites. Meaning that the manager skipped with the receipts when the time seemed propitious. He has since been apprehended. Harry, who got no salary, rates the value of the experience at par.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

SHEPHEARD'S HOTEL, CAIRO, Egypt.—Being a visitor to Cairo, I don't see how I can possibly avoid this column. Since it must be done, I suppose I might as well do it now and get it over with. Yes, dear children, I am speaking of my visit to the Pyramids and the Sphinx. Just as if you didn't know!

Viewing the Pyramids in Egypt is exactly like seeing Grant's Tomb when the tourist hits New York. It is something that must be done, and the quicker you get it over with the happier you are supposed to be. I don't want to insult your intelligence by comparing Grant's Tomb in New York with the great and mysterious Pyramids in this section of the world. And yet—

Well, supposing it were 5,000 years from now. I'm getting into difficulties, but what's the difference? Getting right down to cases, I'm dealing with tombstones. And once you're dealing with those things, brothers, arguments are pretty well a thing of the past.

All right, it's 5,000 years from now. New York has been buried for many centuries and, by some miracle, the only surviving landmark is Grant's Tomb. Gaze upon Mrs. Gilhawk, a typical tourist of the year 6,933 and listen to her as she talks:

"What's that, guide? You say this was once the center of a big civilization? Well, it certainly doesn't look like it now. Jim Ceribelli's general store, over in Bali, has this beat a mile. What's that? Oh, you say it must have looked like something 5,000 years ago? Well, I'm certainly glad you apologized.

"What did you say, Ray? You want to take my picture with the Tomb as a background? Well, I should say you can. Just wait until I climb into the ruins of that thing over there that the ancients used to call an automobile. Is it true, guide, that the Americans of that period used to ride in these things—on the ground? How terrible!

"Is my hat on straight, Ray? All ready, then. Just wait until I get back home and show this picture to Millie and Dot. Will they be jealous? I'll bet they'll fly to the same ruins of New York next week-end just because they won't be able to stand it.

"So this is the Tomb of King Grant, eh? Tee, hee."

Silly, I suppose you'll say. Nonsensical. Absurd. Far-fetched. Well, there's just a chance that you're right. But I wish that the one who conceived the Pyramids might look over my shoulder as I write this. I don't think he would feel that I was so very far from right . . .

Leaving the Sphinx for another day, permit me to pound out a few words upon the Pyramids. There are about 70 of them scattered over the desert from Giza to Medum, but the First Pyramid—the Period of Cheops—is possibly the most famous.

This particular Pyramid was built about 3,700 years before Christ, and they tell me that it's still the largest building in the world—ancient or modern. That may or may not be true, but I'm not the kind of guy who wants to argue with millions of Egyptians on their home territory. Besides, the statement certainly looks good in print.

At the present writing, there seems little reason to doubt the fact that all the Pyramids were built solely as tombs for the ancient Egyptian kings, queens and other notable personages, including jacks and tens. I mention that because, since time immemorial, the wildest theories imaginable have been offered in connection with the Pyramide—and the Pyramid of Cheops, in particular.

There have been those who stoutly maintained that all of the Pyramids have a symbolic or prophetic meaning. That belief has died away to a great extent since the last great prophecy failed to come through in 1928. But you'll still find plenty of gentlemen who will inform you in mysterious tones that "everything that is to be is written on the Pyramids."

And I'm not kidding about that, either. There are a number of otherwise shrewd men who actually believe the nonsense that they speak. They will prove "by measurements and calculations" that the Great War and the Armistice and the Lindbergh flight and anything else you might care to bring up were all clearly foretold by the Pyramid of Cheops.

All these assertions, of course, are absurd. But they make for good fiction and are interesting enough when told as the sun goes down and the chill air settles over the desert.

If you care for figures—and positively nothing is guaranteed—you might be interested in the fact that the First Pyramid is 451 feet high, occupies about 13 acres, and is composed of 85,000,000 cubic feet of stone. Indeed, it has been estimated that there are sufficient stones in the Pyramids to build a wall around France that would be four feet high and one foot thick.

Volumes and volumes can be written—and have been—upon the reaction of the individual as he gazes upon the Pyramids for the first time. But, no matter how beautifully or how flowery they are worded, they all boil down to the word "awe." Because that is the only word necessary to describe the sensation.

You look upon a sight that is so vast, so remarkable, and so useless that it seems to be a part of something totally foreign to you. This Pyramid might have taken 20,000 slaves 30 years to build, that one might have taken 10,000 slaves 40 years to build. Into the building of each Pyramid went death, destruction, horror, misery, gold, taxation, misfortune and the ultimate in superstition. And all for what?

It would take a far wiser man than I to supply the proper answer. All I know is that I looked upon these classic monuments of Stupidity and felt an overpowering sense of awe. Not because of their great beauty, for they are not beautiful. Not because of their age, for the very sands on which they stand are far older. And not because of the colossal magnitude, for—given the money and modern advantages—any fool, including myself, would be able to build you a Pyramid to end all other Pyramids.

No. These were not the reasons for the great sense of awe. It's the utter uselessness of the structures that gave me my impressions. Look:

Thousands of years ago, a king conceived the First Pyramid. It would mean, he was certain, a wonderful life after death—and it would be a monument to his greatness for all time. In it, although dead, he would live forever. And this Pyramid would always be sacred.

So today it is a tourists' hangout. Round-shouldered mammas and bald-headed papas crawl around in the sacred tomb. Human flies scale the walls for 20 cents a scale. And picnic parties enjoy pickles in the shade and roar with laughter as good old George F. Babbit gets seasick on a camel.

Come to think of it, pals, maybe I've been using the wrong word. Maybe it's not awe at all. Maybe it's just a fool's sense of the ironic . . .

CHEVROLET
WORLD'S LARGEST BUILDER OF AUTOMOBILES

Tomorrow CHEVROLET presents

A NEW AND ADDITIONAL LINE OF CARS

The World's Lowest-Priced Full-Size Six-Cylinder Enclosed Automobiles

COUPE . .	$445
COACH . .	$455
COUPE WITH RUMBLE SEAT . .	$475

All prices f. o. b. Flint, Michigan. Special equipment extra. Low delivered prices and easy G. M. A. C. terms.

These prices are not only many dollars lower than those of any other Chevrolet closed cars in history—they are lower, by far, than any corresponding six-cylinder models you can buy today. Yet each body-type is a big, full-size, full-length automobile. Each is a new car throughout—the result of over two years' planning, developing, testing, and perfecting. And each is a Chevrolet in the fullest, finest meaning of the name . . . built as Chevrolet cars are always built—and featuring the same standards of quality . . . performance . . . dependability and economy that have made CHEVROLET the greatest name in low-price transportation.

The styling is modern, aer-stream styling . . . ultra-smart and up-to-the-minute—the kind that all America admires. The bodies are Fisher wood-and-steel bodies—spacious, tastefully finished—and featuring that greatest of all 1933 motoring developments: Fisher No Draft Ventilation. The windshields have safety plate glass. The transmission has an easy, clashless shift and a silent second gear. The engine is a smooth, valve-in-head six. The performance is dashing, dynamic . . . a real thrill to experience. And Chevrolet engineers have made economy an outstanding feature! Engineering tests show that the Standard Six goes more miles on a gallon of gas, more on a filling of oil, than will any other full-size car on the road. As for reliability—remember, it's a Chevrolet.

The introduction of this new car gives Chevrolet even more complete leadership of the field which it has led in sales for 4 out of the past 6 years. It opens the way for new thousands of people to enjoy the advantages of Chevrolet quality. It gives the American public, for the first time in history, a full-size automobile in which maximum quality and maximum all-round economy meet on common ground. See this new Chevrolet Standard Six without fail. It's a car that every motorist in America will want to know all about!

One of early spring brides has now named all the members of her bridal party, and has all her plans made for that most important event in a girl's life—her wedding.

Alice Townsend de Peyster, daughter of the Frederick Ashton de Peysters, of Park avenue, New York, who has named March 27 as the date for her marriage to James Todd, son of Mrs. James Todd, of Sewickley, is the bride we're talking about today.

Her sister, Helen Van Cortlandt de Peyster, will be her maid of honor. And Mrs. Francis McN. Banon III, Mrs. Rogers C. Dunn, Mrs. James Randall Creel, Helen Greeff, Margaret Dangerfield, all of New York, and Laura Tuckerman, of Washington, will be bridesmaids.

Men in Party

John C. Wellwood, Jr., will be Mr. Todd's best man. And the ushers will be John S. Richardson, Richard A. Quay, Jr., of Washington; William Metcalf Doolittle, of Sewickley, John B. N. Benney and David A. Tomnasey, of Washington; T. Stockton Gaines, of Charleston and Pittsburgh; Frederic A. de Peyster, Jr., brother of the bride-elect; Cornelius A. Agnew, Jr., Donald Agnew and Stewart Coles Edmonds, all of New York.

And a Sewickley young man, Charles A. Wood, Jr., a close friend of the bridegroom-to-be, will play a program of organ music while the guests are assembling and during the service.

The marriage is to take place in S. James' Episcopal Church, New York, Monday afternoon, March 27.

Although many invitations will be sent out for the ceremony, those to the reception at the home of the de Peysters will be limited to near relatives and intimate friends.

Sale at Exchange

There's going to be an epidemic of rummage sales this spring, and the public is delighted. For there's the eternal hope in everyone that some time she'll unearth a treasure at one of these sales of strange conglomerations.

The Woman's Exchange will hold its annual spring rummage sale in May instead of in April. The new dates are May 5 and 6. The Exchange Board, made up of Pittsburgh and Sewickley social leaders, formerly planned the sale for April 28 and 29.

Each year the Exchange's rummage sales attract thousands of the curious who come to look, and then buy. Proceeds are used for maintaining the Exchange, on downtown Penn avenue, where the work of deserving women is sold.

Baseball Benefit

An amusing event in Palm Beach, Fla., was the baseball game played Wednesday by winter colonists and the team of the Palm Beach police for the benefit of the Palm Beach police pension fund.

And the society team won—10 to 6! Richard King Mellon was on the winning side.

Mrs. George Hamilton Flinn and Mrs. William Terrell Johnson are expected Sunday in New York on the Belgenland after a West Indies cruise. They will stop at the St. Regis before returning home.

Leaves England

Mrs. Harry Darlington, who has ben in England for several months, is on her way home.

The J. Frederic Byerses and their athletic young daughter, Nancy, are off for Aiken for early spring hunting. And the Byerses' sons, J. Frederic, Jr., a student at Yale, and Bucky Byers, at St. Paul's, will spend their spring vacation with them at Aiken.

Play Contest Meeting Called for March 21

Representatives of all the contesting groups in the ninth amateur players' contest will meet in the Irene Kaufmann Settlement auditorium, Center avenue, on Tuesday evening, March 21, to confer with the contest committee.

Since the number of contestants has been limited to 16, it has been necessary to establish a waiting list for the contestants to provide for a vacancy in case any group fails to qualify for the contest.

Howard R. Eulenstein, chairman of the committee, is assisted by Jacob Benedict, business manager and Miss Helen St. Peter, publicity chairman.

Wilkinsburg Afternoon Club Elects Officers

These officers were elected yesterday by the Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg: President, Mrs. Cortlandt Elkins; vice presidents, Mrs. B. Raybeck and Miss Charlotte Atkinson; recording secretary, Mrs. C. Judd Holt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. G. Byerly, Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. N. A. Wahlberg.

Mrs. James G. Chalfant, district president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, addressed the club. Mrs. J. H. McCulloch and Mrs. Carl L. Rogers were hostesses in Mrs. Rogers' home, Singer place.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Ghen To Speak Before W.C.T.U.

Addresses by Mrs. Azuba Jones, national evangelist, and Mrs. M. W. Ghen, state director of child welfare, will mark the quarterly institute program of the Allegheny County Women's Christian Temperance Union in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday. At the morning session the directors will give eight-minute reports. Mrs. R. A. Hutchison will report the dry rally at Washington just before the close of the afternoon session.

Business Club To Dedicate Road Sign

Dr. Mary E. Coffin is president of the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Club which will meet for luncheon at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel tomorrow. At the conclusian of luncheon they will go to the eastern borough line there to dedicate a road sign which informs visiting B.P.W's. of a friendly welcome at the Wilkinsburg meetings the second Tuesday of each month.

Dr. Coffin

The sign dedication is a part of National Business Women's Week celebration which has been under Mrs. Janet M. Snyder's chairmanship. Mrs. Virginia Hitchon is chairman of the emblem committee, which procured the sign and which plans to place another at the Pittsburgh-Wilkinsburg line.

Progress of Woman Traced by Judge For B. P. W.

How the woman of today is reaping the fruits and responsibilities of the seed sown by such pioneers in "the woman movement" as Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Belva Lockwood, Alice Freeman Palmer and others, was shown by Judge Sara Soffel at the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women's dinner last night.

Judge Soffel, who is a member of the club, spoke of the three phases of the movement, the demand for education equal to that of men, then economic independence and, third, suffrage. Today woman is demanding equality in opportunity, she pointed out.

Representatives from the Pittsburgh Advertising, Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs were present to help the women celebrate National Business Women's Week at a dinner of nearly 200 covers in the Keystone Athletic Club. Arthur J. Pierce spoke for the Rotarians, Robert Heywang for the Advertising Club and John D. Meyer for Rotary. Miss Marjorie Stewart, blind radio director, was honor guest, chosen for her achievement under difficulty.

An exceptionally fine program of solos and duets was presented under the direction of Miss May Beegle by Carolyn Hunt Mahaffey, contralto, and Samuel Di Primio, tenor, with Irene Griffin Gros at the piano.

Members' Canadian Trip To Be Shown Quota Club

Movies of the Canadian Rockies, Jasper Park, Lake Louise, Vancouver, Montreal and Quebec made from pictures taken by various club members during their summer vacation trips, will be shown at the dinner meeting of the Quota Club Monday evening in the Mayfair Hotel.

The president, Miss Frances McKillop, will present plans for the annual convention of the international Quota clubs, which is to be held in June at Swampscott, Mass.

New Officers Elected By Wilkinsburg P. T. A.

Officers were elected last night by the senior high unit of Wilkinsburg Parent-Teacher Association, and Mrs. Ray H. Kiser was made president. Mrs. Helen Egli is now vice president; Mrs. J. W. Nesbit, secretary, and Mrs. G. H. Kirkpatrick, treasurer.

Next month's meeting of the senior association will be held on April 27 in conjunction with the senior high's open house.

Hill Top 'Y' Mothers To Give Play Tuesday

A play and an old-fashioned singing school will be sponsored Tuesday at King's School of Oratory by the Mothers' Club of the Hill Top Y. M. C. A. The roles in the play, "Fads and Fancies," will be enacted by members under the direction of Mrs. Maud Williams. Mrs. Dudley Walker is in charge of the singing school.

Dr. Mathias to Address Rockledge Garden Club

Dr. Mildred Mathias will tell the Rockledge Garden Club all about the history of gardens when the club meets Monday with Mrs. S. R. Alman, of Braddock avenue. Mrs. J. M. Carothers, Mrs. W. B. Laufman and Mrs. W. F. McCrady are joint hostesses with Mrs. Alman.

Trolley Car Is Made Into Cozy Clubhouse by Girl Scout Troop

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

When the various Girl Scout troops celebrate scouting's twenty-first birthday on Sunday, one of the most unusual celebrations will be that of Troop 15, because it has its own clubhouse, and it's a street car. Out in Homestead Park on a sloping hillside stands this car which has been made into a unique little home where the girls spend most of their weekends during the winter and whole weeks during the summer. They even go in for gardening in the little plot that is their front yard.

The car was one of those discarded by the railways company when the line between Lincoln Place and Homestead was discontinued. It was bought by the scouts, the seats were taken out and that space made into a comfortable curtain-hung living-dining room. The motorman's cab is the efficiency kitchen, and a bedroom with sufficient space for 10 cots has been added at one side. There's even a porch, if you please. And, oh yes, a cellar for coal and tools. In the summer, vines clamber over the tidy little compact home and in the side yard an Indian tepee and outdoor fireplace add to the general comforts of home.

The girls dug the cellar. They have carried stones and built a little retaining wall, have made their own brick walks, canned vegetables, planted birch trees and between times have done kindly acts and worthy service for underprivileged "little sisters." Wanda Neundorf is the popular troop leader.

PINCHOT SEEKS TO WITHDRAW KING'S NAME

By MARK SHIELDS

Gov. Pinchot may attempt to withdraw the nomination of Dr. Clyde L. King as a member of the Public Service Commission when the Senate meets Monday night.

Unless he is successful in such an appeal, or unless the Senate takes the initiative and rejects King, the Governor will be unable to punish the head of the rate-making body, whose usefulness, he said in an amazing statement yesterday, is at an end.

King today stood on his rejoinder, in which he charged that the Governor had attempted to force him to play politics and to become a rubber stamp as head of the commission, amendable to the Governor's political desires. Under the law King holds the whip hand, being protected by a Supreme Court decision against executive discipline, once his nomination becomes the property of the Senate.

BATTLE AVOIDED

The claim of King that every member of the Public Service Commission signed letters read before the Senate Utility Committee, dealing with legislation and reporting on the work and practices of the commission, is understood not to have involved in a battle with the Governor commissioners, P. S. Stahlnecker, George W. Woodruff and C. Jay Goodnough.

All are Pinchot appointees and personal friends of Pinchot. Stahlnecker, at least, is known to have disapproved King's interpolated testimony before the committee, that further investigation was not needed as a basis for new legislation. In some quarters King's mention of unanimous approval was taken as an effort to draw his associates into the battle.

Neither the Governor nor King today would add to the bristling interchanges of yesterday, in which King said he had told the Governor many of the executive's ideas were impractical before he took the commission chairmanship.

King said he had repeatedly informed the Governor that many of his statements to the public were unjustified. He charged that the Governor, exponent of the "square deal," denies that fairness to others when it is to his political advantage to do so, adding that "such hypocrisy must speak for itself."

PINCHOT LACKS POWER

The break between the Governor and King will not affect the personnel of the commission it was learned today. So long as Dr. King continues as chairman the Governor is without power to remove employes of the commission.

In his reply yesterday to the Governor's charge that his "usefulness as chairman is at an end," Dr. King declared that Pinchot demanded that he "make a political shamble of the employes of this commission for his personal political advantage."

The personnel of the commission is immune from influence of the Governor's office. Dismissal of employes of the commission is a privilege vested solely in the hands of the chairman. The only commission employes who are outside this pale are the secretary, marshal and investigator of accidents. This trio is chosen by a majority vote of the commission.

Even though the Governor has four other personal appointees on the commission, this majority would only touch those three positions.

There have been few changes in personnel on the commission since Dr. King took charge last October. Less than a dozen were dropped and several additions made to the payroll.

Dr. King during the time he has been a state official never went in for political firings. He is known to have opposed demands from the chief executive while Secretary of Revenue to drop workers for political reasons.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

NEW CASTLE, NORWIN MEET

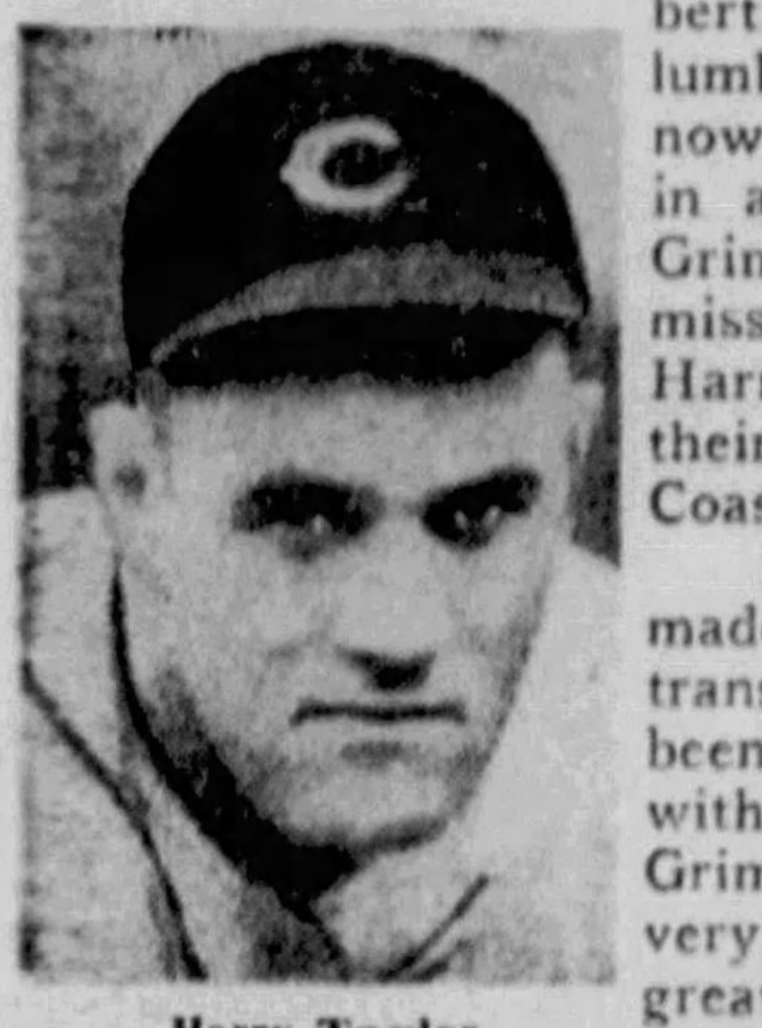
SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Cubs Farm Pittsburgher.
Four Red Berths Open.
Browns Down to Limit.
Dukes End Great Year.
Slump of Fight Gates.
Task for Rosenbloom.

HENDRICK DEAL TO COST TAYLOR JOB

WHEN THE REDS released Harvey Hendrick to the Cardinals' Columbus chain store as part of the deal for Jim Bottomley, they were causing a Pittsburgh product to lose a berth in the big show temporarily. Columbus sold Hendrick to the Cubs, and now, because Harvey is available to fill in at first base for Manager Charley Grimm when the latter is out of commission, the Bruins are going to send Harry Taylor, former Pittsburgher, to their Los Angeles farm in the Pacific Coast League under option.



Harry Taylor

Official announcement has not been made, but it is understood that the transfer of Taylor to Los Angeles has been decided on and will be put through within the next week or two. Manager Grimm says that Taylor looks like a very promising player, and already is a great fielder, but that he is young and needs work and it would be harmful to his chances to keep him sitting on the bench most of the season. The Cubs cannot carry three first basemen, and Hendrick will get the call over Taylor as extra first sacker because of greater experience. Taylor last season was farmed to Albany in the International League.

THE SIGNING OF Jim Bottomley and Red Lucas helped to clear the atmosphere for Donie Bush, but the Red pilot still has several problems on his hands. The only positions definitely filled are first base, shortstop and left field, where Bottomley, Leo Durocher and Chick Hafey are early fixtures.

At second base, Bush must choose between George Grantham and Foots Blair. At third, Andy High, Joe Morrissey and Otto Bluege are the candidates. Harry Rice is opposed in right field by Irving Pummer and Joe Cicero, and for center there are Taylor Douthit, Johnny Moore and Wally Roettger.

RUMORS THAT THE action of Manager Bucky Harris in trading Earl Whitehill for Fred Firpo and Carl Fischer was not wholly to the liking of Frank Navin are still being denied by the Tiger owner.

Navin looks for Marberry to save many games for the Tigers. He recalls six lost to the Yanks last year after the Jungaleers had led up to the sixth inning, which he thinks Marberry could have won with his finishing ability. As for Fischer, Navin thinks the heat in St. Louis and Washington kept him from getting his fast ball working and he looks for a great improvement in that pitcher in the cooler weather of Detroit.

FEARS THAT SOME of the Washington players would not hustle for Joe Cronin have been dispelled in at least one case, that of Pitcher Bobby Burke. In previous springs, Burke was known as a lobby sitter, taking little interest in the training activities. This was reflected in his work last year, as he won only three games while losing six, and pitched only two complete contests all season. But under Cronin he has turned over a new leaf, apparently. He did a lot of hiking and golf playing before baseball practice started, and since going to camp at Biloxi he has been one of the hardest workers on the squad. There is every promise that he will be a different pitcher in 1933.

Louis Comiskey

THE MOST STRINGENT regulations of baseball's spring training period are in force at the camp of the White Sox in Pasadena, in the shadow of the Rose Bowl. Players were not permitted to take their wives to the camp, and the athletes are not even allowed to have automobiles.

Hours are strict and the rules in general are unusually harsh. Manager Lew Fonseca is said to have let the Sox get a bit out of hand last year, with the result that Owner Louis Comiskey ordered a tighter rein.

THERE IS ONE manager in the majors who won't have to wrestle with any pruning problems when the 23-player limit is enforced on May 15. Bill Killefer, of the Browns, has only 23 men even now.

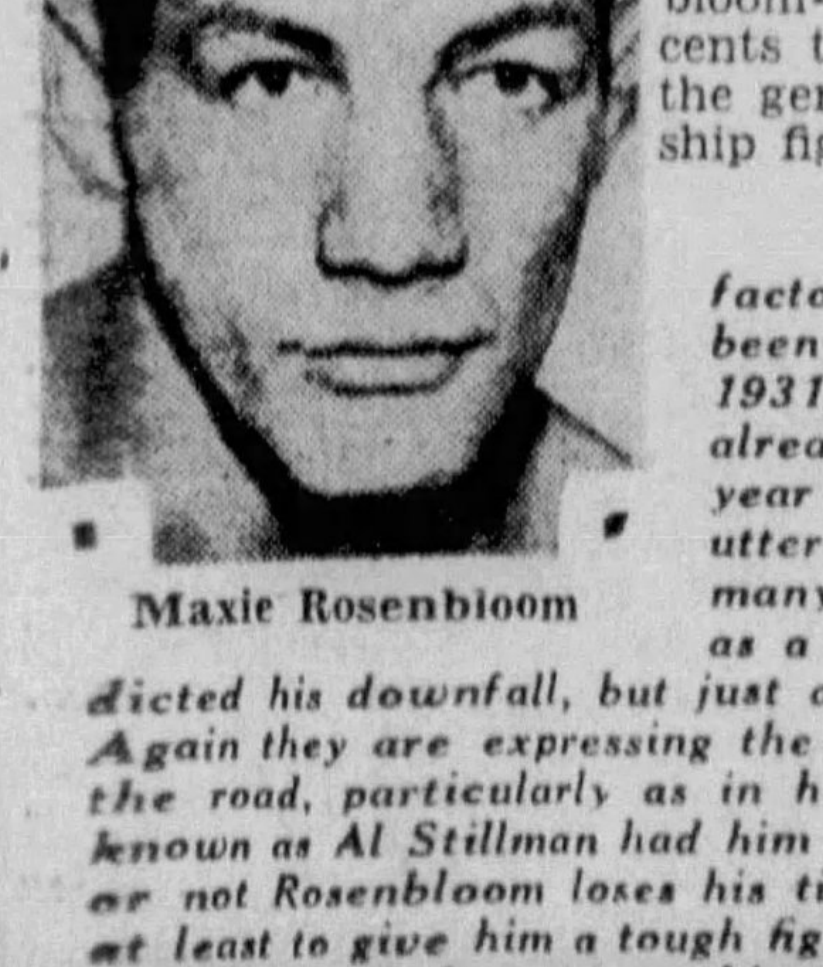
The Browns have nine pitchers in Blaeholder, Brown, Cooney, Hebert, Gray, Coffman, Hadley, Knott and Stiles; four catchers in Ferrell, Bengough, Ruel and Crouch; five infielders in Levey, Burns, Mellilo, Scharein and Storti, and five outfielders in Reynolds, West, Campbell, Gullic and Garns.

THE STRONGEST OF the local basketball teams will be the first to close the season. Duquesne University's two-time city champions will wind up the most brilliant campaign in the history of the Bluff school by meeting Washington and Jefferson tonight in Washington, and unless somebody works a court miracle the Dukes will ring down the curtain with their fourteenth consecutive victory and the great record of 15 wins in 16 starts for the year. Coach Chick Davies and his clever hoopsters have added a sensational chapter to the story of college basketball in this district, and it is a source of regret to local fans that in their banner season the Dukes didn't get a crack at some of the champion teams of other parts of the country. Even in a national tournament the Bluffites would have gone far.

AT THAT, THOUGH the Dukes had no such chance to prove their full possibilities, old basketball observers here contend that they are entitled to a rating equal to that of any other college team in the land, since Pitt defeated Temple and Westminster beat St. John's.

St. John's was the only team to defeat College of the City of New York. The latter, coached by Nat Holman, received a championship trophy recently and was rated by many the best collegiate five in the whole East. Temple beat many good teams, including St. John's, and the defeat at Pitt's hands was its first at home. Duquesne defeated Pitt twice, and, though beaten by Westminster in the second game on the schedule, came back to turn the tables later in the season.

IN NEW YORK tonight Maxie Rosenbloom will risk the light-heavyweight championship in a 15-round bout with Adolph Heuser, of Germany, and the gate is likely to show again the tremendous slump in the drawing power of title fights since the golden era of the glove game from 1921 to 1930.



Maxie Rosenbloom

When Paul Berlenbach lost this same championship to Jack Delaney on July 16, 1926, the receipts approximated $450,000. It is doubtful if tonight's show will draw 5 per cent of that sum. Prices for the Rosenbloom-Heuser match fill range from 55 cents to $3.30, the top being no more than the general admission price to a championship fight a few years ago.

THOUGH NOT THE most satisfactory of champions, Rosenbloom has been the busiest. He fought 22 times in 1931, 30 times in 1932 and three times already this year. This is his eleventh year as a fighter, and in view of his utter disregard for the rules of condition many experts believe it will be his last as a headliner. Often before they predicted his downfall, but just as often Slapsy Maxie fooled them. Again they are expressing the opinion that he is near the end of the road, particularly as in his latest bout a youngster as little known as Al Stillman had him on the floor several times. Whether or not Rosenbloom loses his title tonight, Heuser appears certain at least to give him a tough fight. The German has won all of his 11 bouts since he came to this country a little more than a year ago.

LEON CHAGNON, BIRKOFER TO TAKE SLAB

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 10.—Conditioned almost to a midsummer degree, the classy Pirates today were in this big city ready to start their long barnstorming jaunt. Gibby's tanned athletes were slated to take on the San Francisco Seals this afternoon at Seals Stadium.

Leon Chagnon and Ralph Birkofer, the latter the sturdy left hander from Tulsa, were chosen to carry the slab burden in the jump-off battle with the Seals. The whole first-string lineup of the Pittsburgh entry will swing into action at the outset, with the possible exception of Earl Grace, whose throwing arm has been giving him a little concern. In the event Grace does not receive the task will fall to Hal Finney. In any event, Hal is due to get some action in the initial fracas.

CAVENEY IN CHARGE

The Seals are piloted by Jimmy Caveney, who did a capable shortstopping trick for the Cincinnati Reds through several years. Jim is a hot shot around the bay section; he is a native son and a popular one at that; moreover he has ever been a smart diamond performer and his club is likely to cut quite a wide swat in the Pacific Coast League.

Caveney's team also will make things hum for the Buccaneers tomorrow afternoon and the same clubs will tangle on Sunday afternoon, but the Pirate program calls for a Sunday morning attraction in Oakland, across San Francisco Bay.

Boss Gibson will not take any chance with his players in the first couple of games. He plans to throw some of his clever reservists into action as the innings wear on. So Pie Traynor, the Waners and one or two others may come out to rest in deference to the utility players. Said Gibby:

TO REST VETERANS

"The regular lineup will start each game against the Seals, but I plan to pull some of the veterans just as quickly as they show signs of feeling the strain. This method will be followed until we mix with the Cubs next week. If the boys have reached a point close to their peak the regulars will stay in the games right up to the finish. It isn't likely, however, that any pitcher will go the full route while we remain in San Francisco. That will be a bit too early."

The Pirates are due to stay in the San Francisco section until one week from Sunday night. A four-game series with Charley Grimm's champions will open next Friday.

Three of the contests will be staged at the San Francisco park, the morning contest of Sunday, March 19, being listed for Oakland.

Their joy was mingled with regret as the Pirates left Paso Robles yesterday afternoon. The training camp town gave the Buccos a remarkable preparatory season. Nevertheless, the Pittsburghers were anxious to get closer to the big stuff which is slated to get under way in Cincinnati one month from tomorrow.

Chillysauce

Although a definite decision is not likely to be given soon, the Pirates probably will return to Paso Robles next year. The public-spirited citizens conferred with President William E. Benswanger and Manager George Gibson yesterday. The officials have practically decided to hold to their camp, provided the team trains in California.

San Francisco fans will get their first view of Honus Wagner in person when the Pirates tangle with the Seals today. A reunion between Honus and one of his foremost rivals for baseball greatness is likely to be effected while the Buccos linger here. Ty Cobb has some sort of a hook-up with the Seals and he has been here for some time.

Two-column headlines greeted the arrival of Wagner in San Francisco last night. Others sharing the spotlight with Honus were Gus Suhr and Paul Waner, two of the greatest of the Seals' graduates, and Remy Kremer, who pitched many years for his home town team in Oakland.

Extra! Extra! The 25-cent bleachers are back, and the Pirates are a part of the venture. When the Buccos tear into the Seals today, they will be watched by the boys in the two-bit bleachers.

Seal officials called President Benswanger at Paso Robles to ask the permission of the Pirates to play for the old-time figure. The Coast League officials voted in the quarter seats some time ago.

The San Francisco men also announce today that checks would be accepted at the gate as admission fees for the battle with the Buccos.

The Pirates reached San Francisco about 9 o'clock last night. They immediately repaired to the William Taylor Hotel, which will be their home while they remain in the city.

Penn Track Star Barred by A. A. U.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—(AP.)—Bill McKniff, University of Pennsylvania track star, and former National Intercollegiate indoor mile titleholder, has been barred from all A. A. U. meets by the Middle Atlantic Amateur Athletic Union.

The local A. A. U. charged McKniff participated in an unsanctioned meet last summer. McKniff was to have run on the Pennsylvania mile relay team in the Niagara A. A. meet in Buffalo tonight.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: FORTY-SEVEN YEARS IN THE ARMY—In December, 1932, Master Sergt. John F. O'Donnell re-enlisted at the Army Recruiting Station in Baltimore, having rounded out his twenty-eighth year of service under the Stars and Stripes, which was preceded by 19 years in the British Army. O'Donnell first entered service in the British Army at the age of 14, and although he now is only 58 years old, he has a total of 47 years' service to his credit, due to double time received for three years in the Philippines.

The independents mixed basketball with fisticuffing last night as the J. P. Rooneys, of the North Side, were nosed out by the Y. M. H. A. passers in a West Penn League fracas, 31 to 30. The contest went into an overtime period.

Tommy O'Hara, Rooney forward, didn't like the action of one of the home boys and the wrangle started. It was quickly put down and the contest proceeded. Landau's goal in the extra period proved the deciding tally.

The J. J. Hurleys and Tecky-Jucky fives and the St. Michaels and Doc Gannons clash tonight in leading independent tussles.

Joey Speigal Wins Over Paul Oger

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 10.—(AP.)—Joey Speigal, 144, Uniontown, outpointed Paul Oger, 145½, Fairmont, in 10 rounds here last night.

In a six-round semi-final, Frankie Reilly, 138, Fairmont, was awarded a referee's decision over U. S. Carpentier, 134½, of New Kensington, Pa.

Fight Results

REED, BICKEL GAIN FINAL

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

McCook Reed, Pittsburgh Golf Club ace and defending titleholder, will battle Bill Bickel, rangy K. A. C. challenger, in final contest of the annual city class A squash racquets championship tournament on the Keystone Athletic Club gallery court at 3 p. m. tomorrow. The trophy contenders passed into the wind-up bracket yesterday, as Reed eliminated Frank McClintock, P. A. A. star, and Bickel disposed of Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, likewise a Winged Header.

Reed flashed impressively in registering 18-17, 15-11, 15-7 win over the veteran McClintock. The Golf Clubber's fine defensive backhand, accurate corner shots and useful service circumvented even the remarkable court covering of the P. A. A. performer. McClintock's hard hitting appeared calculated to run his opponent rather than to finish off the points.

LOSER'S RALLY WASTED

The Winged Head luminary pulled up from 9-13 to 13-all in the initial game then led at 4-2 from deuce, only to see his gallant effort go for naught as Reed spurted. McClintock seemed to have spent himself in that driving finish and the remaining games found Reed distinctly in ascendancy.

O'Loughlin, with the count deadlocked at 1-1 in games, sped into a 7-0 advantage in the third canto. He was still far ahead at 10-4, whereupon he lapsed and Bickel squared the going at 11-11. A dazzling volley return of service by O'Loughlin and a wallop into the tin by Bickel gave Dave a 13-11 margin, but the Keystoner knotted matters once more, this time at 13-all. O'Loughlin breezed in front at 3-0 from deuce and had game point at 4-3 when he tinned a sizzling backhand for 4-4.

BICKEL SHOWS CLASS

The ensuing exchange was long and spirited with the P. A. A. hope slashing a low forehand into the metal to drop the concluding marker. Game four was mere formality, O'Loughlin playing listlessly as Bickel seized insurmountable lead and was never endangered. The ultimate count read 10-15, 15-8, 18-17, 15-6. Bickel's astonishing "gets" and crashing forehand featured the fray.

Wilson to Dicker For New Position

MIAMI, Fla., March 10.—(AP.)—Lewis Robert (Hack) Wilson was in the market today for a new owner willing to pay him $15,000 for the 1933 season.

Turning down a $10,000 offer from the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday, Hack was given formal permission to dicker with other National League clubs in an effort to bring about his own trade.

GEHRIG SIGNS WITH YANKS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 10.—(AP.)—Manager Joe McCarthy today was advised that Henry Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankees' big first-baseman, had signed his contract and was en route to camp.

The signing of Columbia Lou leaves only Babe Ruth outside the fold and the Babe has been working out with the team pending the arrival of Col. Jacob Ruppert and a conference over the $50,000 contract he has declined to sign. The arrival of Gehrig will complete the camp roster.

Although no information reached the camp as to the terms at which Gehrig signed, it was understood he will get close to $25,000 for 1933, a "cut" of not more than $5,000.

Baseball Briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP.)—The banking situation today was causing President William L. Veeck, of the Chicago Cubs, more deep thought than the condition of his players. The Bruins were all set today to open a list of seven games against the New York Giants, Los Angeles and the Chicago White Sox here, but with scrip due to be issued today in California, Veeck was not certain that a trip to San Francisco and Sacramento next week would be made.

LOS ANGELES—(AP.)—Bill Terry learned his baseball under John McGraw, so it's not by accident that he insists upon his New York Giants playing "heads-up" baseball. He says:

"A player can be expected to hit only as well as he knows how, and he can cover only so much ground in the field. But there is no excuse for a man throwing the ball to the wrong base or bungling things up by being out of position when a certain play comes up."

PASADENA, Cal.—(AP.)—The Chicago White Sox, regulars and everyone else, today had their orders to bear down and display everything they have. A collection of irregulars and pickups from neighboring sandlots trimmed the Regulars, 10 to 6, yesterday, and Manager Lew Fonseca got very little pleasure out of it.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—A week late, Robert Lee Northington, Boston Braves outfielder, arrived in camp yesterday with his bride, the former Bernice Brown, and Manager Bill McKechnie overlooked the tardiness. Worthington explained he could not follow McKechnie's

SOUTH INVADES BEAVER FALLS FOR GAME

By JULIUS LEVIN

Two contenders for the basketball championship of the W. P. I. A. L. make their first local appearance in the tournament in the Pitt Stadium pavilion tonight when New Castle, champion of Section III, clashes with Norwin, champion of Section XI, in a quarter-final engagement.

The winner earns the right to meet Monessen High, champion of Section V and conqueror of Canonsburg and Ford City, in a semi-final tilt in the Pitt Stadium pavilion next Monday night.

New Castle High, coached by Phil Bridenbaugh, is an old favorite in W. P. I. A. L. eliminations, although the Lawrence Countians never have been able to win the championship.

BEATEN BY BRADDOCK

Last year New Castle advanced to the quarter finals before it bowed to Braddock, which went on to win the W. P. I. A. L. crown. New Castle defeated Zelienople in the second round, 33-12, prior to the 25-22 setback at the hands of Braddock.

Norwin High has the distinction of playing in the only extra-period contest staged in the tournament so far. The Section XI champions defeated Connellsville, Champion of Section X, in a second round battle at Greensburg last Tuesday, 35-33, the battle going two overtime periods before the winner was decided.

The New Castle team is rated one of the favorites to win the tournament and its appearance here likely will draw one of the best crowds to see an elimination game this season. Included in the New Castle lineup are Uram, Reiber and Teplica of last year's team. Reiber led the scorers in Section III with 27 field goals and 35 fouls for a total of 89 points.

SOUTH HIGH PLAYS

Tonight the South High School quintet, champion of the City League and District VIII representative in the state playoffs, invades Beaver Falls to meet the Tigers in the preliminary to the Geneva College-St. Mary's game. This is one of the several post-season games arranged by Coach Grover C. Washabaugh to keep the Orioles in shape for the inter-district contest with the W. P. I. A. L. winner in the Pitt Stadium pavilion on Tuesday, March 21.

Finals in all three classes of the Washington County tournament will be played in Washington tonight. Donora and California are the finalists in class I, while I. P. A. and Blaine Township are finalists in the other divisions.

TITLE GAMES TONIGHT

The Northwestern Pennsylvania class B championships will be settled at Cambridge Springs tonight. The winner will compete for the District X championship of the state.

The class A and class B championships of the Westmoreland County tournament will be decided next Tuesday. The games originally carded last night, were postponed because Norwin, a finalist in class A, is competing in the W. P. I. A. L. tournament.

A great East Pittsburgh High School basketball team, a team which upset the dope of the experts by advancing to the quarter-final round of the W. P. I. A. L. eliminations, the first Class B school to accomplish this feat in the history of the tournament, passed out of the championship picture last night when it lost a stubbornly-fought battle to Ambridge High, a champion of Section IV, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, 24-22.

BRIDGERS STAGE RALLY

The Bridgers, led by the ever-dependable Whitey Winne at guard and Johnny (On the Spot) Duncan, two boys who stood out prominently in the victory Ambridge scored over Mt. Lebanon in a second-round game, had to battle all the way to eliminate the Shamrocks, coached by Johnny Coleman. Had East Pittsburgh been more successful in its charity shots, a different story might be told today. The Section XVII champions missed eight shots from the foul line and when you pass up these opportunities in a game that lasts only 32 minutes, you're playing under a severe handicap. East Pittsburgh outscored Ambridge from the floor, netting nine baskets to seven for the victors, but the Bridgers counted 10 times on fouls.

East Pittsburgh, paired with New Kensington in the first round ostensibly to get rid of what appeared to be one of the weaker teams in the tourney, continued its brilliant play of the earlier games by getting a big lead at the outset. Two field goals in rapid order by Kweller and a foul and a field goal by Fabel gave East Pittsburgh seven points in a hurry in the early stages of the first period. Clougherty added another double-decker shortly before the sound of the gun to give the Shamrocks a 9-5 lead.

'BRIDGE CUTS LEAD

Ambridge got going in the second period when Winne reduced the lead to two points by getting

THREE PANTHER VARSITY TEAMS IN ACTION

By JESS CARVER

Wash-Jeff share of basketball wealth this season has been niggardly, but to the Presidents and their home-town supports tonight goes the privilege of assisting the district's champions, Duquesne's Durable Dukes, wind up their most auspicious campaign.

Beaten only once in 14 games, the Dukes tonight close their season by battling the hapless Presidents in Washington. About all the Prexies can hope for tonight is to be able to make a good fight against the smooth-working Dukes. The chance of a Wash-Jeff victory is as remote as the poles, including Wladek Zbyszko. It's too remote, in truth, even to dwell upon.

CLOSE BEST SEASON

Strangely enough, the Dukes are completing their best season and the Presidents their worst. Such is life.

Two members of the Duquesne squad, and only two, Capt. John (Bunk) McGeever, and Richard (Subby) Irwin, will make their final appearances as varsity performers in tonight's tussle, unless the Dukes should engage in a post-season game of some sort. Sacrificing personal glory for the good of the team, Capt. McGeever cheerfully took his place with the reserves this year, thereby proving himself to be a greater Duquesne man than if he'd averaged 50 points a game. A team is no stronger than its weakest link and the fact that the Dukes had a powerful squad of reserves aided no little in the compiling of its fine record. Irwin too has served as a reservist, and when called upon, served well.

TANKERS IN EAST

Pitt has three varsity teams, or parts of varsity teams, in action tonight. First, Pat Corr, the well-known barrister, has his swimmers parked in New Brunswick, N. J., where tonight and tomorrow they'll compete in the Eastern Collegiate Association individual championships.

The Panther wrestlers, making their first and only appearance of the season are in Waynesburg to try conclusions, grunts, holds and grimaces (what is wrestling without a good grimace or two?) with Waynesburg's Yellow Jackets and Coach Carl Olsen, who has a strong will to win as has Doc Carlson, has part of his track and field squad in South Bend for participation in the Central States games at Notre Dame.

Still in the running for the Intercollegiate Conference basketball title, on which Pitt has a first mortgage, Carnegie Tech's passers invade Washington, D. C., tomorrow to take on Georgetown's surprising Hoyas.

The Carnegie Tech-Bucknell Intercollegiate Conference boxing match, scheduled for tomorrow night in the Tartans' gym, has been cancelled permanently.

The Tipoff

Geneva is scheduled to come to a definite decision regarding the successor to Howdy Harpster as football coach some time today. The committee of three, which has been considering applications for the job by a bushel basket full, will meet this afternoon or this evening and, according to the program, name a successor.

Howard Spencer, Geneva College's jumping-jack, isn't through battling with George Spitz, New York University's star jumper for the season. Spencer, who has beaten Spitz three times in seven meetings, will attempt to even matters with the Violet ace in the K. of C. Games in New York City next week.

According to Operative X-9876, Charley Hyatt, who was star enough for a lifetime while he was playing for Pitt, is performing in even more brilliant fashion for the Tulsa Diamond Oilers, of Tulsa, Okla., and if the Oilers win the national A. A. U. championship this week (they are in the semi-finals today), Hyatt will be responsible. Hyatt has been named by veteran observers at the tournament in Kansas City (according to the Associated Press) as the most proficient player in the event.

OILERS, HENRYS PLAY TONIGHT

KANSAS CITY, March 10.—(AP.)—An all mid-West semi-final battle between three members of the Missouri Valley A. A. U. League and the Rosenberg-Arvey team, of Chicago was assured as the result of quarter-final play of the National A. A. U. basketball tournament here.

The last chance of a foreign squad to achieve championship heights went glimmering when the Rosenberg-Arvey aggregation won handily from the Pasadena, Calif., majors 34 to 28.

Greensburg Trackers To Start in April

GREENSBURG, Pa. March 10.—Greensburg high school's track squad will be called for its spring training session the first week in April, Coach E. Earl Loucks announced today.

There are 11 lettermen remaining from the 1932 squad from which Coach Loucks will build his team. All of the preparation will be held at the local field which is in shape for track athletics and which was the scene of several meets last year.

M'NAUGHER WINS TITLE

McNaugher School won the Section I basketball championship of the city grade schools yesterday when it defeated Stevens in the Phipps gym, 20-14. Greenfield and Frick clash at Frick today for the Section II title.

PITT FROSH AHEAD

The Pitt freshman swimming team annexed its eleventh consecutive triumph of the season yesterday afternoon, defeating Schenley High School's squad in a dual meet, 47 to 17.

ALLEGHENY WINS

The Allegheny High School swimming team defeated the Peabody tankers in a dual meet in the Allegheny pool yesterday, 37 to 27.

GEHRIG SIGNS WITH YANKS

entraining orders because he had to go to his own wedding at Alhambra, Cal.

SARASOTA, Fla.—(AP.)—Manager Marty McManus yesterday modified his Boston Red Sox training program as far as it applied to his pitchers. He worked the recruits during the two-hour morning session and excused the veteran hurlers until the afternoon. Every one else on the squad, however, had to do double duty.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—(AP.)—Three Quaker infielders and four outfielders arrived in camp yesterday, 24 hours before they were due for their first workout. Those arriving were Infielders Pinky Whitney, Dick Bartell and Mickey Finn and Outfielders Chuck Fullis, Gus Dugas, Freddie Brickell and George Brown.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—(AP.)—The Yannigans took partial revenge on the Philadelphia Athletics Regulars in the daily training camp game yesterday by defeating the first stringers, 7 to 4. Jimmy Foxx, last year's home run king, smashed out a four-bagger over the center field fence, which is almost 500 feet from the plate.

BRADENTON, Fla. — (AP.) — Ernest Orsatti generally is considered the outstanding candidate for center fielder on the 1933 Cardinal machine, but he has been advised not to throw away his first baseman's mitt. His brilliant work after Pepper Martin ran into all his bad luck last year has caused Gabby Street, manager, to look kindly on Orsatti.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(AP.)—In good condition and asserting he could see no reason why he can't make good this year, Rogers Hornsby left today to join the St. Louis Cardinals in training camp at Bradenton, Fla. He has been conditioning here with a baseball school.

NEW ORLEANS — (AP.) — Manager Roger Peckinpaugh took a look at a well-conditioned squad of Cleveland Indians yesterday and observed that the modern player takes better care of himself between seasons than the old-timer. He said:

"In all my big league career as a player and manager, covering about 20 years, I have never seen such a well-conditioned ball club for so early in the season."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP.)—Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tiger recruit, yesterday joined Gerald Walker in the feat of lifting a batted ball over the 18-foot high left-field fence, 353 feet from the home plate. So far these two make up a select list of "certified heavy hitters" on the Tiger squad. Everyone is in camp but Earl Webb, whose absence is unexplained.

BILOXI, Miss.—(AP.)—A quartet of youngsters pleased Manager Joe Cronin in the way they tossed them over to the regulars yesterday in one of the fastest workouts of the Washington Senators' training season. Ed Linke worked out like a veteran; Lloyd Cassell won commendation, and John Burrows and Bib Friedrichs burned them over the plate.

Verne Lewellen In Critical Condition

Physicians hold little hope for his recovery. Lewellen, captain of the 1923 University of Nebraska football team, was regarded as one of the greatest punters the game ever has produced.

East Liberty Y Wrestlers Lose

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 10.—The Greensburg Y. M. C. A. wrestlers defeated the East Liberty Y mat team here last night, 16-8, before a capacity crowd. The summary:

125-pound class—Helwig, Greensburg, defeated Davis, East Liberty.
135-pound class—Stoner, Greensburg, defeated Kiley, East Liberty.
175-pound class—C. Overly, Greensburg, defeated Sullivan, East Liberty.

ARNOLD FACES TEST

The Arnold School basketball team will meet the Columbus Academy five in Columbus tomorrow in the first game booked in the recently organized Pennsylvania-Ohio Prep School Conference.

STRIBLING PUT UNDER BAN

PARIS, March 10.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, American heavyweight boxer, today was suspended for three months by the council of the French Boxing Federation for his unsatisfactory bout Monday night with Peirre Charles, of Belgium.

Stribling was disqualified for holding and the decision given to Charles in the eighth round.

The International Boxing Union, with which the Federation is affiliated, also will suspend Stribling if precedent is followed, making him ineligible to box in any affiliated countries.

N. B. A. FOLLOWS SUIT

LANSING, Mich., March 10.—(AP.)—W. L. Stribling, heavyweight boxer, today was ordered suspended for 90 days by James (Bingo) Brown, head of the National Boxing Association, effective in all states where the National Association has jurisdiction.

The N. B. A. is affiliated with the International Boxing Union.

Davisson Victor In Cue Tourney

R. C. Davisson joined William Kish in the victory column of the city three-cushion billiard championship tournament last night as he defeated Pete Kilmeyer, 50 to 45, in the Tobin parlors, Smithfield street. Kish downed Dale Campbell, the defending champion, Wednesday evening.

Tonight, James Watson meets Harry Lohr.

BRITISH STARS IN GOLF FINAL

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 10.—(AP.)—Two of England's outstanding feminine golfers clash today in an all-British final for the Belleair women's golf championship.

Diana Fishwick, British women's closed and French open titleholder, trounced Kathleen Garnham, another English entry, 8 and 7, yesterday, while Barbara Pyman eliminated Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, 4 and 2, in the semi-final round.

Making a last stand for American honors, Mrs. Hill started her match strong against Miss Pyman by winning the first three holes, but her spurt was short-lived. Settling down to consistent play, the English player soon squared the match and finished the first nine holes 1 up.

BRITISH GIRL WINS

Mrs. Hill squared the match with a fine par four on the tenth, but Miss Pyman came right back to win the next three holes and go 3 up. They halved the next three holes and then the British girl collected a par five on the long sixteenth to win the match.

Miss Fishwick played great golf all the way to overwhelm Miss Garnham by touring the first nine in 38, two over men's par, to become 7 up at the turn. Miss Garnham shot a 40 on the first nine. They halved the tenth in fives and Miss Fishwick ended the match by taking the eleventh.

MERKLE DEFEATED

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 10. — (AP.) — The tournament medalist, Fred Merkle, former New York Giants baseball player, suffered a 3 and 1 defeat yesterday at the hands of J. R. Gormley, of Dedham, Mass., in the second round of the Ormond Beach golf tournament.

PIN TOURNEY OPENS HERE

The twenty-sixth annual Tri-State tenpin tournament will get under way this evening on the Strand alleys in Oakland. Bowling will continue daily through March 16.

Five-men teams will occupy the alleys tonight. Doubles will be rolled tomorrow.

The five-men teams slated to roll tonight are Iroquois Yacht Club, Iroquois Tucker Club, B. P. O. E. No. 339, KoKoMo Kids, Strand No. 1 and Strand No. 2.

Doubles tomorrow will get under way at 2:30.

Former Governor Cox Scores Eagle

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 10.—(INS.)—Honor of scoring the first eagle ever made on the difficult 400-yard fourteenth hole on the La Gorce golf course today belonged to James M. Cox, former Governor of Ohio. His drive carried 230 yards, and his mashie shot traveled 170 yards and dropped into the cup.

The ex-Governor was so enthused he came within two inches of making another eagle on the next hole.

E. L. A. ALUMNI FORM

East Liberty Academy alumni met last night to make their organization a permanent one. Edward Ludwig, a member of Academy's 1912 baseball team, was voted president. Tom Ashford was elected chairman of the arrangements committee.

FOUR NINES ASK FRANCHISES IN CITY LEAGUE

By TOM BIRKS

Four clubs applied for berths in the City Baseball League, at the initial meeting of the circuit held last night. They were the Ottie Cochrans, playing at Pleasant Valley; Whitaker, sponsored by Dutch Ackerman; Brentwood, under the leadership of George Spiers, and a team under the leadership of George Spiers, and a team under the guidance of Ralph Waner, cousin of Lloyd and Paul Waner, which has not adopted an official name as yet.

When President Everett Sweeney called the meeting to order, Dormont, Books, J. L. Thomas and the Frank Ferris Club were in attendance.

THREE DROP OUT

The Geislers, of McKees Rocks, Reliance Life and North Side Civics are not going to operate this season and the Homewood Boosters organization is having a meeting this evening to determine whether or not it will ask for a franchise.

So it becomes very evident that the personnel of the league is going to be changed considerable.

The Ottie Cochran club is going to play its home games on the Wilson Avenue field, and under the league rule of one club at one park, the Frank Ferris club will have to change its playing field.

Manager Green, of the Ferris nine, stated last evening that the club would try to operate at the Salt Works. This field will be available, seeing that the North Side Civics are not going to run. Art Rooney, popular North Side sportsman, who usually backed the North Siders will be seen in the uniform of the Cochran club.

WANER AFTER BACKERS

Ralph Waner expects to get some of the talent that comes into the town for a tryout with the Pirates, and expects to get the Isabella Furnace field, at Etna, for league games. Waner talked of the Sharpsburg and Etna merchants backing the club.

With George Spiers, one of the district's smartest veterans handling the club, there was a feeling among the managers present last night that Brentwood would be an asset to the league. Until the status of Homewood is established, however, the managers could not vote on the makeup of the circuit.

President Sweeney announced that another meeting would be held next Tuesday. At this time officials will be elected for the season and the open franchises awarded.

Sewickley Y. M. C. A., the J. J. McGraths, Carrick Eagles and Edgewood were reported to have withdrawn their applications for membership in the league.

NORWIN MEETS NEW CASTLE

a basket. Fabel, of East Pittsburgh, followed with a foul, the only point scored by East Pittsburgh in this period to make the score 10-7. Here the Bridgers braced to take the lead never to be headed.

The real fireworks were supplied in the closing session, when Ambridge, apparently a winner by six points at 21-15, saw the Shamrocks display a brilliant comeback that almost overtook the Bridgers in the last three minutes of play.

Michelosen had increased the Ambridge margin at the start of the fourth period by grabbing himself a field goal and two fouls to give his team a lead of 21-15. Clougherty registered a foul, but Winne made good on a free shot to enable Ambridge to retain its six-point edge. Fabel brought the East Pittsbudghers to their feet by making a long one to make the score 22-18. Winne, however, got a "sleeper" under the hoop for Ambridge's final points.

The victory sent the Bridgers into the semi-finals and they will meet the Rankin-Duquesne winner in the Pitt Stadium pavilion Tuesday night. The lineup:

PIRATES' WHO'S WHO

Our Flag Contenders Answer Quiz, Giving Fans Lowdown on What's What and Why.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent

No. 13.—Outfielder Forrest (Woodie) Jensen.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 10.

Is it true, Woodie, that for the past two years you have been a major league player wasting your sweetness on the bush league air?

I wouldn't say that. You know Newark drew a lot more people than some of the big league cities last season.

Woodie Jensen

You are one of the few players of Dahish extraction, are you not?

Yes, there seems to be a moratorium on us for some reason.

You are reported to have been the best outfielder in the International League last season. What do you say about that?

Well, if I was, there must be something rotten in Denmark, for I seem to be right where I was two years ago when I joined the Pirates.

How is that?

I had a big year in Wichita, led the Western League in five or six departments and thought I was headed for a big league berth, but I ran right into a flock of Waners and had to go back. Now I'm back and those Oklahoma jackrabbits are still running wild.

The New York Yankees own the Newark club. What do they think about your departure to Pittsburgh?

I guess they have to like it, as Pittsburgh owns me, but I think I would have a better chance to break in as a regular with the Yanks than I have to supplant the Waners, Lindstrom or Commy.

Don't be discouraged, young fellow. I remember a fellow named Jack Miller coming up from McKeesport to join the Pirates. He reported in Pittsburgh, took a look at the Pirate infield composed of Bransfield, Ritchey, Wagner and Leach, and went back to the hotel to pack his grip. He had it packed and was headin' for his home town in Kearney, N. J., when I stopped him. In two years he was the best second sacker in the National League.

That was Honus Wagner, speaking, Woodie. Don't you get a little encouragement from his words?

Yes, that was fine, but I still think it is going to be tough to get Paul or Lloyd or Lindy out of there. Of course, one of them might break a leg or something, but I am not a bloodthirsty Dane.

(Voice of Wagner):

Keep your head up, kid. Why, I don't think you can shave yet. You're just a boy. I am not saying this to brag, but I think the best year I had in baseball came when I was 38.

Thanks, Mr. Wagner. I've been feeling a bit low, but, after listening to you, I think the outlook is much brighter. If Jack Miller could find a part to sing in that quartet you mentioned, maybe I'll be able to harmonize. But I'm not one of those utility players—I have to be in there every day to do myself justice.

NEW YORK MAY GET BATTLE

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Promoter Jack Dempsey hasn't decided definitely yet, but the chances now are that his 15-round heavyweight duel between Max Baer and Max Schmeling will be held in the Yankee Stadium here June 1 or 8.

Dempsey has been considering Chicago as a possible site, but the death of Mayor Anton Cermak, he said, had left conditions so unsettled there that there was small chance now that the bout would be held as a world fair attraction.

Dempsey said the match would gross almost $500,000 at the Yankee Stadium under a seat price scale of $1 to $10.

Definite announcement of the site and date will be made next week.

Between Rounds

Little Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, who meets Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, former N. B. A. featherweight champion, in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, is one local boxer who keeps improving. Against Jimmy Mack, the best bantamweight in Philadelphia, at the Arena, last week, he displayed boxing form and a left jab that were revelations, and he retains the power in his right hand punch, used with discretion and effectiveness. There no longer is any reason to doubt that he ranks with the leading half-dozen bantamweights in the world. That's a broad statement, but it is this writer's conviction after having watched him in all of his important bouts. Thomas had ring sense and poise from the very beginning, and he has reached the point where his all-round class must be recognized.

Adolph Heuser, the German, who boxes Maxie Rosenbloom for the latter's world light-heavyweight title in a 15-round bout in New York's Madison Square Garden tonight, is one of the best of the foreign fighters now performing in this country, and, if he has a good night, should give Rosy the hardest bout the New York Hebrew has had in a long time. Heuser has a great chance to win against the unorthodox style of the champion. In fact, he has yet to suffer his first defeat since his arrival in the States.

George Novak's badly cut right eye, which caused his fight with Jack Pallat at the Arena to be stopped in the last round, when he had Pallat on the verge of a knockout, is almost healed and he will resume training next week. The Arena plans to rematch him with Pallat.

Marty Gornick still is out with a bad right hand. Eddie Brannon and Johnny Warner are training and ready to go again after long layoffs.

Bill Simendinger suggests that Bunny Buntatch call Fairfax 5730 if he is interested in matching his Joe Marcus with Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, managed by Simendinger. Eddie has beaten Benny McArthur, Sid Silas and Ray Collins, among others, and is ready to fight Joe any time.

Joe Marcus was matched today for a 10-round bout with Frankie Bojarski at Erie next Friday night. Joe recently stopped Maxie Strub, of Erie, in two rounds at the Garden here, making himself an attraction in Erie as a result.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

STAR BOXERS AT ARENA TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Frankie Goosby, local Negro middleweight, drags his unspotted record—he's never been defeated—into the Arena ring on the North Side tonight to risk it against a seasoned veteran, Cowboy Owen Phelps, of Phoenix, Ariz., who has been fighting successfully throughout the East in recent months.

Owen Phelps

In two other 10-round bouts, Georgie Riley, flashy Negro featherweight, of Detroit and New York, who recently stopped Johnny Datto in the same ring, meets Frankie Wallace, of Cleveland, who has beaten both Jackie Rodgers and Mose Butch at Motor Square Garden, and Jimmy Columbo, of Clarksburg, W. Va., who recently defeated Battling Gizzy in his home town, makes his local debut against Jackie Davis, Jewish lightweight, of Chicago and Cleveland, who has boxed Pete Nebo, Barney Ross and Harry Dublinsky.

CHIODO RETURNS HERE

Johnny Chiodo, formerly of Johnstown, now of Pittsburgh, makes his first appearance here in two years against Sammy Burns, Hill Negro featherweight, in the six-round opener, at 8:30 o'clock.

From Cherokee Tom Cox, manager of Goosby, comes the word that Goosby has a bit of Gene Tunney in his makeup. He is a bookworm with a hankering to be a fiction writer. Don't hold that against him too harshly, however. He's really a good fighter.

Phelps first attracted notice when he fought the late Harry Greb, then middleweight champion, back in Phoenix in 1926. Since then he has boxed Larry Johnson, Fred Lenhart, Maxie Rosenbloom, the world light-heavyweight champion; Vince Dundee, who fights Ben Jeby for the middleweight title next Friday night; Charley Belanger, Tony Cancella, Clyde Chastain, Babe McGorgary, Chuck Burns, Joe Knight, recent N. B. A. light-heavyweight champion; Jimmy Byrnes, Spike Webb, Ted Ross, Harry Dillon, Billy Jones, Joe Banovic, Buck Easterling, Angus Snyder, Roscoe Manning, Larry Aggrella and Chief Elkhart, among others.

BLAST IN STORE ROUTS SEVEN; OWNER HELD

The proprietor of a Carrick fruit and grocery store was being held for questioning today by detectives of the bomb and arson squad following an explosion and fire in the store, which routed seven persons into the cold shortly after midnight.

The store, a one-story brick at 2624 Brownsville road, was swept by flames that followed the blast, which was heard throughout the neighborhood. Gredo Ciardi, 42, the proprietor, unable to explain what caused the blast, was lodged in the South Side Police Station on a suspicious person charge, police said. He was reported to have told police he left the store about an hour before the explosion occurred for his home, at 2612 Brownsville road.

Those routed from their homes were Elmer Threnhauser, 15, and his brother, Robert, 12, of 2622 Brownsville road; Evelyn Miklancie, 18, a maid in the Threshauser home, and Mary Paslawski, 19, who was visiting her, and Aaron Wertkin, his wife, Gertrude, and their daughter, Harriet, 12. The Wertkins live at 2624½ Brownsville road, where Wertkin operates a cleaning and dyeing shop.

Mrs. Stella Threnhauser, mother of the boys, conducts a hardware store on the first floor. She was away at the time.

Aroused by the blast, Elmer donned a bathrobe and in his bare feet ran almost a block to sound an alarm.

Battalion Chief William Kuhlman estimated the damage to the Ciardi store at $4,000 and to that of Mrs. Threnhauser at $200.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF REMODELED SOUTH SIDE STORE

THE HAHN CO. 20 YEARS AGO

OWNER SIG J. HAHN

Hahn Set to Open New Store Here Tomorrow

Faith in the Roosevelt administration has been manifested by Sig J. Hahn opening a new store tomorrow at South Seventeenth and Carson streets.

This makes the fifth Hahn furniture store established in the Pittsburgh district during the past 20 years. Regarding his latest venture, Mr. Hahn said today:

"By opening this new store when many others are closing their doors, I am personally expressing my faith in the new administration. I think Roosevelt will make a new turn for us. I have always felt an institution makes its own conditions. If a business tends to its own knitting, it needn't worry about what its competitors are doing."

Although he is only 40, Mr. Hahn today is said to be the largest individual furniture store owner in the United States. Twenty years ago, the 20-year-old venturer rented a small two-story building, less than one-fortieth as large as the present East Liberty store on the same location at Frankstown avenue and Broad street. If he hadn't got his first two months rent free, he couldn't have started in business, he said.

From an original footage of approximately 1,920 square feet, Mr. Hahn's five stores, in East Liberty, Carnegie, Braddock, North Side and Carson street, total approximately 203,400 square feet. Many of his first customers are still customers today, Mr. Hahn said. He continued:

"Rather than house all my business under one roof, I have built my organization on my faith in community stores. The employes of each store are personally acquainted with their customers. I have sacrificed mass efficiency and increased my overhead expense by de-centralizing my activities, but I have gained in the personal touch with my customers in each community."

GUNMEN ROB TWO STORES

Robbers held up two stores, one in Homewood, the other in East Liberty, within an hour today.

Pushing the muzzle of a revolver against the side of Michael Aiello, manager of the Harris & McKeever meat market, 1027 North Lang avenue, a gunman forced him to open the safe. The robber escaped with what police were told was a "large sum."

Two armed men compelled M. Baker, manager of a chain store at 424 Collins avenue, to hand over the contents of the cash register then ordered him to the rear of the store. They fled in a small car.

Pleads Not Guilty In Air Pilot Slaying

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., March 10.—(AP.)—Earl Dodson, San Benito youth, pleaded not guilty yesterday to an indictment charging him with murder in the aerial slaying of Lehman Nelson, flying instructor, two weeks ago, which officers attribute to Dodson's friend, Earl McCall, 21-year-old student pilot.

McCall committed suicide after landing the plane in which Nelson was shot to death. Both were killed by a pistol, police said, owned by Dodson. Officers charged the youths plotted to steal the ship for a flight to Mexico.

HOW MUCH?

No package contains genuine "BLUE BLADES" unless it carries the portrait of King C. Gillette.

● Ask yourself how much it costs you to get a good shave. Really take a pencil and figure your blade expense. Then try the "BLUE BLADE" and compare it with your present shaving method for cost and comfort. We positively state without fear of disproof that the "BLUE BLADE" will give you more perfect shaves per penny than any other shaving instrument. The reason for this is very simple. "BLUE BLADE" edges are so perfectly tempered that they actually will cut glass. Of course they last longer than ordinary blades. We invite proof. Ask your dealer for "BLUE BLADES" and learn by test.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

LENTEN LUNCHEON—1 can salmon, 2 cups diced boiled potatoes, 1 cup canned peas, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 cup chopped cheese, ¼ cup fat, salt and pepper to taste, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 cup boiling water.

Flake the salmon and peas, potatoes, seasonings, mixing all together. Melt the fat and add flour. When thoroughly mixed, gradually add water, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add cheese and whip until melted. Mix all together, place in casserole and sprinkle with bread crumbs. Dot with cheese and bake in hot oven 30 minutes.

LENTEN LOAF—A very satisfying meatless dish. One cup rice, 1 pound can salmon, ½ cup bread crumbs, 1 egg, ¼ teaspoon each salt, finely chopped onion, pepper and celery salt.

Cook rice in five cups boiling water for 20 minutes. Drain. Line greased baking dish with rice, leaving nest in center. Pick over salmon, mash, add the other ingredients. Pack into rice nest, covering with rice. Set dish in pan of water and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 40 minutes. Turn out on platter and pour over it, tomato sauce, garnish with green pepper, and sliced, hard-cooked egg or parsley.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE—½ cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, yolks of two eggs and white of one, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup sour milk, ½ cup cocoa, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups flour, ¾ teaspoon baking powder.

Cream butter and sugar, add yolks. Mix soda with sour milk. Mix cocoa with boiling water to the consistency of gravy. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Use the extra egg white for frosting. Bake in moderate oven.

APPLE RICE PUDDING—Always popular dessert. Three tablespoons lemon juice, 3 cups sliced apples, 2¼ cups water, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 1½ tablespoons nutmeg, 2½ tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 3 cups cooked rice.

Add lemon juice to the sliced apples. Melt sugar and water, add apples and spices and cook five minutes. Stir in butter and vanilla and rice. Bake in buttered baking dish 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool and serve with whipped cream and garnish with glace fruits.

Cut round steak into strips about 1½ inches wide. Rub salt into meat. Fill strips with vegetables, sliced carrots, chopped onions, lengths of celery and leaves of cabbage. Roll each strip and hold together with small skewers, toothpicks or linen thread. Have skillet very hot, melt butter and suet, place meat rolls in hot fat, let brown nicely on all sides. In the meantime make a

The Twentieth Century Club presented Arthur Anderson, basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company, in song recital at the club auditorium yesterday afternoon. It was a homecoming for this young singer, who began his career among us, later went to Italy, and by way of European opera houses found his way into the Broadway temple.

Mr. Lissfelt

Certainly Anderson's voice is a beautiful organ, and he has learned much in the way of projecting it to good advantage. His use of mezza voce makes rather entrancing effects, especially in such songs as "Amarilli" and "Die Mondnacht;" but with Anderson commanding it so cleverly it ought to serve him better and not so frequently.

Was it his over-emphasis of this soft voice and his slow tempo throughout the recital, or was it the makeup of the program itself that kept the music on such a depressing level all afternoon? Surely Anderson's association in the first opera house of the world must have enlivened his art beyond what he gave us yesterday, for even in such matters as intelligible diction this young man sang better before he ever entered stardom.

Among his best songs were Harvey Gaul's "This Year of Grace," a composition which improves on each hearing, and which is in itself an excellent philosophical and musical comment of the history of today. The "Toreador Song" from "Carmen," given as encore, was also in the spirit of Anderson's livelier singing.

Martha Myers Murdock played accompaniments.

As the morning musicales at Hotel Schenley draw to a close they get better and better; the program yesterday indicated this more than ever before, and offered two good musicians, Margery Selkovits, pianist, and Reed Kennedy, baritone.

Mrs. Selkovitz played the Schumann Symphonic Variations under considerable difficulties, struggling valiantly with the instrument at her disposal. More comfortable was the group of three Griffes pieces in which her talent for expression among the impressionistic French writers stood her in good stead. The latter compositions were an excellent contribution to these Schenley programs which have given us so much unfamiliar music. Spontaneous applause brought as encore the Glinka-Balikirew "Lark."

When Reed Kennedy sings one listens with comfort and joy. First of all his voice is musical and, even though hampered by cold, he manages the voice so satisfactorily as to make the best effects. Of his operatic airs the one from "Zaza" was best at this concert. As a singer of shorter lyrics both voice and his own fervor share equally the responsibility for his success. "Loveliest of Trees" and his encore, Bridge's "Oh! That It Were So!" were top-notch.

Cabbage Is Ranked High Among Vegetables

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Within recent years there has been a great deal of agitation for the more liberal use of vegetables in the diet. It is encouraging that the average American housewife is increasing her use of vegetables and consequently improving the general health of her family.

Many studies of the food values of vegetables have been made. But many overlook the economic and nutritive advantages contained in that simple vegetable, the cabbage. Its importance in the diet has been recognized for a long time, but only within recent years has its value been confirmed scientifically. The vegetable was mentioned in the writings of the wise men of Greece and Rome, but modern research has determined its real worth.

The cabbage is known all over the world. Next to the potato, it is consumed in greater quantity than any other vegetable. The cabbage of today differs from that originally grown wild.

TASTE IMPROVED

Cultivation has changed its bitter taste to a pleasant and pleasing flavor. There are many varieties in the cabbage family. The red and white cabbage, kohl-rabi, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and broccoli are the best known.

The cabbage is a hardy vegetable and is in season all year round. It is an economical food, easily prepared, palatable, nutritious and has a pleasing flavor. It is used in a variety of ways and combines well with other vegetables, as well as with meats and dairy products.

Like most vegetables, the cabbage contains a natural roughage which aids in overcoming the tendency towards constipation. Though it contains 91 per cent water, it is a nutritious food, containing nutritive elements such as sugar, starch and proteins.

In addition to supplying energy for work and play, cabbage gives to the diet certain important vitamins. The green leaves are particularly rich in vitamin A. The white leaves contain vitamin C. Because of the presence of these vitamins, cabbage is called a "protective food." It prevents scurvy and other vitamin deficiency diseases.

VALUABLE MINERALS

Important mineral substances, particularly lime and phosphorus, are found in cabbage. These minerals help purify the blood and aid in building strong bones and teeth. These salts help the body combat any tendency towards acidity.

Raw cabbage is easily digested. "Cole slaw" is the most popular form when the cabbage is served without cooking. It is made from the raw heart of the cabbage head, chopped or cut into long shreds. It can be served with vinegar or other seasoning or dressing.

Contrary to the common belief, cooked cabbage is easily digested. But it is difficult to digest when improperly prepared. The cabbage should be cooked in a large kettle. The vegetable should be completely covered with water. Boil rapidly until tender. Boiling too long makes the cabbage dark, with a strong flavor, and difficult to digest.

When buying cabbage, make sure it is firm, young, crisp and of good color. Cabbage gives bulk to the diet. Serve it raw or cooked, but include it regularly in your menu.

WARN AGAINST CHARITY FAKIRS

Unscrupulous solicitors who pose as fairy godmothers to orphans and offer for sale groceries, toilet preparations and extracts to Pittsburgh housewives are the subject of a warning by the Better Business Bureau in its latest bulletin.

The house-to-house canvassers fail to reveal, according to the bureau, that 50 per cent of the money paid is their own profit. The orphans, if anything, receive a mere pittance, it is declared.

The bureau also warns against charity solicitations by telephone, and against paying advance listing fees to people offering to sell property.

Mrs. Klemm

While relatives are attempting to locate Mrs. Mary Klemm, 39, who disappeared from her home, 7329½ Susquehanna street, Homewood, March 1, her husband, Leo W. Klemm, is seriously ill, according to a Missing Persons Bureau report today.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Girls Want to Know What's Wrong With Boys

Here's one for you, boys!

And when you read it, you'll likely be plenty mad, for it's no bouquet of sweet peas. "Five Skeptical Girls" have handed it to this department, and they want us to put it up to you, fair and square—

Have all the decent, straight-shooting gents gone off somewhere and died?

They'd like to know, because they haven't met any. And, take it from them, they've been around.

Read 'em and boil! Or look yourself over, and ask yourself some questions. We'll leave the answers up to you.

Dear Elsie:

We'd like to say a few words in your column, if we may, about Modern Men, and what we think ails them.

We are a group of girls, ranging in age from twenty to twenty-two, and we want to tell the world what we think about the men a girl meets nowadays.

We are modern to the Nth degree, but we know where to draw the line.

And we've come to the conclusion that the men haven't an iota of decency in them. We've had experience with plenty of them.

And please don't get the idea that we don't go around with "the right sort" of fellows. All of them come from decent families, and most of them are college graduates. And they're all "on the grab." What's the matter with them, anyhow?

GIRLS GET BORED

If we're not nice to them, they think we're "snobbish." And if we are nice to them, and invite them to our homes, they think we're crazy about them, and are trying to "hook" them, to use a slang expression.

If we refuse to see them unless they take us out, we're considered Gold Diggers. If we're good-natured, and let them just sit around, why we're "making a play" for them. What do they expect of us, anyhow?

They all hand out a good Line, but from previous experience we've learned to take it with large grains of salt.

So, we just want to say, in conclusion, that half the time when they think they're putting it over on us, we're laughing up our sleeves, and are bored to tears by them.

WANT ANSWER

That's what we think about men, as they are today—and they can take it or leave it.

But we'd like to know just how they get that way, and just what they expect of a girl, and why. We've tried to be square-shooting and good pals, but—oh, well. We guess it's all a joke.

FIVE SKEPTICAL GIRLS.

That's their story, and they're sticking to it.

And now—how about it, boys?

What do you expect of a girl, in 1933?

Also—what do you expect of yourselves? Do you expect to play fair? Or do you just drift along, blaming the girls if they refuse to take you seriously?

We've heard their side!

Now let's have yours!

We're listening.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Childhood Diseases on Wane

Dr. Copeland

Children living today enjoy an age which gives them a much better chance to grow into healthy adult life than had the children born 25 years ago. Smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and pneumonia used to threaten the lives of all infants and children. Today, vaccination against smallpox and inoculations against diphtheria and scarlet fever, have reduced the prevalence of these ailments. A better understanding of all the diseases of childhood, insures our children greater prospect of health and happiness.

"Varicella" is the medical name for "chicken pox." At one time this disease was confused with smallpox and it was regarded as an extremely serious ailment. It is probable that the fatal cases reported in those days were actually smallpox and not chicken pox. Anyhow, chicken pox is now considered a harmless condition.

The early symptoms of this disease are somewhat alarming. The child complains of severe headache and pain in the back. During the recent epidemic of infantile paralysis many parents suffered undue alarm over every illness their children had. They feared the dread disease. Of course their relief was great when the characteristic skin rash of chicken pox appeared.

The "pocks" of this affliction appear first upon the face, chest, back and abdomen. They come in crops and new ones appear for three or four days. The pocks dry and then there is intense itching. Scratching should be prevented because otherwise scars will result.

A soothing application, such as calomine or zinc oxide lotion, can be used. The patient should be kept in bed and separated from other children. He can return to school 24 hours after the skin rash has disappeared.

Do not confuse chicken pox with measles or scarlet fever. A child suffering from measles complains of symptoms like a cold in the head, with fever, running nose, inflamed eyes, sneezing and coughing. The rash appears about the third day. The scarlet fever victim complains of vomiting, sore throat, headache and fever. A red rash appears within 24 hours and is first seen on the neck and chest.

Answers to Health Queries

B. Q.—Is there a cure for auto-intoxication and a catarrhal condition of the intestines? 2. What would cause a breaking out or rash on the body, somewhat similar to mosquito bites?

A.—Try to find the underlying source of infection first of all. Careful diet and proper elimination should be of general benefit under the circumstances. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. 2. May be due to a form of hives. For further particulars send a self addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mrs. H. C. F. Q.—Is it possible for a child (now three years of age) to become deaf and dumb after birth or is this a congenital condition, in most cases? Would an attack of "flu" be apt to account for the trouble? The child is otherwise healthy and normal.

A.—If the child is deaf, this would account for the fact that he does not talk. A thorough examination should help to determine just where the trouble lies. It is possible that the child became deaf after birth.

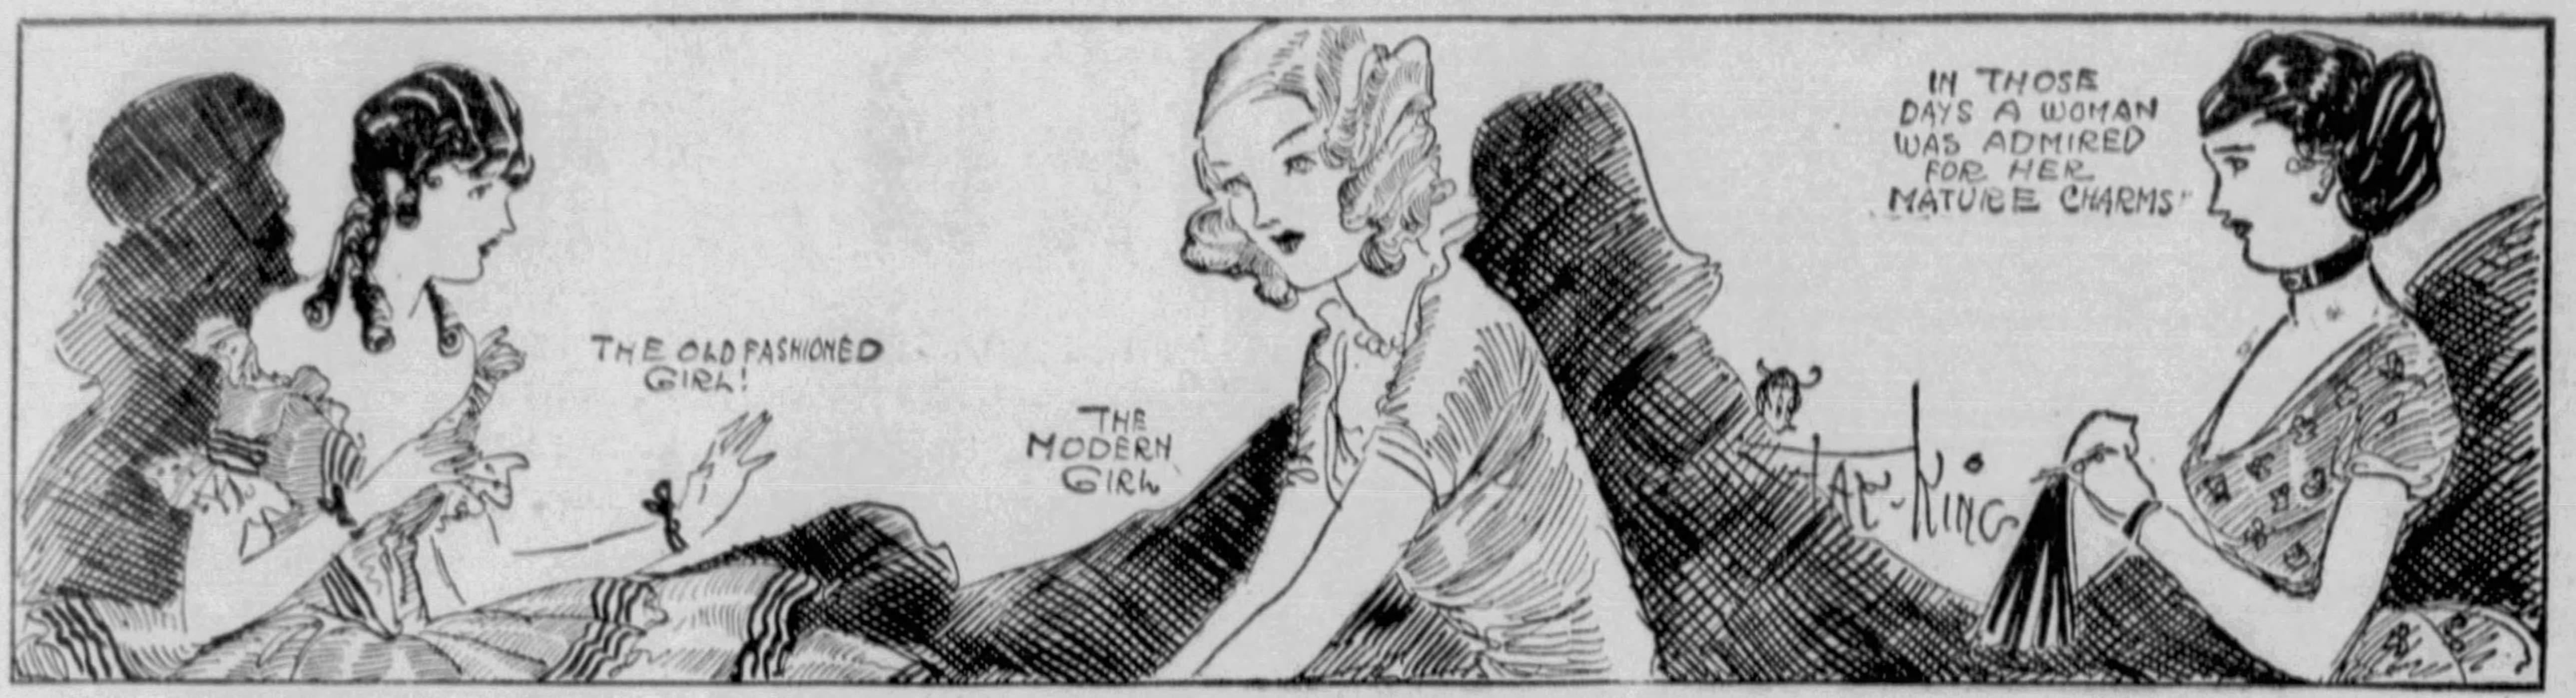
Old Fashioned Girl Was Happier, Believes Fay King



THE OLD FASHIONED GIRL!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

The old-fashioned girl married in her teens. Her home was her world, and she reared a family.

If she went into bonnets at 40 and sat by the chimney at 50 no one loved her less for it. She could grow stout and comfortable as nature intended when the immaturity of youth is gone.

She would be amazed to find modern women worrying about old age at 30. Starving and straining to stay eternally slim and prancing around forever in imitation of youthful pep.

She will not find them in bonnets and shawls at 70, but she will find them in the hands of beauty experts at 20.

Yet modern women imagine they are so much better off than women once were.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A young man of my son's age, a family connection of whom we see very little, but with whose mother I am more friendly, became engaged to a young lady whom we have met before, but do not know intimately. Upon his engagement, his mother telephoned to me and to my son. We sent a congratulatory telegram to the young lady, including the young man in the message, and in answer, we received a note of thanks from them.

The next morning my son met the young man in the subway train and invited him to bring his fiancee up to our home for an evening, telling him that he had intended sending him a note of invitation.

Is it necessary or proper for me (or my son who is more friendly with the couple than I am) to write a note to the young lady inviting them for an evening? And, after telegraphing our congratulations and good wishes to the couple, is it necessary for us to make a formal call? I.

Since this happy event for your families has taken on such a charmingly friendly aspect and contact, I would like to advise you to make a call on the young lady and her mother, to offer her your best wishes "in person." This is the correct thing to do.

And then follow up your son's cordial but naturally indefinite invitation with your invitation, as hostess of the home.

Cigarets

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When is it correct for a girl to light a young man's cigaret for him? I have seen lots of girls do this. Is it the right thing to do? I always thought the gentleman should light the lady's cigaret and not vice versa. E. S.

You're right . . . it is best for the man to light the woman's cigarets. But if occasionally the woman wants to take this privilege, there isn't any harm done. Except that usually men don't like to have women do this, any more than they like to have women hold their coats for them. And the wise woman doesn't perform these "services."

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Decides to Let Mary Accompany Her

It had come, the thing which I had subtly dreaded ever since Dr. Barnes had summoned me to the school, saying that "Mr. Lee" was waiting for me. I had known, I think, even in the moment of recognition of Lee Chow's identity, that I would have to face the dilemma of breaking my word to Dicky, or endangering the safety of Marion and Carolyn by refusing to guide the high-born friend of Hugh Grantland to the scene of the attack planned upon the hiding-place of the kidnapers.

There was one possible way out, and I seized it.

"I do not know the way to the house, the headquarters, from which they intend to set out, but Dr. Barnes does. He will guide you if he can."

Get him, please, quickly. We are wasting time of value.

I knocked upon the door which Mrs. Barnes had shown me, and went through into her sitting room. Dr. Barnes was nowhere to be seen, and Mrs. Barnes kept glancing anxiously toward the wall clock as I told her what I wanted.

"Oh! My dear, how dreadful!" she exclaimed. "There is a committee meeting of the board here tonight, and Dr. Barnes could not possibly get away without explaining the urgency of his errand. Nothing but 'battle, murder or sudden death' is permitted to disturb those councils. You do not wish him to acquaint them with this kidnaping, do you?"

SHOWN MAPS

"No, no!" I told her emphatically, and with a feeling that the decision had been taken out of my hands, my bridges, indeed, burned behind me. I gave myself up to the zest of action.

"But I know nothing of the way, except the trail Ronald and I followed," I said, "and that, I am sure, is not the one they are taking tonight. Has Dr. Barnes any—"

"He has two full sets of maps, indicating every step of three possible ways they may take," she said. "Maj. Grantland left nothing to chance, and while he did not expect the expedition to come to harm, he gave us directions to summon the state police and send them up the trail at midnight, if no message to the contrary had been received by us from him before then. I'll show you those maps at once. I'm sure you'll be able to follow them."

I followed her back into the study and explained briefly to Lee Chow, while she arranged the maps upon the table.

"This, the first and simplest," Mrs. Barnes said, "shows you the way to the farmhouse which Maj. Grantland has made the headquarters from which they will set out. If you hurry, you may be able to catch them there."

MARY WANTS TO GO

"Haste must always wait for surety," Lee Chow said, bending over the maps with us. "If we fix these in our memories now, we may not have to stop to consult them."

With quickened faculties, I remembered that Lee Chow had the photographic memory of his race and I thanked my particular little joss for my own power, which my relatives and friends have dubbed uncanny for many years. I must not lag behind him, I told myself, and I studied the maps feverishly, determined that no turn of the winding trails Hugh had indicated so clearly should escape me.

When Lee Chow finally straightened himself and picked up one set of the maps, I was sure that I could follow all the trails from memory. But I could not keep my face from flushing when he glanced at me shrewdly and said:

"Maj. Grantland has said that you have a remarkable memory. I think that you are going to justify that judgment tonight. May I take these?" He bowed deferentially to Mrs. Barnes.

"Of course."

"Then let us go." He waved me toward the door, but Mary sprang to my side.

"What about me?" she said. "I promised my uncle that I would not leave you while he is gone."

There was genuine concern for me in Mary's voice, a real desire to keep her pact with Dicky. But I knew that a stronger impulse even than these was sharpening her voice, and making lambent her eyes. Somewhere on the mountains around us were our men, one of them, Noel, her betrothed husband.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A dull nail file that grinds laboriously is as maddening as a toothbrush that sheds bristles. There's a difference in nail files. Since one lasts a lifetime it is not extravagant to purchase the best the market affords. Get one that is long and flexible, made of high grade steel, ridges cut fine and even. Stroke from the sides of the nail toward the center to a point, then give to the point a rounded outline.

Time now to prepare for the war against freckles, though these yallery polka dots are seldom disfiguring, not half as dreadful as the afflicted one believes them to be. A good rule is never to use soap and water just before going out of doors, or directly after coming in; the time for the sudsy cleansing is at night. A simple, harmless bleach is made by combining four ounces of rubbing alcohol, two ounces of stronger rosewater, 15 drops of simple tincture of benzoin. Apply at any time with a bit of cotton. Free use of creamy cosmetic is helpful in the freckle fight.

Being in a hurry is responsible for badly made-up faces. Sit down, beauty seeker, before your dressing table, turn on a strong light, take your time. Use the triple mirror, the only means of taking count of that portion of the countenance that is due west of the ear, where rouge and powder should blend harmoniously. And don't forget the careful brushing of the hair line where powder collects.

If you're not the kind of a girl who will stick to daily exercise, do your muscle flexing on the wing; it's a catch-as-catch-can method. When lifting anything from a high shelf, repeat the movement 10 times. If you happen to sit on the floor to put on shoes and stockings, do a flop, lift legs in air, wriggle the toes; lower legs slowly. When using the floor mop, bend from the hips with each stroke, do the same movement when dusting furniture. Dish washing isn't such a bore if you'll combine it with deep breathing exercises, inhaling and exhaling through the nostrils.

Hints for the Household

Lay pieces of waxed paper under the dresser scarfs, and if anything is spilled the dresser top is protected.

Ready-cooked cereals are improved in flavor and crispness if they are heated for several minutes just prior to serving.

When storing strong-flavored foods in the icebox, cover the dish or wrap the foods in waxed papers to prevent their flavorings from entering such mild-flavored foods as milk and butter.

A good way to use up stale bread is to spread butter or margarine lightly on it, place in a pie dish containing a little milk and a well beaten egg, and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour.

Discolored ivory can be restored to its lovely original color if you rub it with lemon juice and Spanish whiting, leaving on for half an hour, then washing off and polishing with any good furniture cream. If very discolored, it should be washed in soapy water and set to bleach in the sun.

Salt will set colors; add to the water in which black and colored goods are washed.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Rule of Eleven

In Contract Bridge, as in so many other things, we are the heirs of all the ages. For instance, one of the discoveries upon which all players rely at the Bridge table is the application of the Rule of Eleven, discovered by Mr. R. F. Foster in the days of Whist, but which is still used by all good players in the game of Contract. The Rule of Eleven, briefly stated, is that when a fourth-best card is led, any player, by deducting the size of that card from the number 11, may determine the cards higher than the card led not in the hand of the leader. The rule sometimes helps the partner of the leader and sometimes the Declarer, but it is at the base of all counts on hands, obtained when there is a number-showing lead made.

An example, in which the Declarer was able to make a splendid application of this rule, occurred in the hand below, played recently at Crockford's Club, New York, where society matrons, leaders of the business world and leading Bridge experts gather for rubber play.

North, Dealer.

♠ J 9 5 4
♡ Q 9 4
♢ A K J
♣ K Q 2

♠ K 8 7
♡ K J
♢ 6 5 3
♣ J 9 8 7 6

South

♠ Q 6
♡ A 10 6 5 2
♢ Q 4 2
♣ 10 5 4

♠ A 10 3 2
♡ 8 7 3
♢ 10 9 8 7
♣ A 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1NT	Pass	2NT	Pass
3NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's Raise to two was very light, and North had only the thinnest of Rebids. As a result, the contract was naturally extremely difficult to make.

East's Opening lead was the heart 5, which West won with the King and returned the Knave. The Rule of Eleven enabled North to place the heart Ten with East, as, after the play of the King and the return of the Knave, he could see all six cards higher than the 5 not in the hands of the leader. Nothing was to be gained, therefore, by covering the Knave with the Queen, and the play might easily lose. When East played the 2 on the second heart lead, North could place him with all the outstanding hearts. Holding the second trick, West shifted to his own longest suit and led the club 7. North won with the King and led the spade Knave. East played the Queen, and North won with the Ace in Dummy and cleared the spade suit. West, winning the spade trick, returned another club, which was won with Dummy's Ace. North then led two more rounds of spades, allowing Dummy to retain the lead on the last round. East discarded the club Ten and the heart 6.

These plays suggested that East held the diamond Queen and was retaining two guards to it. The Declarer therefore decided not to try the diamond finesse, but led a small diamond from Dummy, won with the Ace and squeezed East by the lead of the club Queen. East discarded the heart Ten in an effort to keep a guard for the diamond, but it was unavailing, as he was thrown in the lead with a heart and forced to concede the last two tricks to the Declarer. If East had chosen instead to discard a diamond, North, with his accurate count on the hand, would have dropped the diamond Queen.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What is the correct Opening bid by the Dealer, not vulnerable, on the following hand?

♠ 5 ♡ K Q J 9 7 6 4 3 ♢ A 7 ♣ 4 3

Answer—Three hearts. This bid is a combination strength-showing and shut-out bid made on hands containing 7 to 8 winners including between 2 and 3 honor-tricks.

gravy in another skillet by browning:

Four tablespoons flour, gradually add hot water to make a smooth consistency, then pour over meat, seasoning with salt pepper, paprika and 1 tablespoon chili powder. Cover pan and let simmer for two hours. Avoid removing lid. Garnish meat with chopped parsley and serve on broad lettuce leaves.

NUGAT CAKE—1 cup sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 egg yolks, beaten; 2 cups and 1½ tablespoons cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup sour milk, 1 square chocolate, melted; 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, beaten until stiff.

Cream butter and sugar, add beaten egg yolks, and beat well. Sift flour before measuring, then sift again with baking powder and soda, add alternately to first mixture with sour milk. Add melted chocolate and vanilla, mixing well. Then add the beaten egg whites, folding them in. Bake in two 10-inch layers, in moderate oven until cake shrinks from side of pan. Frost with seven-minute or boiled frosting.

CHOCOLATE MERINGUE CAKE—Melt 2 squares chocolate in ¼ cup sweet milk in double boiler, 1½ cups sugar, ¼ cup butter, ¾ cup sour milk, 3 egg yolks, 1¾ cups flour, 1 teaspoon each, soda and vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Cream together sugar and butter, add beaten egg yolks and chocolate which has been melted and cooled with milk. Add flour, soda and sour milk alternately and salt and vanilla. Spread in pan 9x17 or in two flat pans, 7x11. Then prepare the following meringue:

3 egg whites, ½ cup sugar, 1-3 cup shredded, blanched, toasted almonds, ¼ cup candied cherries.

Beat egg whites stiff, but not dry, add sugar gradually, beating well, fold in cherries and almonds. Spread over cake batter, sprinkle with granulated sugar, bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

ROASTED RABBIT—1 good-sized rabbit, ½ pound sliced bacon, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon flour.

Clean rabbit well, cut in pieces to serve and soak in cold water about four hours. Then put in covered roaster, putting a couple of slices of bacon on the bottom and the rest on top and sprinkle with salt and pepper and the flour. Add one-fourth cup warm water and roast until a light brown. Serve with mashed potatoes and head lettuce.

CRANBERRY PUDDING—1 cup milk, ¾ cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons fat, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup cranberries.

Cream fat and sugar. Beat egg slightly and add. Then add flour mixed and sifted with baking powder. Add milk. Chop cranberries and stir them in. Turn into a greased mold and steam for two hours. Serve with a sweet sauce.

Wash, hull and crush strawberries, cover with sugar and allow to stand in refrigerator for two hours. Remove crusts from bread and fry each slice separately in butter in a skillet until the bread is well browned and soaked with butter. While bread is still warm, place it on a dessert plate, cover with vanilla ice cream and heap crushed berries on top. Serve immediately.

PINEAPPLE CRULLERS — 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup milk, 2 cups drained crushed pineapple, 7 cups flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon each, salt and cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs, milk and pineapple and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and spices. Add to first mixture. Turn out on slightly floured board and roll to one-half inch thickness. Cut with doughnut cutter and fry in deep hot fat until a delicate brown.

Clothes Catch Fire, Child Badly Burned

When her nightdress caught fire before an open coal grate in her home, Ida Blair, 4, Negro, was severely burned today. Her father, Alfred Blair, hearing her screams, rushed in and extinguished her blazing clothing, suffering burns on both hands. The child was removed to Passavant Hospital.

Boy Loses Thumbs As Sewer Lid Falls

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 10.—Raymond Cantral, 14, of Henderson avenue, lost both thumbs when a heavy sewer lid dropped as he and companions were trying to retieve a boy's cap from the sewer.

IT is human nature to give least thought to the things with which we are most familiar. Consequently people don't think about the sugar they use.

But, sugar is the one essential food to which you should give most serious attention.

Sugar is made from a variety of things.

It is made in many countries—made under widely different sanitary conditions.

What do you know about the Sugar You Use?

There is a way in which you can be certain that the sugar you and your family use is pure, clean, wholesome sugar.

Buy JACK FROST Packaged Sugars

Then you will know that the sugar you use is made from sugar cane

Then you will know it is made under the most modern, sanitary conditions

Then you will know that it is 100% Pure Cane Sugar. Made in the U.S.A. and guaranteed by

There is a Difference In Sugar—

Pure cane sugar, as refined in this country, has established a definite standard of quality by which America's sugar values are measured and judged.

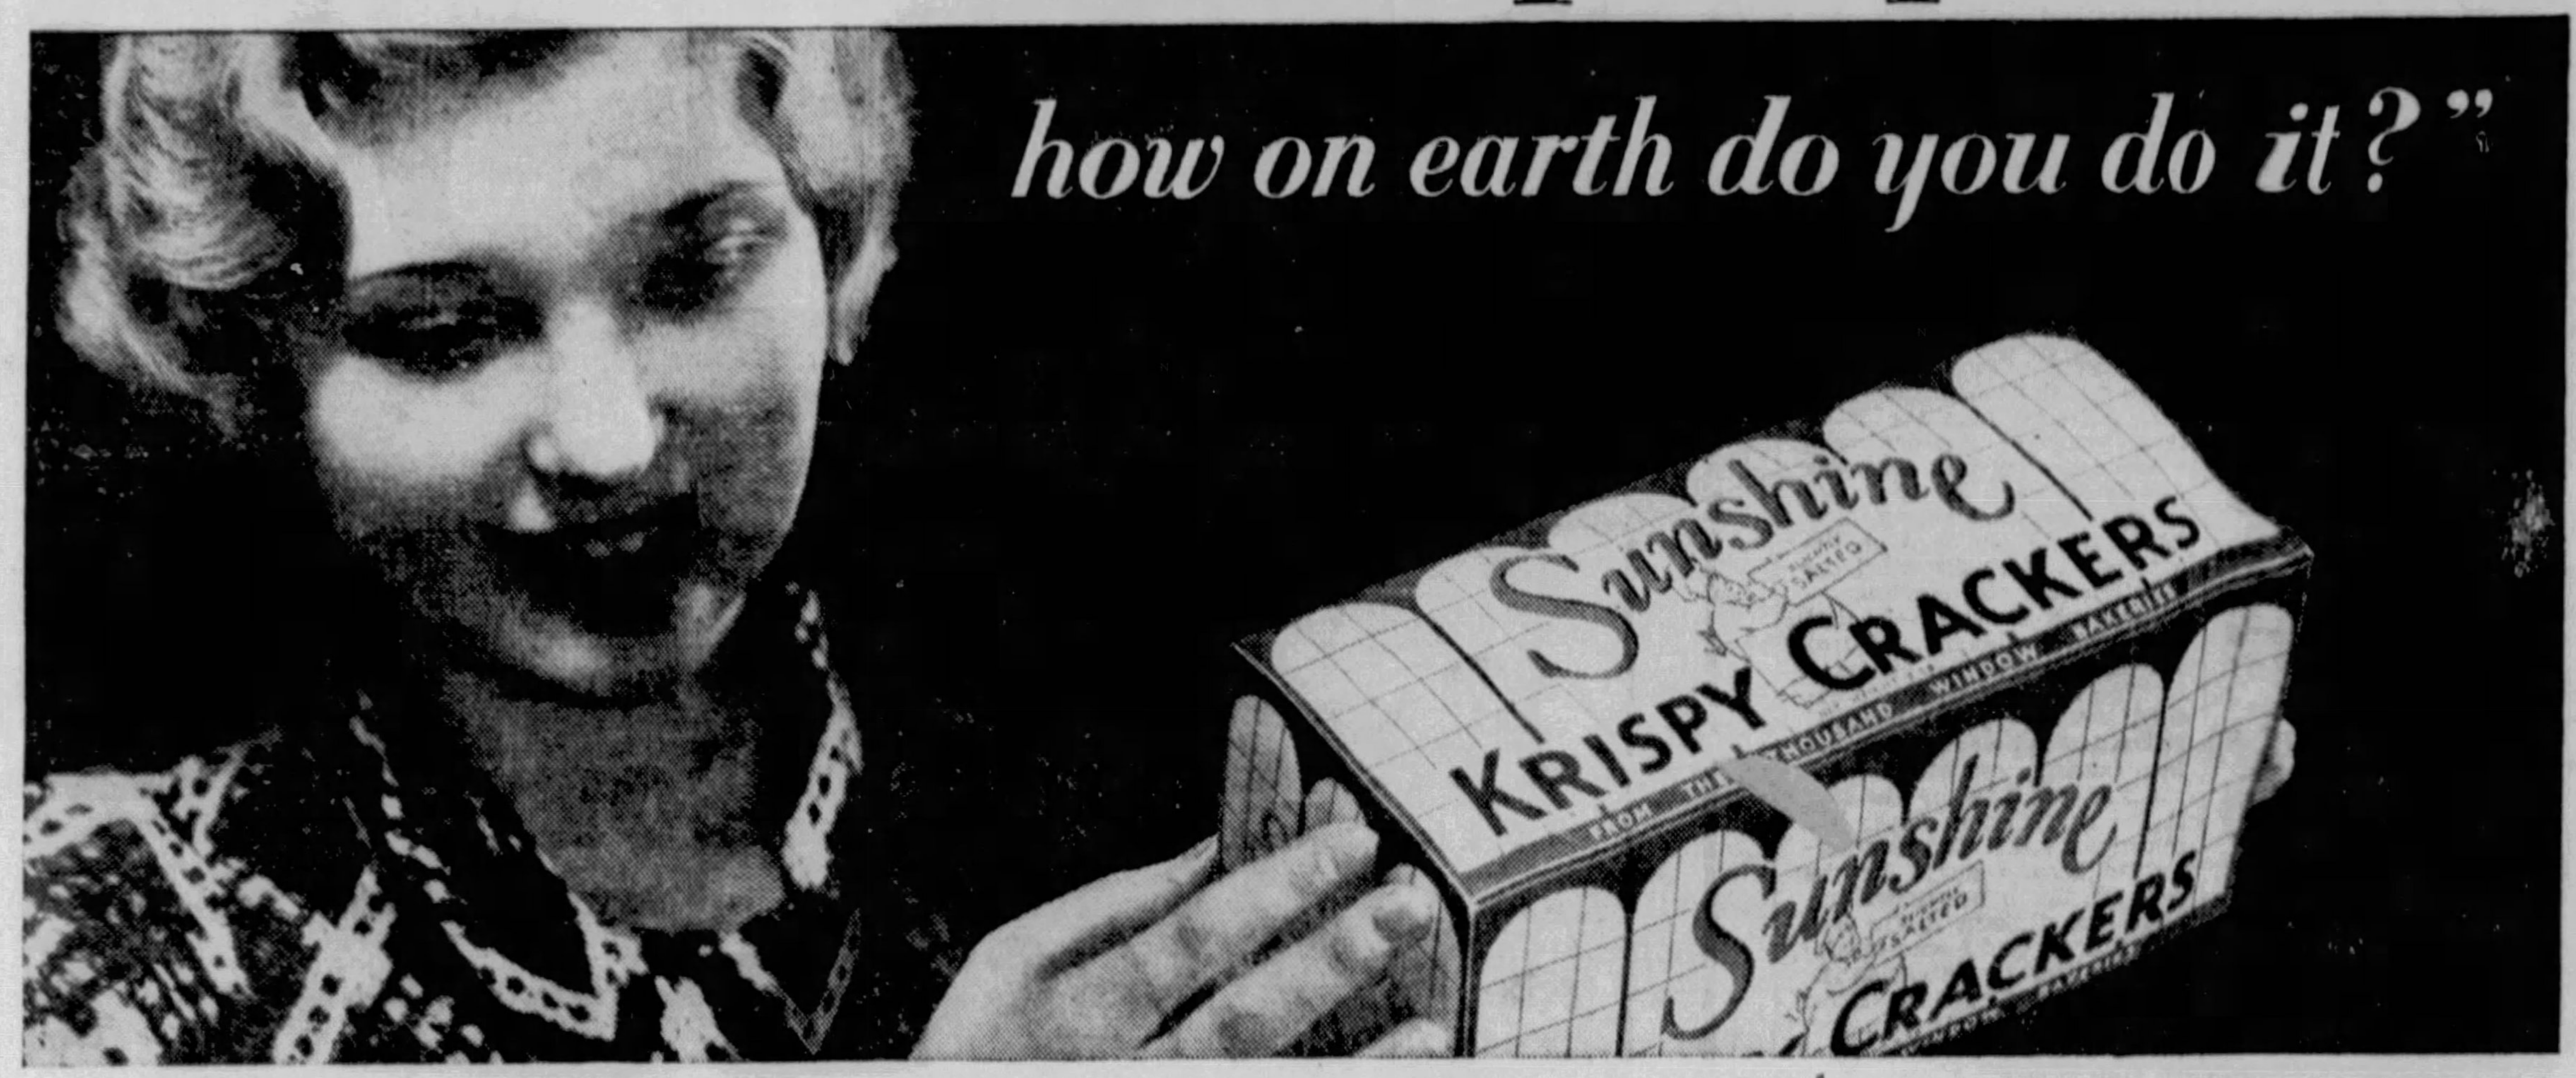
"More crackers per pound... how on earth do you do it?"

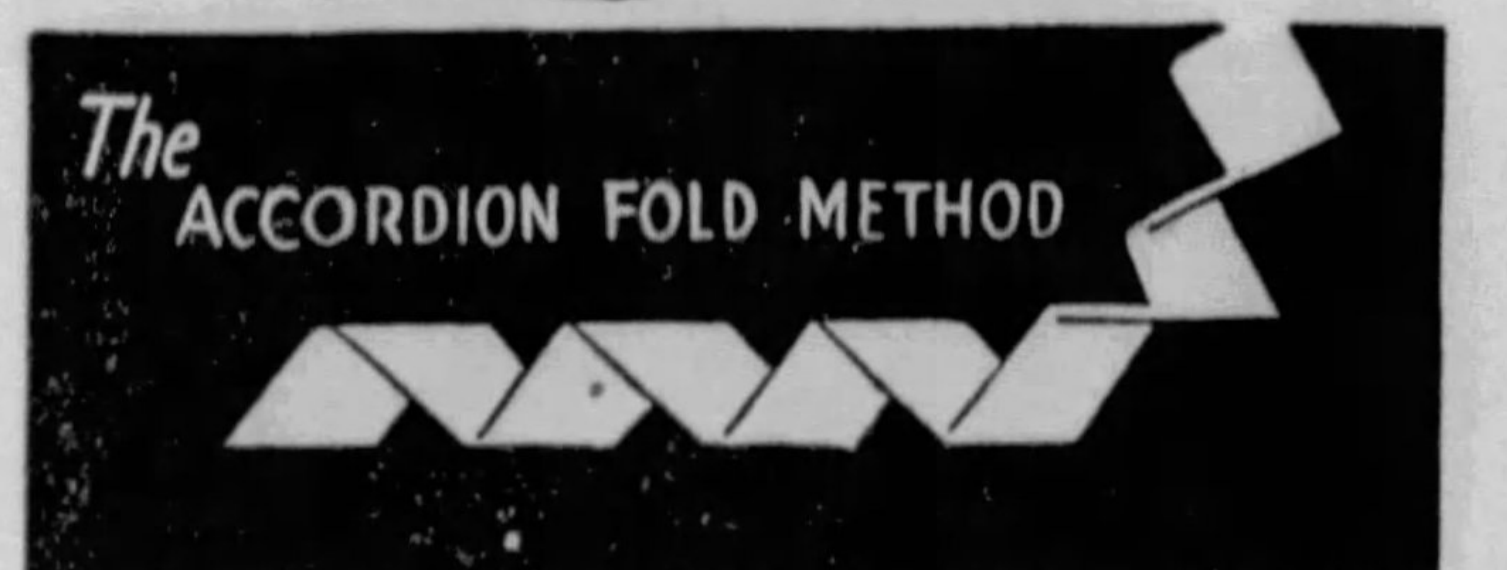


THEY'RE LIGHTER
AND FLAKIER
AND MADE BY THE ACCORDION FOLD METHOD

NO WONDER thrifty housewives keep asking how it is Sunshine Bakers give so many more crackers per pound in the big, blue and white Krispy Cracker packages.

15 to 20 More Crackers Per Pound

The reason is that Sunshine Krispy Crackers are made differently from those other, heavier crackers. Just take a look at the diagram in the next column. We've tried to show you graphically how we do it. Every housewife will be interested in this important baking story.



In this special method used by Sunshine Bakers, the dough is rolled and then folded or "pleated" into many layers. By a secret Sunshine method, these laminated folds of dough are held tightly together. When the carefully controlled heat of the oven strikes them, they expand and spring apart, forming a lighter, flakier and more flavorful cracker.

More Servings Per Package

Because of these important differences, they're not only much better-tasting with soups, salads, cheese and all sorts of spreads, but they give you more servings per package. As a result, they help make your money go further . . . without sacrificing quality! Isn't it wise economy always to insist on Sunshine Krispy Crackers at your grocer's?

ETHEL BARRYMORE -:- Lives of Merchants In New Series -:- ON AIR

Grace Hayes, Van Loon Broadcast

Ethel Barrymore, Grace Hayes, Hendrik Willem van Loon . . . Radio's firmament takes on an added tinge of glamour tonight with the billing of these three internationally famed personalities.

Miss Barrymore, one of the last of the most prominent stage figures to capitulate to radio, tells the story of her life and reveals little-known facts about other members of the distinguished Barrymore family as Edwin C. Hill's "Inside Story" guest on WJAS at 9:30 p. m. Miss Hayes, musical comedy star of the stage and screen, comes to the microphone as Jack Benny's guest on WCAE at 10 o'clock, and Mr. van Loon, author of "The Story of Mankind" and "The Story of the Bible," appears on the "Our Daily Food" program on KDKA at 6, telling "The Story of Food."

The opening of the new dramatic program series also marks tonight's air schedule. On WCAE at 9, a weekly series depicting adventures in the lives of great merchants is inaugurated with a dramatization of the life of Cheng Chi-en, the greatest of Chinese traders. Tom Wilmot, Helen Wayne, Stephanie Diamond, Leon Churchon, Don Gallagher, David Olson and Ed Harvey comprise the cast, complemented by a 17-piece orchestra directed by Cliff Marshall. The series of programs is sponsored by Kaufmann's.

'Hey, Buddy, Can You Spare A Buck?' Sing Jack Pearl, Downey and Other Stars

By AIRCASTER

Ninety-five per cent of the air's entertainers are seriously handicapped by the bank holiday. Many of them are stuffed with immobile checks. But cash is at a premium among them and its scarcity has made all men and women equal; has broken down the caste system and democratized the industry.

Regard the radio artist colony at that midtown New York apartment as an example. There are 50 or more of them centered there, and, lacking taxi fare, they are carted to and from the studios in the apartment private bus. Artists who live in suburbs and who have been commuting, are now living in town on credit for lack of funds to buy commutation tickets.

Lew White, the organist, who lives in Westchester, has thrown his Broadway studios open to the profession, and is living and cooking there himself.

The Pickens Sisters, trading on the cuff at a delicatessen, have opened their apartment to a dozen other female artists who are temporarily embarrassed.

DOWNEY STRANDED

Morton Downey, stranded on the road with his imported car, while on the way to obtain gas on credit, has stored it and is subwaying.

Jack Pearl, with two $7,000 checks in his purse, was down to $1.40 in cash, but his wife, who has secretly saved $200, came to the rescue.

Players to Begin New Program

"Aunt Lulu's Adventures" is the title of a new series of dramatic sketches introduced to KDKA listeners at 7:15. The programs, centering about the activities of a spinster, will be offered each Friday and Saturday at the same hour by the KDKA Players.

Polish Pianist With Philharmonic

Mieczyslaw Munz, noted Polish pianist, will be the soloist in Ernest Schelling's reading of the Mozart Concerto in D minor for Piano and Orchestra on WJAS tomorrow at 11 a. m., when the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra is heard in the last of the current series of elementary Children's Concerts. The concluding concert of the advanced series will be broadcast next Saturday.

Opera Season Ends On Air Tomorrow

The Metropolitan Opera season on the air will close with a broadcast of Richard Wagner's great love drama, "Tristan und Isolde," over nation-wide combined NBC networks tomorrow. The opera will be carried in its entirety over NBC-KDKA beginning at 1:45 p. m. with NBC-WCAE picking up at 3 p. m.

News flashes by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are broadcast over WCAE and WJAS at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. and over WCAE at 2:15 p. m. today.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter Of the Sun-Telegraph-Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

What is this craze for bridge coming to? No doubt in some of its most virulent forms it has taken hold on some of the globe trotters, considering all the slams little and big, that are being made at the expense of this dummy.

The Greensburg cab drivers want a correction and it is coming to them. It wasn't clearly brought out in the broadcast that their American Legion Post Drum and Bugle Corps, The Green Trojans, won the first prize at the National Capital during the inauguration ceremonies. Sorry! Congratulations.

Every now and then I receive an anonymous letter asking me about purported attempts of medical students to kidnap people in the Hill District for experimental purposes. I thought it was a practical joker at first. Then another letter came and finally letters from several people and telephone calls poured in demanding to know why I said such a thing. Nobody knew about it down here and only after a check with people had we learned that this has been the rumor through the Hill District. In the first place, it was not broadcast, and in the second place there is not a particle of truth to support such a disturbing rumor.

Ah! but here's a letter from Wilkinsburg telling me that the writer's mother, up in years, and not able to get around very much because of infirmities, never misses a broadcast. They are her source of pleasure each day, and it warms the hearts of the other members of the family when Granny joins with them at dinner in mentioning the affairs of the day. One letter like that gives more than sufficient armor to your inner cheerfulness than can be penetrated by the sharp shafts and barbs of anonymous penmen. It's a grand world.

CHOPPING OFF FIRM SUPPORT

Why does the lady's action look so silly? Because she's defying a fundamental principle of balance in nature—four-square support! EVEREADY RAYTHEON 4-PILLAR TUBES provide far better reception because—four sturdy supports hold their vital elements always in firm balance! All other tubes have only two.

NINE TIMES out of ten, when your radio begins to sound like one of the first electric refrigerators, with squawks and squeaks interrupting the program, you can lay the trouble to one cause—tubes! Radio experts agree on this. Bumps, jolts and jars, the constant vibration of the dynamic speaker in the set, throw poorly supported vital elements off balance.

Simply look about you for illustrations of this principle. Automobiles with four wheels. Men and women with the four-square support of heel, toe, heel, toe, keeping them firmly upright. Eveready Raytheons have four pillars for a reason. It's a fundamental principle of balance. Delicate elements remain true in spite of bumps, vibration. Tone is surer, tube-life longer.

Eveready are the only tubes made with four-pillar support. They're what you need in your set! Your nearest Eveready dealer will gladly demonstrate their superior features to you.

ROOSEVELT'S BANKING PLANS DEFINED IN NEW ACT

RELIEF BILL AS SIGNED BY NATION'S CHIEF GIVEN IN FULL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The text of the banking relief bill signed last night by President Roosevelt follows:

Section 1—The actions, regulations, rules, licenses, orders and proclamations heretofore taken, promulgated, made, or issued by the President of the United States or the Secretary of the Treasury since March 4, 1933, pursuant to the authority conferred by sub-division (B) of section five of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended, are hereby approved and confirmed.

Section 2—Sub-division (B) of section five of the act of October 6, 1917, as amended, is hereby amended to read as follows:

(B) During time of war or during any other period of national emergency declared by the President, the President may, through any agency he may designate, or otherwise, investigate, regulate, or prohibit, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, by means of licenses or otherwise, any transactions in foreign exchange, transfers of credit between banking institutions as defined by the President and export, hoarding, melting or earmarking of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency by any person within the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof; and the President may require any person engaged in any transaction referred to in this sub-division to furnish under oath, complete information relative thereto, including the production of any books of account, contracts, letters or other papers, in connection therewith in the custody or control of such person, either before or after such transaction is completed. Whoever wilfully violates any of the provisions of this sub-division or of any license, order, rule or regulation issued thereunder, shall, upon conviction be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person be imprisoned for not more than 10 years or both; and any officer, director or agent of any corporation who knowingly participates in such violation shall be punished by a like fine, imprisonment or both. As used in this sub-division the term "person" means an individual, partnership, association or corporation.

Federal Reserve Act Amended

Section 3—Section 11 of the Federal Reserve act is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sub-section: (N) Whenever in the judgement of the Secretary of the Treasury such action is necessary to protect the gold reserves of the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Reserve Board in its discretion and upon the affirmative vote of five of its members, may require any or all member banks to pay and deliver to the Federal Reserve Bank any or all gold coin, gold bullion and gold certificates owned by such member bank or banks. Upon receipt of such gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates, the Federal Reserve Bank shall, at the option of the member bank, pay thereof an equivalent amount of any other form or coin or currency coined or issued under the laws of the United States or give the member bank immediate credit therefor in its reserve balance.

The Federal Reserve Bank shall pay all costs of the transportation of such gold bullion, gold certificates, coin, or currency, including the cost of insurance, protection, and such other incidental costs as may be reasonably necessary. Any member bank failing to comply with any requirement of the Federal Reserve Board made under this sub-section shall be subject to a penalty equal to twice the value of the gold or gold certificates in respect of which such failure occurred and such penalty may be collected by the Federal Reserve Bank by suit or otherwise.

Section 4—In order to provide for the safer and more effective operation of the national banking system and the Federal Reserve system to preserve for the people the full benefits of the currency provided for by the Congress through the national banking system and the Federal Reserve system and to relieve interstate commerce of the burdens and obstructions resulting from the receipt of an unsound or unsafe basis of deposits subject to withdrawal by check, during such emergency period as the President of the United States by proclamation may prescribe, no member bank of the Federal Reserve system shall transact any banking business except to such extent and subject to such regulations, limitations and restrictions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President. Any individual, partnership corporation or association, or any director, officer or employe thereof, violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $10,000, or, if a natural person may in addition to such fine, be imprisoned for a term not exceeding 10 years. Each day that any such violation continues shall be deemed a separate offense.

Act for Bank Conservation

Section 201—This title may be cited as the "bank conservation act."

Section 202—As used in this title, the term "bank" means (1) any national banking association, (2) any bank or trust company located in the District of Columbua and operating under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency, or other similar institution; and the term "state" means any state, territory, or possession of the United States and the Canal Zone.

Section 203—Whenever he shall deem it necessary in order to conserve the assets of any bank for the benefit of the depositors and other creditors thereof, the Comptroller of the Currency may appoint a conservator for such bank and require of him such bond and security as the Comptroller of the Currency deems proper. The conservator, under the direction of the comptroller, shall take possession of the books, records and assets of every description of such bank and take such action as may be necessary to conserve the assets of such bank pending further disposition of its business as provided by law. Such conservator shall have all the rights, powers and privileges now possessed by or hereafter given receivers of insolvent national banks and shall be subject to the obligations and penalties not inconsistent with the provisions of this title to which receivers are now or may hereafter become subject. During the time that such conservator remains in possession of such bank the rights of all parties with respect thereto shall, subject to the other provisions of this title, be the same as if a receiver has been appointed therefor. All expenses of any such conservatorship shall be paid out of the assets of such bank and shall be a lien thereon which shall be prior to any other lien provided by this act or otherwise. The conservative shall receive as salary an amount no greater than that paid to employes of the federal government for similar services.

Section 204—The Comptroller of the Currency shall cause to be made such examinations of the affairs of such banks as shall be necessary to inform him as to the financial condition of such bank, and the examiner shall make a report thereon to the Comptroller of the Currency at the earliest practical date.

Section 205—If the Comptroller of the Currency becomes satisfied that it may safely be done and that it would be in the public interest, he may, in his discretion, terminate the conservatorship and permit such bank to resume the transaction of its business subject to such terms, conditions, restrictions and limitations as he may prescribe.

Section 206—While such bank is in the hands of the conservator appointed by the Comptroller of the currency, the Comptroller may require the conservator to set aside and make available for withdrawal by depositors and payment to other creditors, on a ratable basis, such amounts as in the opinion of the Comptroller may safely be used for this purpose; and the Comptroller may, in his discretion, permit the conservator to receive deposits, but deposits received while the bank is in the hands of the conservator shall not be subject to any limitation as to the payment or withdrawal, and such deposits shall be segregated and shall not be issued to liquidate any indebtedness of such bank existing at the time that a conservator was appointed for it or any subsequent indebtedness incurred for the purpose of liquidating any indebtedness of such bank existing at the time such conservator was appointed. Such deposits received while the bank is in the hands of the conservator shall be kept on hand in cash, invested in the direct obligations of the United States, or deposited with a Federal Reserve bank. The Federal Reserve banks are hereby authorized to open and maintain separate deposit accounts for such purpose or for the purpose of receiving deposits from state officials in charge of state banks under similar circumstances.

Supervision by Comptroller

Section 207—In any reorganization of any national banking association under a plan of a kind which, under existing law, requires the consent, as the case may be, (A) of depositors and other creditors or (B) of stockholders, or (C) of both depositors and other creditors and stockholders, such reorganization shall become effective only (1) when the Comptroller of the Currency shall be satisfied that the plan or reorganization is fair and equitable as to all depositors, other creditors and stockholders and is in the public interest and shall have approved the plan subject to such conditions, restrictions and limitations as he may prescribe and (W) when after reasonable notice of such reorganization, as the case may require, (A) depositors and other creditors of such bank representing at least 75 per cent in amount of its total deposits and other liabilities as shown by the books of the national banking association or (B) stockholders owning at least two-thirds of its outstanding capital stock as shown by the books of the national banking association or (C) both depositors or other creditors representing at least 75 per cent in amount of the total deposits and other liabilities and stockholders owning at least two-thirds of its outstanding capital stock as shown by the books of the national banking association, shall have consented in writing to the plan of reorganization.

Provided, however, that claims of depositors or other creditors which will be satisfied in full under the provisions of the plan of reorganization shall not be included among the total deposits and other liabilities of the National Banking Association in determining the 75 per cent thereof as above provided. When such reorganization becomes effective all books, records and assets of the National Banking Association shall be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of the plan and the affairs of the National Banking Association shall be conducted by its board of directors in the manner provided by the plan and under the conditions, restrictions and limitations which may have been prescribed by the Comptroller of the Currency. In any reorganization which shall have been approved and shall have become effective as provided herein, all depositors and other creditors and stockholders of such National Banking Association whether or not they shall have consented to such plan of reorganization shall be fully and in all respects subject to and bound by its provisions and claims of all depositors and other creditors shall be treated as if they had consented to such plan or reorganization.

Section 208—After 15 days after the affairs of a bank shall have been turned back to its board of directors the conservator, either with or without a reorganization as provided in section 207 hereof, the provisions of section 206 of this title with respect to the segregation of deposits received while it is in the hands of the conservator and with respect to the use of such deposits to liquidate the indebtedness of such bank shall no longer be effective;

Provided, that before the conservator shall turn back the affairs of the bank to its board of directors he shall cause to be published in a newspaper published in the city, town or county in which such bank is located, and if no newspaper is published in such city, town or county, in a newspaper to be selected by the Comptroller of the Currency, published in the state in which the bank is located, a notice in form approved by the Comptroller stating the date on which the affairs of the bank will be returned to its board of directors, and that the said provisions of section 206 will not be effective after 15 days after such date; and on the date of the publication of such notice the conservator shall immediately send to every person who is a depositor in such bank under section 206 a copy of such notice by registered mail, addressed to the last known address of such person as shown by the records of the bank, and the conservator shall send similar notice in like manner to every person making deposit in such bank under section 206 after the date of such newspaper publication and before the time when the affairs of the bank are returned to its directors.

Regulations for Conservators

Section 209—Conservators appointed pursuant to the provisions of this title shall be subject to the provisions of and to the penalties prescribed by section 5209 of the revised statutes (U. S. C. title 12, Sec. 592); and Sections 112, 113, 114, 115, 116 and 117 of the criminal code of the United States, in so far as applicable are extended to apply to contracts, agreements, proceedings, dealings, claims and controversies by or with any such conservator or the Comptroller of the Currency under the provisions of this title.

Section 210—Nothing in this title shall be construed to impair in any manner any powers of the President, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Comptroller of the Currency or the Federal Reserve Board.

Section 211—Comptroller of the Currency is hereby authorized and empowered with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury to prescribe such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary in order to carry out the provisions of this title. Whoever violates any rule or regulation made pursuant to this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than one year or both.

Section 301 — Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, any national banking association may, with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency and by a vote of shareholders owning a majority of the stock of such association upon not less than five days' notice, given by registered mail pursuant to action taken by its board of directors, issue preferred stock in such amount and with such par value as shall be approved by said Comptroller and make such amendments to its articles of association as may be necessary for this purpose; but in the case of any newly organized national banking association which has not yet issued common stock, the requirement of notice to and vote of shareholders shall not apply. No issue of preferred stock shall be valid until the whole amount representing the par value of such stock shall be paid in.

Section 302—(a) The holders of such preferred stock shall be entitled to cumulative dividends at a rate not exceeding 6 per centum per annum, but shall not be held individually responsible as such holders for any debts, contracts or engagements of such association, and shall not be liable for assessments to restore impairments in the capital of such association as now provided by law with reference to holders of common stock. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the holders of such preferred stock shall have such voting rights and such stock shall be subject to retirement in such manner and on such terms and conditions as may be provided in the articles of association with the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency.

(b) No dividends shall be declared or paid on common stock until the cumulative dividends on the preferred stock shall have been paid in full; and, if the association is placed in voluntary liquidation or a conservator or a receiver is appointed therefor, no payments shall be made to the holders of the common stock until the holders of the preferred stock shall have been paid in full the par value of such stock plus all accumulated dividends.

Section 303—The term "common stock" as used in this title means stock of National Banking Associations other than preferred stock issued under the provisions of this title. The term "capital" as used in provisions of law relating to the capital of national banking associations shall mean the amount of unimpaired common stock plus the amount of preferred stock outstanding and unimpaired; and the term "capital stock" as used in Section 12 of the Act of March 14, 1900, shall mean only the amount of common stock outstanding.

Request for R. F. C. Action

Section 304—If in the opinion of the Secretary of the Treasury, any National Banking Association or any state bank or trust company is in need of funds for capital purposes either in connection with the organization or reorganization of such association or such state bank or trust company or otherwise, he may, with the approval of the President, request the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to subscribe for preferred stock in such bank, association, state bank or trust company or to make loans secured by such or collateral, and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall subscribe and pay for such stock in accordance with such request. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, and under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, sell in the open market or otherwise the whole or any part of the preferred stock of any National Banking Association, state bank or trust company acquired by the corporation pursuant to this section. The amount of notes, bonds, debentures and other such obligations which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to issue and to have outstanding at any one time under existing law is hereby increased by an amount sufficient to carry out the provisions of this section.

Section 401—The sixth paragraph of Section 18 of the Federal Reserve Act is amended to read as follows:

Upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States (A) of any direct obligations of the United States or (B) of any notes, drafts, bills of exchange or bankers' acceptance acquired under the provisions of this act, any Federal Reserve Bank making such deposit in the manner prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury shall be entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes in blank, duly registered and countersigned. When such circulating notes are issued against the security of obligations of the United States the amount of such circulating notes shall be equal to the face value of the direct obligations of the United States so deposited as security and when issued against the security of notes, drafts, bills of exchange and bankers' acceptances acquired under the provisions of this act the amount thereof shall be equal to not more than 90 per cent of the estimated values of such notes, drafts, bills of exchange and bankers' acceptances so deposited as security.

Such notes shall be the obligations of the Federal Reserve Bank procuring the same, shall be in form prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, shall be receivable at par in all parts of the United States for the same purpose as are national bank notes, and shall be redeemable in lawful money of the United States on presentation at the United States Treasury or at the bank of issue. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and empowered to prescribe regulations governing the issuance, redemption, replacement, retirement and destruction of such circulating notes and the release and substitution of security therefor.

Circulating Notes Provisions

Such circulating notes shall be subject to the same tax as is provided by law for the circulating notes of national banks secured by 2 per cent bonds of the United States. No such circulating notes shall be issued under this paragraph after the President has declared by proclamation that the emergency recognized by the President by proclamation of March 6, 1933, has terminated unless such circulating notes are secured by deposits of bonds of the United States bearing the circulation privilege. When required to do so by the Secretary of the Treasury, each Federal Reserve agent shall act as agent of the Treasurer of the United States or of the Comptroller of the Currency or both for the performance of any of the functions which the Treasurer or the Comptroller may be called upon to perform in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph. Appropriations available for distinctive paper and printing United States currency or national bank currency are hereby made available for the production of the circulating notes of Federal Reserve Banks herein provided; but the United States shall be reimbursed by the Federal Reserve Bank to which such notes are issued for all expenses necessarily incurred in connection with the procuring of such notes and all other expenses incidental to their issue, redemption, replacement, retirement and destruction.

Section 402—Section 10 (B) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, is further amended to read as follows:

Section 10 (B)—In exceptional and exigent circumstances, and when any member bank has no further eligible and acceptable assets available to enable it to obtain adequate credit accommodations through rediscounting at the Federal Reserve Bank or any other method provided by this act other than that provided by section 10 (A), any Federal Reserve Bank under rules and regulations prescribed by the Federal Reserve Board, may make advances to such member bank on its time or demand notes secured to the satisfaction of such Federal Reserve Bank. Each such note shall bear interest at a rate not less than 1 per centum per annum higher than the highest discount rate in effect at such Federal Reserve Bank on the date of such note. No advance shall be made under this section after March 3, 1934, or after the expiration of such additional period not exceeding one year, as the President may prescribe.

Subject to such limitations, restrictions and regulations as the Federal Reserve Board may prescribe, any Federal Reserve Bank may make advances to any individual, partnership or corporation on the promissary notes of such individual, partnership, or corporation secured by direct obligation to the United States. Such advances shall be made for a period not exceeding 90 days and shall bear interest at rates fixed from time to time by the Federal Reserve Bank subject to the review and determination of the Federal Reserve Board.

Section 501—There is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated the sum of $2,000,000 which shall be available for expenditure, under the direction of the President and in his discretion for any purpose in connection with the carrying out of this act.

Section 502—The right to alter, amend or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved. If any provision of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the remainder of the act and the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

STEEL TONNAGE OF 44,444

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 44,444 tons in February to 1,854,200 tons, a new record low since the corporation has been publishing the figures. In January tonnage dropped 69,496 tons.

Wall street had been prepared for another decrease in the back log on the general assumption of restricted buying of all commodities in several midwest areas affected during a considerable part of the month by bank holidays. The effect of the banking stiuation was reflected in the general lowering of steel mill operating schedules in the last few weeks.

In the last few years February tonnage changes have been downward. A year ago the backlog stood at 2,545,629 tons.

Dairy Dividend Cut, Net $1.88 Per Share

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Thomas H. McInnerney, president of National Dairy Products Corporation, accompanied an announcement of a reduced common stock dividend today with the statement that "reports make it reasonable to assume we have seen the bottom and that from now on the trend of prices will be upward."

McInnerney said it was "not in the public interest that the 'chaotic conditions' which recently brought on a milk strike and the dumping of mlik by farmers should continue."

National Dairy's net profit last year was $12,537,380, equal to $1.88 a common share, compared with $22,547,973, or $3.47 a share, in 1931.

OPENING EYES TO BAD SPOTS HELPS U. S.

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, March 10.—This is no time to be a pessimist. The time for that was a year ago.

The pessimist is one who can't see a solvent bank or a sound dollar. There are plenty of both. In order to see them clearly, all you have to do is to separate the sound from the unsound and the solvent from the insolvent.

If you will just determine which are the insolvent banks, and face the facts, you will see that more banks are solvent. And as long as we are determined to keep on a gold basis our dollars will be sound.

BAD SPOTS IGNORED

Our past troubles have been largely due to ignoring the unsound spots. In our hearts we have known they were there, so when we were told that everything was sound we have distrusted everything.

Now that we are deciding to cut out the tumors, we are going to get well. Now that we are going to separate the sheep from the goats we can tell a sheep when we see it and can be optimistic about good mutton.

I see no need to worry about the proposed additional issues of Federal Reserve notes. If they are properly handled, they can be made a wise means of meeting the temporary shortage of currency.

GOOD CURRENCY NEEDED

An emergency exists, and the country badly needs good currency. Ordinarily we would have resorted to local clearing house certificates. These would be sound, but would be so localized that inter-city trade would be greatly handicapped.

So this time, we are to try the use of Reserve notes, which are well known to everybody and circulate throughout the nations.

My whole thought is that if we use them in the same way that a local issue of clearing house certificates would be used, they will be sound. What does this require?

First, the amount to be reissued should be definitely limited. Second, provision should be made for retirement as the emergency passes. And in general, everything should be done to insure a basis of confidence in the Federal Reserve note.

If these requirements are met, and I believe they will be, there will be no depreciation of the currency, and no inflationary rise in prices.

URGES DEFINITE MAXIMUM

The big point is to provide a basis for real confidence in sound banks and in government credit. To do this, we must cover the following points:

1—Provide definitely a reasonable maximum issue and a basis for automatically retiring notes as circulation is restored.

2—Restore confidence in government credit by drastic economies and taxes, which will definitely head us toward a balanced budget.

3—Restore confidence in our monetary system by an unqualified indorsement of the gold standard and the adoption of policies clearly designed to keep us on that standard.

4—Restore confidence in our banking system by cleaning it and encouraging the resumption of check payments by solvent banks.

On these conditions, the proposed emergency issue of Federal Reserve notes will be good, and no price rise will occur.

A. & P. Stores' Sales Lower in February

NEW YORK, March 10.—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company estimates sales for 52 weeks ended February 25, last, at $854,289,466 compared with $996,608,422 for the similar period of the previous year, a decrease of 14.3 per cent. Estimates tonnage sales were 5,278,400 against 5,499,939, a decrease of 4 per cent.

Sales for four weeks ended February 25 are placed at $61,102,151 against $69,868,307 in the same period of 1932, a decrease of 12½ per cent. Tonnage sales for the four-week period are estimated at 406,156 against 412,811 a year ago, a decrease of 1.6 per cent.

Japan's Scrap Iron Purchases Expand

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Scrap iron shipments from New York to Japan increased 800 per cent this week to 2,000 tons, Michael Bonomo said in an interview today. Bonomo's firm, the Schiavone-Bonomo Corporation, handles most of the scrap in this section. Bonomo said:

"Since a year ago we have had fortunate markets in the Far East. Japan has bought practically everything she could get her hands on for war materials, and even during the lull in fighting our shipments have averaged 1,000 tons a month. Last Tuesday this was stepped up to 2,000 tons a week."

N. Y. Reserve Bank's 3½% Rate Continued

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change in its rediscount rate of 3½ per cent, to which it was raised from 2½ last week.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—The class one railroads of the country lost $153,308,487 in 1932 as against a profit of $116,362,079 in 1931.

Final figures for the year made public by the Interstate Commerce Commission today showed that in December the class one railways had a net income of $1,731,672. The roads showed net income during only three months out of the 12.

RETAIL TRADE CARRIES ON

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—The weekly mercantile review of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said today that business and trade met the week's bank situation "without leaving the disastrous consequences in its trail which at first seemed inevitable."

The agency said:

"Regardless of the lack of a circulating medium, a strong spirit to carry on dominated all ramification of business endeavor, as the realization became more pronounced that the pressing period of monetary perturbation would result in no devaluation of the American dollar.

"The fact that the affairs of daily life were carried on with but minor restrictions for almost an entire week, in more than the theoretical sense, proved that confidence and credit alone can keep the mechanism of commerce functioning with almost clocklike efficiency."

Trade preparations for spring activities were deferred, the review said, but with the exception of a few districts where commercial life was brought almost to a standstill, a favorable credit standing brought all the benefits of ready currency and business was enabled to flow through its usual channels without other than minor deflections.

LONE STAR GAS CUT ORDERED

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 10.—(AP.)—Sharp cuts in gas rates in 26 communities served by the Lone Star Gas Company and its distributing subsidiary, the Community Natural Gas Company, were ordered by the Oklahoma Corporation Commission.

The Lone Star was directed to reduce its gate rate on gas furnished the Community Natural Gas Company from 40 cents to 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet, and the 10-cent reduction was ordered passed along to domestic consumers.

The commission found that the $1.50 charge for the first 1,000 cubic feet of domestic gas consumed was discriminatory and ruled it should be reduced to 75 cents. The company was given until April 1 to comply with this change.

Prudential Paying Claims, Not Lending

NEW YORK, March 10.—The Prudential Life Insurance Company is paying all claims but withholding policy loans and cash surrender sums pending full reopening of banks. The statement said:

"We are, of course, paying all claims, but on policy loans and cash surrender we are awaiting instructions from the insurance department on relaxation of present banking restrictions."

Spot Silver Quoted At 30 Cents in N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP.)—Continuing its practically uninterrupted advance since the close of the exchanges last Friday, spot silver yesterday jumped ⅝ cents to 30 cents an ounce today, the highest level since last August 11.

LONDON, March 10.—(AP.)—Bar silver easy today, ¼ lower at 18 3-16d.

Steel Scrap Price Advanced 25 Cents

No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap has been advanced 25 cents per ton to $8.50 to $9.

CIRCULATION AT NEW PEAK

WASHINGTON, March 10.—(AP.)—An increase of $818,000,000 of money in circulation in the United States in the week ended March 8, despite the nation-wide bank holiday was shown today in the weekly report of the Federal Reserve Board.

The huge increase which sent total circulation to the unprecedented figure of $7,538,000,000 was brought about on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. The jump made the increase as compared to a year ago amount to $1,993,000,000.

At the same time the monetary gold stock, which had shown a shrinkage of $116,000,000 the preceding week, continued to drop, decreasing $101,000,000 in the week ended yesterday, and leaving the United States with a total stock of monetary gold of $4,243,000,000.

The circulation of Federal Reserve notes increased from $3,579,522,000 to $4,215,006,000 in the three days, but despite this extraordinary demand, its reserve ratio was reduced only to 45.6 per cent, from 53.5 a week previously, and was still well above the normal minimum of 40 per cent.

STEEL SPURTS IN LONDON

LONDON, March 10.—(AP.)—Business on the stock exchange closed quietly confident, some irregular movements being due to profit taking after the recent rise in prices.

Trans-Atlantic shares showed up best in the trading and scored general net improvements, including a rise of two points in United States Steel from $39 at the opening to $41.

TORONTO, March 10.—The Standard Mining Exchange had hardly enough business today to keep it stirring. Interlisted stocks, especially the big gold producers, were particularly quiet.

WHEAT'S RISE CONTINUES

WINNIPEG, March 10.—(AP.)—Given a good start by strong support from Chicago traders, wheat futures continued to forge ahead on the grain market today. Offerings again were light and advances were easily held. Trading was fairly active.

Higher opening prices at Liverpool and scarceness of selling pressure offered a strong background to the buying orders put forward by Chicago interests.

Closing prices:

Wheat—May 52¼, up ⅞; July 53⅜, up ¾; Oct. 55, up ⅞.

LIVERPOOL, March 10.—The Wheat market was ¼ to ⅜ pence higher at the finish.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 10.—(AP.)—Flour unchanged. Shipments 19,549. Pure bran 12.00-12.50.

U. S. Dollar Firm In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, March 10.—(AP.)—The National City Bank was paying 3.40 pesos to the American dollar today, slightly more than was paid last week before President Roosevelt's bank holiday.

Reports were current that a foreign and Mexican banking pool had lost heavily in an attempted raid on the dollar.

MORE U. S. CASH ELIMINATES HAZARD

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 10.—The advantage of the issuance of additional Federal Reserve currency, rather than scrip, lies in the fact that it eliminates the hazard of having superior and inferior money in circulation simultaneously.

According to Gresham's law, so-called bad currency tends to drive good out of circulation.

Mr. Rukeyser

The demand for sound currency should really include an insistence on sound commercial banking, for ordinarily the chief medium of exchange in the United States is the bank check. If deposit liabilities are made readily exchangeable for actual currency, there is no necessary inflation involved.

One sagacious business executive, who has thought deeply on monetary problems, would like to see the commercial banks so conducted that they could readily meet even calls from depositors to convert bank deposits into paper currency. He would do this through the machinery of the Federal Reserve system, and would apply permanently the doctrine of the emergency Glass-Steagall Act, which makes government bonds, as well as eligible commercial paper, suitable collateral for Federal Reserve notes to the tune of 60 per cent of their total amount. This executive would further increase the expansibility of the currency by permitting the gold ratio of collateral behind the notes to be substantially reduced. Ultimately, he thinks that it could safely be curtailed to 5 per cent. Of course, if the gold ratio were cut in half, the capacity of the country to issue currency would be doubled.

DEMAND RATE RAISED

The conversion of bank deposits into currency would not per se increase purchasing power. Bank deposits—so-called deposit currency—are equally effective as purchasing power, and there need be no inflation in the substitution of one for the other.

As a matter of fact, in a civilized and stable credit system, bank deposits are the most convenient form to keep liquid funds. In the plan alluded to, the executive would discourage the attempt to get currency instead of bank deposits. For one thing, actual currency earns no interest, whereas normally bank deposits do. At the end of last week, the New York Clearing House banks raised the rates on demand deposits from ¼ of 1 per cent to 1 per cent. This business leader also proposes that when the banks put up government bonds as collateral for currency, the government in return for the service of backing up the currency should stop paying interest on such bonds as long as they are thus held as collateral against the currency. This provision would induce the banks to reduce their currency demands whenever they safely can.

BANKS IN NEW LIGHT

The invoking of the 60-day clause by the savings banks throws new light on the character of such institutions. It is unfortunate that they are termed banks, rather than savings societies. Their function is really not banking in the form of extending short-term loans and accepting demand deposits. They are in the first analysis investment trusts of the highest grade, confining their investments mainly to long-term commitments, such as prime urban mortgages and high-grade railroad and public utility bonds. For the accommodation of depositors in normal times, they keep a small ratio of total resources in cash and in high-grade commercial paper.

It would obviously not be to the advantage of the mutual owners of such institutions—namely, the depositors—to achieve forced liquidation under existing conditions. Market conditions are unpropitious for the quick selling of their sound assets.

Brokers Have Many Orders To Buy Stock

By B. C. FORBES

THE STOCK market is expected to reopen at higher quotations.

Brokers tell me that buying orders received since the exchange closed (March 3) have outnumbered selling orders, and that purchasers are prepared to pay better prices than ruled before trading ceased.

Mr. Forbes

This is in harmony with what has been happening on foreign exchanges which deal in American stocks.

TWO WEEKS ago New York's most influential bankers frankly confessed to me:

"We have the jitters."

I spent hours talking with the heads of the country's largest banks and banking houses yesterday; their attitude has undergone a most notable change, almost a complete transformation.

They believe that the worst has definitely passed. They believe that, instead of attempts at further hoarding, there will be an impressive outpouring of gold and currency now hidden. They believe that European "raiders of the dollar" will find that this nation's currency is the most dependable, the safest in the whole world.

EXPECT TO see enormous disgorging of gold by hoarders. Bankers have been instructed by Washington to get after them without gloves. Said one banker:

"We are sending to the authorities today a complete list of everybody who has asked us for gold since banking troubles first began to cause uneasiness. I am told that Washington plans to send representatives to question everyone of them and that it is going to go hard with any hoarder who doesn't toe the mark. Possession of gold by private individuals or concerns is going to be made a liability, not an asset."

THERE WAS a veritable stampede yesterday to turn in gold at the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Many millions were handed over, not only by banks, but by frightened hoarders.

Every $5 gold piece put into the hands of the Federal Reserve makes possible the issuance of at least $50 additional credit. Since literally hundreds of millions will unquestionably be deposited, the ability to issue additional currency and credit will be enormous—doubtless far in excess of any possible calls for it.

JUST AS a thunder-and-lightning storm clears an ugly atmosphere, so the banking crisis promises to clear the whole financial atmosphere.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S brief, pointed message to Congress elicited the commendation of the banking world. His aggressive leadership, his readiness to accept responsibility, his determination to give the nation speedy and effective action have won the admiration even of those who did not vote for him.

CHAPTER XIX.

Judith had been furious with Zella when Zella had pointed out to her, with cruel candor, that Barry was seeing his own friends right along.

"He may be fond enough of you, Judith—and why wouldn't he be?—but he doesn't let you interfere with his scheme of living."

"And I wouldn't want to. We're both free. If I choose to see a lot of him, it's my own affair, and not yours, Zella." Judith had retorted, her pride stung.

Synopsis

Barry Deane, bank executive, loves Judith Brian, pretty secretary. Wealthy Loranda Tewson is jealous of Judith. Although Barry makes no secret of his interest in Judith, he cannot antagonize Loranda for business reasons, as she is the friend of his employer's daughter, Betty. On a week-end party at Betty's Canadian lodge, Loranda exercises all her wiles to keep Barry away from Judith. One of the guests couples Barry and Loranda in a toast. To hide her hurt, Judith encourages the attentions of Jack Ordway, playboy friend of Loranda. Barry disapproves and goes trekking with Loranda. Next day, Barry and Judith steal away by themselves. He makes ardent love to her.

Now Go On

But Judith wasn't free. Loving Barry as she did, she never would be free again, she felt . . . nor did she want to be. Her life was irrevocably entwined with his.

She had smiled abstractedly at Zella tonight when Zella had invited her to accompany her to a studio party down in Greenwich Village.

"Maybe I'm modifying my former theories of life! But I don't want you to be hurt, Judith, darling—"

"I can take care of myself perfectly, thank you, Zella."

BARRY DETAINED

It was 9:15 p. m. when the telephone rang. It made a shrill, sharp sound above the drip of the rain.

Judith fairly ran to the instrument.

It was Barry—speaking in an embarrassed, apologetic voice.

"I'm dining out with friends, Judith. Looks like I wouldn't be able to get away in time. You understand?"

She'd "understood," too often. Now she felt as if she'd been dropped a dozen floors in an elevator!

"So you're detained—again?" Her voice was strained.

"If you'd let me come as late as 10? I might even be a little later——"

She swallowed a lump of pride and disappointment in her throat. She said tonelessly: "That'll do perfectly, Barry."

He broke a date with her the following night, because he had to work at the bank.

His stenographer was a lovely blonde. Oh, it was mean to have suspicious thoughts of him—she knew that Mr. Graves relied on Barry to get through an enormous amount of work—she would trust him.

"I'll bet he's forgotten tomorrow's my birthday," she said to Zella wistfully.

GETS PRESENTS

"Well, I haven't, old dear—nor have I let the event slip from the minds of people in a position to do much more for you than Barry Deane, for all his airs!" said Zella tartly.

Her meaning was to be unfolded next morning when an assortment of packages arrived at the flat. There were American Beauty roses—a dozen of them with their long legs sticking out a yard from an elegant florist's box with Judith's name on it. Surely this would be from Barry? Her hands were shaking as she opened the box and looked for a card.

"La Nuit d'Enchantement—we don't stock it in the shop—it must have cost her a young fortune."

"It's a heavenly scent," said Judith when she had got the stopper out and was delicately inhaling it, "but I can't think why Loranda of all people did it?"

"Oh, Loranda's not a bad kid. I think she's quite fond of you, in her own way. Open the other things."

But Judith wasn't so certain about the disinterestedness of Loranda's affection. A horrid thought was in her mind that Loranda could afford to send this token—not only in a financial sense—it was a triumphant wave of a flag—a gesture from a successful rival—

Loranda no longer was afraid of Judith "in the ring" This was a kind of consolation prize. Loranda was the winner.

NOTHING FROM BARRY

Betty Graves sent Judith an exquisite Japanese kimono for her birthday.

"Jumping Judas! She paid $75 for that the other day in the shop. It's just your coloring, Judith."

"Now you can receive your darling Barry in it!" Zella wrapped it around Judith.

But Zella knew—and Judith knew that Zella knew—no gift had come from him today—that he had forgotten it was her birthday . . . !

Judith received a telephone call at the bank shortly before noon that day. It was from Jack Ordway.

"I'm taking you out to dinner tonight, sweet child! It's been on my mind for a long time that you and I ought to get better acquainted."

"Is that so? I thought we knew each other well enough!"

Judith had got over her first unfavorable impression of this man. If Barry asked her out to-night this would be a way of getting even with him.

For Judith's pride—as well as her heart—was badly hurt. She wanted to hurt back again . . . to make Barry suffer, as she had.

JUDITH ACCEPTS

But she had very little hope of that.

"Thank you. I accept Your Highness' kind invitation."

"Right. I'll be round after 7."

He arrived with a spray of orchids bigger than any Judith ever had seen. They transformed her simple dress of a tender green . . . seemed to bring out all the blue of her eyes . . . made her skin lovelier.

"You're awfully kind. I've got to thank you, too, for these wonderful roses."

He looked about the little flat. He had been in many such, around the town. He told himself he was quite a connoisseur of "love nests."

There was something familiar about that fireside and the moss-green couch at right angles to it. . . . Blessed if he hadn't made love on that very couch to an almost equally pretty girl!

"Wasn't this apartment sublet to you, or something?" he asked, with apparent nonchalance.

"Yes. From a friend of Loranda's, who went South."

Ha! He remembered now. He'd escorted a dashing blonde back here from a very swift party. . . .

"Get on your things and let's go." He wasn't squeamish, and seldom regretted anything in his Don Juan-ish career, but now—seeing Judith with her primrose beauty smiling so unsuspectingly at him—he had an urge to get her out of here.

SADNESS LEAVES

His car was down below. He handed her into the seat beside him with a lordly air.

She thought: "How awfully handsome he looks in his smart evening clothes! They're the newest style. Those pearls in his shirt front are real." And her heart that had been so sad all day rose with a kind of heady excitement. If only Barry could see her at this moment. . . .

Don't think of him tonight. Take what the gods gave. Be gay. Genevieve had told her, with twisted lips, jolliness was the only thing that men appreciated.

Genevieve's creed was much like Zella's, except that Genevieve had her sweetheart (and suffered for it, too) while Zella, with her chin stuck out independently, trod her ways alone.

But even Zella seemed to feel the call of spring, these days. Her kind, plain face was brighter than it had been in a long time.

He gave a double ring and a knock—a face appeared behind an aperture in the magnificently-wrought copper door—a suave, smiling gentleman in evening clothes flung the door open.

"Bon soir, Monsieur Ordway—et madame!" The flood of rapid French conveyed to Judith they were very welcome.

Among the benevolent old dynamite patriarchs are the boys who threw the explosive grapefruit at Alexander the Twice.

That was way back in 1879 when Alex was setting as pretty as a red tile on a roof.

He was slated for sudden retirement in 1878. It took the old bomb throwers a year to drop one in his whiskers.

Now, a home for old bomb tossers is our idea of a perfect haven for the dilapidated and the infirm.

But we would hate to talk loud in the reading room or start an argument in the trophy hall.

How do we know that an oldtimer won't suddenly remember the glorious days of his youth and light a slow fuse under your tomato omelet at breakfast?

I'LL GO TO THE HOME FOR OLD BOMB THROWERS - AND BE WITH MY FRIENDS!

They tell us the old bomb hurlers ain't what they used to be. The pitching arm is weak and the eye is dim.

But, they might summon up enough agility to throw one strike out of four. And one strike is all you need.

No sir, we will not ask the County Relief Committee to ticket us in with the old bomb heavers.

We'll take our declining stand on the porch with the exhausted knitters and the retired jig-saw puzzlers.

There is an old saying. Once a bomb always a bomb. We wouldn't feel safe in a place where a pocket lighter might be wired for terrific sound and a turn of the bathroom spigot might be the tap for the hot and cold running nitro-glycerine.

But we can see the delicate sentiment in back of the home for the former grenade twirlers. The idea ain't so much to honor them as it is to take them out of circulation.

Let the People Decide

The Legislature Should Submit the Old Age Pension Amendment to Popular Vote.

The foremost social workers maintain it is better to pay poverty-stricken old people pensions and let them remain at home than to send them to the poorhouse.

Pennsylvania was a pioneer in the old age pension movement, but the law authorizing it was declared unconstitutional.

Attempts have since been made to amend the constitution.

An amendment to the constitution must be passed by the Legislature at two sessions and then referred to the people.

The old age pension amendment, with which is coupled mother's assistance, was passed by the Legislature in 1931. It is up again before the present Legislature, but there is a question if it will pass, because of the hostility of certain Senators.

If the Legislature does not act favorably at this session it will be four years before the proposal can be brought up anew.

President Roosevelt promoted it while Governor of New York.

Many Pennsylvanians whose opinions command respect are in favor of it. Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., of Pittsburgh, is chairman of a state committee that is working for it.

The Legislature should let the people of the state decide if they desire this substitute for the almshouse.

A School Economy Plan

The Proposal to Eliminate Small Districts Is a Step in the Right Direction

The Committee on Education of the House of Representatives at Harrisburg has reported favorably a bill which provides, among other things, for the compulsory annexation of school districts with less than 1,000 population to other districts.

This is a step in the right direction.

The State Department of Public Instruction had recommended that all districts with less than 10,000 population be put under county school boards. It was estimated that the plan would result in savings of $3,150,000 a year out of $72,000,000 spent in the districts for school purposes.

The new plan would not permit such sweeping reductions, but, by permitting the elimination of some of the school-tax collectors, solicitors, auditors and other paid officials, would reduce school expenses appreciably.

We have far too many school districts in Allegheny County. Two of the districts, Ben Avon Heights and Kilbuck Township, do not even maintain schools, but send their children to schools in other districts and pay tuition for them. Another district, Thornburg, while maintaining its own school, has only 37 pupils.

The excessive cost of a multiplicity of districts may be seen in the fact that it costs $186,939 a year to collect school taxes in Allegheny County outside of Pittsburgh, while Pittsburgh, collecting a larger amount, pays only $37,306 for the service.

Hatred Passes

AUSTRALIA FORGETS WAR BITTERNESS

While the big war was on with its killings, squanderings and hatreds, a German ship, the Emden, attacked commercial shipping of Germany's enemies, with a courage and success that aroused world-wide admiration, even among the Allies, fighting Germany.

The career of the Emden and her gallant crew was marvelous while it lasted. It came to an end in November, 1914, when the Australian cruiser Sydney destroyed the Emden after a courageous defense. The Emden was in all ways outclassed by the Australian cruiser.

This picture illustrates the happy truth that human beings soon forget their bitter hatred.

The box (a block of solid ice) contains a wreath placed by Australians on the monument erected in Sydney, on British soil, in honor of the brave crew of the Emden. The wreath is now sent by Australians to Germany, to be kept in the Garrison Church at Wilhelmshaven.

The history of the human race has been one of hatreds, persecutions, wars and killings. It reminds you of Voltaire's statement concerning the French that they are usually monkeys but sometimes become tigers. What we call "the lower animals" do not devour their own species.

Fortunately, as this picture makes clear, men's achievements last, their bitter hatreds are soon forgotten.

Dorothy Hall is more blonde than ever, for goodness sake! And Irene Bordoni is thinner. Percy Hammond, a gentle soul, always seems flushed with inarticulate fury. The most attractive thing about Al Jolson, aside from his marvelous voice, is that go-funny eye. Alice M. Head, England's most famous publisher.

One of my favorite people—Arthur McKeogh. Autograph hunters now are booing when refused. Jacques Bustanoby, veteran restaurateur. And don't put an "n" in restaurateur, printer, or all the college professors will write. Young Dave Leonard's snow-white hair. What became of Charlotte, the skater?

James J. Johnston, a Liverpool, Eng., boy, who made good in the city. Nobody can look more detached than Brock Pemberton. Kent Cooper and John Golden, window shopping. George Armsby and Herbert Bayard Swope have similarly shaped heads. Funny, how Herb Roth can print block letters faster than he can write.

One word description of Spring Byington—twittery. A columnist, in Bombay, wears a robe and is leader of a sect. Stand back! No culting! Those Park avenue celibates—Dick Berlin and Frank Davis. French posters everywhere. They've heard that new cry—Lafayette we are not coming!

Speaking of Dick Berlin, he was leaving his apartment house the other dusk with silk hat at jaunty angle and a doggy top coat over his arm. At the curb, he saw a fellow he thought he knew well, indulging a cavernous yawn. So he stuck a white-gloved index finger into the great open space, only to discover the yawner was a total stranger. Berlin, in sudden shrink, walked on, passing under the projecting spout of a fire plug without even grazing his high hat.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Does it pay to "keep up a front"?

Suppose you were down to your last five dollars—

Would you, if you were a man, spend three dollars of that on a shine, hair cut, pressed pants, new shirt and necktie?

Or, if you were a woman, would you recklessly squander four of it on a krispy, krinkly, spring frock—and go without lunches for a week?

Silly questions? Maybe, once; but not now. To thousands of us now these questions are as important as "WHEN DO WE EAT?"

For that pressed suit, that gay new gown, may mean the difference between a job or the nightmare of unemployment; between neighborly regard or contempt; between a loved one's smile, or disgusted indifference.

Most important of all, it may mean the difference between a scarlet mood and a gray one; between a pulse that hurdles, or crawls.

So—does it pay to keep up a front? And should a wife be praised if she insists on the family dressing and living a bit beyond its means, during these pressing times?

For years we have been the best-dressed, best-groomed, best-amused nation. We have more comforts, more conveniences, more high-powered automobiles, expensive radios, trick plumbing de luxe kitchens, than any other people.

And we have insisted that such things are NOT luxuries, and that it is not foolish extravagance to indulge in them. They are, we protest, actual necessities.

"The old proverb which says that 'fine feathers don't make fine birds' is wrong!" we cry. "Fine feathers DO make fine birds. Comfortable people, proud people, are actually BETTER people. They have more faith in themselves and in their country. They'll serve their families and their communities better.

"IF A MAN LOSES PRIDE IN HIMSELF, HE LOSES PRIDE IN EVERYTHING. HE NO LONGER CARES AS HE SHOULD ABOUT HIS FAMILY, HIS FRIENDS, HIS CITY, HIS COUNTRY."

That's one way of looking at it. Yet millions of intelligent people say it's the wrong way to look at it. Great nations—France, Germany, Russia, Italy—sneer at our tiled bathrooms, our marcelled heads, our "two-car families."

They say these things don't count; that they're a mad waste of money.

Rose Wilder Lane, busy glorifying American womanhood in her new novel "LET THE HURRICANE ROAR," has some interesting ideas.

"A woman's practical common sense," says she, "realizes that personal appearance has a great deal to do with personal mood. The discouraged man becomes slovenly much sooner than the discouraged woman. It's her practical sense, not a desire to keep up a 'front' that makes her spend almost her last dollar for a lip-stick and a new hat. Keeping up her courage and cheerfulness is the essential thing, and there's no tonic for the spirits like a new hat.

"Women have always known this. That's why they send their husband's good suits to the cleaners, and give away his old ones. That's why they make him change his collar and get a haircut. . . Women know that a well-dressed and well-groomed human being is essentially, in himself, a better human being."

Do YOU agree with R. W. L.?

What's the answer? What's YOUR answer?

If YOU were down to that last five dollars, how would YOU spend it?

A Positive Leadership: 'Action—Action Now'

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

On Saturday afternoon, President Roosevelt in his ringing inaugural address accepted the responsibilities and duties of a positive leadership of the American people. In referring to the reasons for the crisis now dumped into his lap, he used language to which we have not been accustomed in this country for many years. He called a spade a spade.

In this notable address, which will rank in importance with those of Jefferson, Lincoln and Wilson, he gave vigorous utterance to the thought that has been in the minds of the people:

"Action, and action now."

On Sunday afternoon he was at work with his advisors on the crisis precipitated by the action in Detroit. Since then the hoarding which has been going on for a year increased. The smaller men with smaller savings in banks, which mean more to them and their future safety than the huger amounts that have been hoarded in gold by the very rich, became hoarders through fear.

In less than 36 hours after assuming a positive and militant leadership for which the nation has been clamoring, President Roosevelt issued a proclamation closing the banks until after Thursday.

That is action.

Action Was Wise And Necessary

That was wise and necessary; it was drastic—but no more drastic than real leadership requires at this juncture.

At the battle of Monmouth, the army of Washington, caught momentarily in a panic of fear and hysteria, was in disorderly retreat. You know the story—how Washington, his face aflame with indignation, his sword drawn, profanity, that the angels wiped out, on his lips, stopped the retreat, restored confidence, and won the day.

Meanwhile, there is no occasion for fear; this action of the President means that the drifting which has developed fear is over; that a national leadership that has courage and determination has appeared.

It means temporary inconvenience—but no different from the temporary inconveniences we suffered cheerfully and even gayly during the war. To meet this inconvenience, as well as possible, a temporary currency is provided. When a people gives way momentarily to hysteria there must be a firm leadership to save them from the results of their own folly.

Depositors Have Been Protected

In a Mid-western state $11,000,000 was withdrawn in a week. The head of a great business, operating nationally, withdrew between two and three million dollars from one bank there that is as solid as Gibraltar. That news leaked out. Smaller depositors became panicky—because this big business man did a stupid and unnecessary and supremely selfish thing. The result would have been a run on that strong bank; and no bank can be expected to pay out on all its obligations in a day or a week.

That sort of thing was going on all over the country—and now it is stopped that people may have an opportunity to resume contact with reason and common sense. They who have money in the bank have been protected against the hysteria of others.

Now We Are Going To Have a New Deal

But beyond this temporary expedient to meet an emergency looms a permanent reorganization of the American banking system that is long overdue. Not a bank failure in England in her darkest days; thousands in America—and that is due to the fact that the English people have faith in their banking system and Americans do not.

They do not because of practices by American bankers, particularly the big ones, that have come to light. These practices in part are simply stupid; in part they are vicious and must be made criminal.

Only yesterday any publicist or public man who said this would have been called a demagogue; any one who does not say it today would be called a fool.

For three years, as we repeatedly said in these columns, leaders in finance, and we may add, in industry, have had the opportunity to clean house, to initiate their own reforms, to assume an intelligent leadership. As President Roosevelt said in his inaugural address, they failed, because they have shown no vision. They thought that the crisis would pass, leaving them in full possession of the old archaic, selfish instrumentalities of privilege.

Now we are going to have a new deal. Government assumes the leadership, as government should. And when the government of the United States assumes a militant leadership in a clear, strong voice the people take courage and confidence returns.

For the Benefit Of the People

It will be much easier to make these progressive reforms for the benefit of all the people now than it would have been six months ago. There will be no powerful and imposing lobby of "financial experts" in Washington to oppose; for the most imposing members of this lobby are lucky if they can look their fellow citizens in the face today. They are not seeking the spotlight in Washington.

No portion of the press will unctuously quote these gentlemen as opposed to a reform measure as though these gentlemen's opposition damns it.

It is the old historic story—they who have not enough vision to reform themselves have to be reformed. The people are going to take over the people's government for the benefit of the people.

And that merely means an end to privilege. It does not mean anything so stupid as the punishment of any legitimate business.

Action Has Begun!

The people have responded admirably thus far to President Roosevelt's positive leadership. A partisan note at this time would be vicious. We note with satisfaction that Ogden Mills has been giving the new regime the full advantage of his information as former head of the Treasury, and that is admirable.

But there must be a real change—a new deal. A New York minister Sunday—Rev. Dr. Ralph Sockman—said all when he said:

"Putting new men in old systems deserves the same divine criticism as the putting of new wine in old bottles. We must change the system of privilege which continues to corrupt their possessors."

A new deal means a reform of the old system—with privilege left out. Nothing will go so far to restore confidence in business, in banking, in government as the conviction that there is to be a new deal and a square deal for everyone alike.

There was a deep significance in the tense silence of the vast multitude listening to President Roosevelt's fighting speech—they were waiting for the word. They got it.

Her Prayers

If I could but prevail on her
To pray this prayer for me,
I know that love would then confer
Fulfillment of my plea.

And what is now a hope too fair
To flower on this earth,
Like primrose warmed by April air
Would quicken into birth.

If I could prove to her my need,
Insistent, very sore,
Then her pure heart would intercede
For me at heaven's door.

Still gleam like starlight shows.
And in her brooding eyes a light
Like nothing earthly glows.

Why am I certain if she prayed
My answer would be given?
Because her ceaseless prayers have made
A beaten path to heaven!
